

May 17, 2005

Concerning file#4-500 This should be of the utmost priority to become part of the SEC future rulings for serious consideration. I speak as a Stock Investor and American citizen in asking the SEC to do the honorable thing and make the "American Dream" a reachable goal. This can only happen if the stock market "Shorting Investors" are held accountable for their, condoned and sanctioned actions, taken against the Average American Investor; Investors whom lose their hard earned dollars to these electronic manipulative modern day "Carpetbaggers".

How many more struggling companies will go belly up due to their insatiable greed for "Quick profits" stolen from the honest "Working Class" that only wants to insure their Families future with some wisely chosen stock choices. By continuing to ignore this huge problem the "American Dream" will no longer be within any American Citizens right to his or her pursuit of Happiness as is outlined and documented by Constitutional Law. This is a Civil Right that shall not and will not be taken away by any Office of Government & or Federally sanctioned rule of Authority. The SEC and officers must make this happen and should be held accountable to the American Investing Publics best interests. I fore see Two Options open which are; Option #1 Make this happen for the betterment of the Investing Public which they are chosen to represent; Option#2 face relentless Legal Actions issued by the Investing Public as a whole, at a Future date. If my professional Occupation & Integrity were on the firing line, I know I would do the right thing, so must each of you in the future SEC rulings, protect the "American Dream".