Dear Mr. Serrano:

We have reviewed your December 2, 2005 response letter and have the following comment. Where expanded or revised disclosure is requested, you may comply with this comment in future filings. If you disagree, we will consider your explanation as to why our comment is inapplicable or a revision is unnecessary. We also ask you to provide us with supplemental information so we may better understand your disclosure. Please be as detailed as necessary in your explanation. We look forward to working with you in these respects and welcome any questions you may have about any aspects of our review.

Note 1 – Organization, Basis of Presentation and Significant Accounting Policies

Revenue Recognition, page F-14

We note your response to our prior comment #4. You assert the EITF concluded in 91-9 that four of five methods of accounting for freight services are acceptable. However, EITF 91-9 solely states the Task Force reached a consensus that Method 1 was no longer an acceptable method and a change from method 1 to method 2 would not be appropriate because revenue is recognized in advance of performance and liabilities are recognized before they are incurred. You also assert that the AcSEC concluded that the use of any of the other identified accounting methods would not result in a material difference in reported net income. However, EITF 91-9 actually states the proposed Audit and Accounting Guide was not issued by the AICPA because AcSEC believed that the use of any of the other identified methods (i.e., methods other than 3 and 5) would not result in a material difference in reported net income. It appears AcSEC did not object to the other identified methods because they presumed they would not differ materially from methods 3 and 5. Method 2 results in revenue recognition prior to the performance of service. We do not object to use of this method if it does not materially impact your financial statements as compared to the methods that recognize revenues when service is complete or as service is provided and which were tentatively concluded as acceptable by the AcSEC in the EITF. This is consistent with the guidance in paragraph 83(b) of CONS 6, which states revenues are not recognized until earned, and SAB Topic 13(A)(1), which states the staff believes that revenue generally is earned when delivery has occurred or services have been rendered. We reissue our prior comment. Please expand disclosure in the financial statements to provide management's representation that the use of method 2 over a preferable method has not materially impacted the historical financial statements on both a quarterly and annual basis. This disclosure is consistent with disclosures that have been made by other transportation providers using method 2. In the alternative, if material, we believe you should change to a preferable method. Please revise accordingly.

We urge all persons who are responsible for the accuracy and adequacy of the disclosure in the filing reviewed by the staff to be certain that they have provided all information investors require for an informed decision. - the company is responsible for the adequacy and accuracy of the disclosure in the filing;
