4. Related party transactions:

The terms of the Limited Company Operating Agreement provide that the Managing Member and/or affiliates are entitled to receive certain fees for equipment acquisition, management and resale and for management of the Company.

The Limited Liability Company Operating Agreement allows for the reimbursement of costs incurred by the Managing Member in providing services to the Company. Services provided include Company accounting, investor relations, legal counsel and lease and equipment documentation. The Managing Member is not reimbursed for services where it is entitled to receive a separate fee as compensation for such services, such as acquisition and management of equipment. Reimbursable costs incurred by the Managing Member are allocated to the Company based upon actual time incurred by employees working on Company business and an allocation of rent and other costs based on utilization studies.

Substantially all employees of the Managing Member record time incurred in performing services on behalf of all of the Companies serviced by the Managing Member. The Managing Member believes that the costs reimbursed are the lower of (i) actual costs incurred on behalf of the Company or (ii) the amount the Company would be required to pay independent parties for comparable administrative services in the same geographic location and are reimbursable in accordance with the Limited Liability Company Operating Agreement.

Draws on the acquisition facility by any individual borrower are secured only by that borrower's assets, including equipment and related leases. Borrowings on the warehouse facility are recourse jointly to certain of the affiliated partnerships and limited liability companies, the Company and the General Partner.

The credit agreement includes certain financial covenants applicable to each borrower. The Company was in compliance with its covenants as of June 30, 2003.

7. Commitments:

As of June 30, 2003, the Company had outstanding commitments to purchase lease equipment totaling approximately $29,751,000.

Item 2. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

Statements contained in this Item 2, "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations," and elsewhere in this Form 10-Q, which are not historical facts, may be forward-looking statements. Such statements are subject to risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from those projected. Investors are cautioned not to attribute undue certainty to these forward-looking statements, which speak only as of the date of this Form 10-Q. We undertake no obligation to publicly release any revisions to these forward-looking statements to reflect events or circumstances after the date of this Form 10-Q or to reflect the occurrence of unanticipated events, other than as required by law.

Capital Resources and Liquidity

During the second quarter of 2003, the Company's primary activity was engaging in equipment leasing activities. During the second quarter of 2002, the Company's primary activities were raising funds through its offering of Limited Liability Company Units (Units) and engaging in equipment leasing activities. Through January 15, 2003, the Company had received subscriptions for 12,065,266 Units ($120,652,660). The Company's offering was terminated as of that date. As of June 30, 2003, 12,065,016 Units ($120,650,160) were issued and outstanding.

During the funding period, the Company's primary source of liquidity is subscription proceeds from the public offering of Units. The liquidity of the Company will vary in the future, increasing to the extent cash flows from leases exceed expenses, and decreasing as lease assets are acquired, as distributions are made to the members and to the extent expenses exceed cash flows from leases.

As another source of liquidity, the Company has contractual obligations with a diversified group of lessees for fixed lease terms at fixed rental amounts. As the initial lease terms expire, the Company will re-lease or sell the equipment. The future liquidity beyond the contractual minimum rentals will depend on the Managing Member's success in re-leasing or selling the equipment as it comes off lease.

The Company participates with the Managing Member and certain of its affiliates in a $56,736,746 revolving line of credit with a financial institution that includes certain financial covenants. The line of credit expires on June 28, 2004. As of June 30, 2003, borrowings under the facility were as follows:

Amount borrowed by the Company under the acquisition facility Amounts borrowed by affiliated partnerships and limited liability companies under the acquisition	$ -
facility	26,500,000
Total borrowings under the acquisition facility	26,500,000
Amounts borrowed by the Managing Member and its sister corporation under the warehouse facility
Total outstanding balance	$ 26,500,000
Total available under the line of credit Total outstanding balance	$ 56,736,746 (26,500,000)
Remaining availability	$ 30,236,746

Draws on the acquisition facility by any individual borrower are secured only by that borrower's assets, including equipment and related leases. Borrowings on the warehouse facility are recourse jointly to certain of the affiliated partnerships and limited liability companies, the Company and the Managing Member.

The Company anticipates reinvesting a portion of lease payments from assets owned in new leasing transactions. Such reinvestment will occur only after the payment of all obligations, including debt service (both principal and interest), the payment of management and acquisition fees to the Managing Member and providing for cash distributions to the members.

The Company currently has available adequate reserves to meet contingencies, but in the event those reserves were found to be inadequate, the Company would likely be in a position to borrow against its current portfolio to meet such requirements. The Managing Member envisions no such requirements for operating purposes.

No commitments of capital have been or are expected to be made other than for the acquisition of additional equipment. As of June 30, 2003, such commitments totaled approximately $29,742,000.

If inflation in the general economy becomes significant, it may affect the Company inasmuch as the residual (resale) values and rates on re-leases of the Company's leased assets may increase as the costs of similar assets increase. However, the Company's revenues from existing leases would not increase, as such rates are generally fixed for the terms of the leases without adjustment for inflation.

If interest rates increase significantly, the lease rates that the Company can obtain on future leases will be expected to increase as the cost of capital is a significant factor in the pricing of lease financing. Leases already in place, for the most part, would not be affected by changes in interest rates.

In August 2002, the Company established a $100 million receivables funding program with a receivables financing company that issues commercial paper rated A1 from Standard and Poors and P1 from Moody's Investor Services. In this receivables funding program, the lenders would receive liens against the Company's assets. The lender will be in a first position against certain specified assets and will be in either a subordinated or shared position against the remaining assets. The program provides for borrowing at a variable interest rate and requires the Managing Member, on behalf of the Company, to enter into interest rate swap agreements with certain hedge counterparties (also rated A1/P1) to mitigate the interest rate risk associated with a variable interest rate note. The Managing Member anticipates that this program will allow the Company to have a more cost effective means of obtaining debt financing than available for individual non-recourse debt transactions. As of June 30, 2003, the Company had not borrowed under the facility.

Cash Flows

During the first half of 2003 and 2002, the Company's primary source of liquidity was the proceeds of its offering of Units.

In 2003 and 2002, the primary source of cash from operations was rents from operating leases.

In 2003, the primary source of cash from investing activities was proceeds from the sales of lease assets. In 2002, rents from direct financing leases and payments received on notes receivable were the primary sources of cash from investing activities. Uses of cash for investing activities consisted of cash used to purchase operating and direct financing lease assets, payments of initial direct costs associated with the lease asset purchases and advances on notes receivable (2002 only).

In 2003 and 2002, the primary source of cash from financing activities was the proceeds of the Company's public offering of Units of Limited Liability Company interest. Financing uses of cash consisted of payments of syndication costs associated with the offering and distributions to the members.

Results of operations

In 2003, operations resulted in net income of $430,310 for the six month period ended June 30 and $239,830 for the three month period then ended. In 2002, operations resulted in net income of $415,647 for the six month period ended June 30 and $336,926 for the three month period then ended. The Company's primary source of revenues is from operating leases.

Depreciation is related to operating lease assets and thus, to operating lease revenues. They are expected to increase in future periods as acquisitions continue.

Asset management fees are based on the gross lease rents of the Company plus proceeds from the sales of lease assets. Such fees are limited to certain percentages of lease rents, distributions to members and certain other items. As assets are acquired, lease rents are collected and distributions are made to the members, these fees are expected to increase.

Interest expense in 2003 relates to the cost of maintaining the availability of the long-term financing facility discussed above under the caption "Capital Resources and Liquidity". Interest expense for the first half of 2002 related to the borrowings under the line of credit incurred by an affiliate of the Managing Member. Interest expense for the first half of 2002 included all amounts related to those borrowings related transactions transferred to the Company. All of the revenues and related carrying costs for these transactions were attributed to the Company in the same periods.

Results of operations in future periods are expected to vary considerably from those of the first half of 2003 and 2002 as the Company continues to acquire significant amounts of lease assets.

Item 3. Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures of Market Risk.

The Company, like most other companies, is exposed to certain market risks, including primarily changes in interest rates. The Company believes its exposure to other market risks, including foreign currency exchange rate risk, commodity risk and equity price risk, are insignificant to both its financial position and results of operations.

In general, the Company expects to manage its exposure to interest rate risk by obtaining fixed rate debt. The fixed rate debt is structured so as to match the cash flows required to service the debt to the payment streams under fixed rate lease receivables. The payments under the leases are assigned to the lenders in satisfaction of the debt. Furthermore, the Managing Member has historically been able to maintain a stable spread between its cost of funds and lease yields in both periods of rising and falling interest rates. Nevertheless, the Company expects to frequently fund leases with its floating interest rate line of credit and will, therefore, be exposed to interest rate risk until fixed rate financing is arranged, or the floating interest rate line of credit is repaid. As of June 30, 2003, there was no outstanding balance on the floating interest rate line of credit.

The Company entered into a receivables funding facility in 2002. Since interest on the outstanding balances under the facility will vary, the Company will be exposed to market risks associated with changing interest rates. To hedge its interest rate risk, the Company expects to enter into interest rate swaps, which will effectively convert the underlying interest characteristic on the facility from floating to fixed. Under the swap agreements, the Company expects to make or receive variable interest payments to or from the counterparty based on a notional principal amount. The net differential paid or received by the Company is recognized as an adjustment to interest expense related to the facility balances. The amount paid or received will represent the difference between the payments required under the variable interest rate facility and the amounts due under the facility at the fixed (hedged) interest rate. There were no borrowings under this facility as of June 30, 2003.

In general, it is anticipated that these swap agreements will eliminate the Company's interest rate risk associated with variable rate borrowings. However, the Company would be exposed to and would manage credit risk associated with the counterparty by dealing only with institutions it considers financially sound.

Item 4. Controls and procedures.

Internal Controls

As of June 30, 2003, an evaluation was performed under the supervision and with the participation of the Company's management, including the CEO and CFO of the Managing Member, of the effectiveness of the design and operation of the Company's disclosure controls and procedures. Based on that evaluation, the Company's management, including the CEO and CFO of the Managing Member, concluded that the Company's disclosure controls and procedures were effective as of June 30, 2003. There have been no significant changes in the Company's internal controls or in other factors that could significantly affect internal controls subsequent to June 30, 2003.

Changes in internal controls

There have been no significant changes in our internal controls or in other factors that could significantly affect our disclosure controls and procedures subsequent to the evaluation date, nor were there any significant deficiencies or material weaknesses in our internal controls.

Evaluation of disclosure controls and procedures

Under the supervision and with the participation of our management, including the CEO and CFO, an evaluation of the effectiveness of the design and operation of the Company's disclosure controls and procedures, as defined in Rules 240.13a-14(c) and 15d-14(c) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 was performed as of a date within ninety days before the filing date of this quarterly report. Based upon this evaluation, the CEO and CFO of the Managing Member concluded that, as of the evaluation date, our disclosure controls and procedures were effective for the purposes of recording, processing, summarizing and timely reporting information required to be disclosed by us in the reports that we file under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and that such information is accumulated and communicated to our management in order to allow timely decisions regarding required disclosure.

PART II. OTHER INFORMATION

Item 1. Legal Proceedings.

Silicon Access Networks, Inc.:

Silicon Access Networks, Inc. ("Debtor") advised the Company on July 8, 2002, that, due to a further decline in expectations of future demand for the Debtor's products by potential customers in its target markets, the Debtor's Board of Directors had directed management to cease operations, which occurred in July 2002. As Debtor was current on the Note payments, the Company declared a technical default in early July 2002 on the basis of the termination of operations. As of September 30, 2002, the Debtor's account was current except for late charges. The Company filed suit, on the basis of the default, and moved for a Writ of Attachment, which was denied despite repeated attempts by the Company. The Company's motions were denied, due in large part to the fact that the Debtor's account was, and still is, current.

On advice of new counsel the Company has withdrawn the initial suit, as it is apparent that the court will continue to deny any Writ of Attachment until and unless the lessee actually defaults in payments. As of July 17, 2003, the account is current. The Company is monitoring the debtor's cash position, monthly, as it will run out of cash sometime in the late summer of 2003, unless it raises new equity or debt or is acquired. The Company's likelihood of success in recovering the full amount of its claims remains highly uncertain.

Photuris, Inc.:

Photuris, a Debtor of the Company, was on the verge of ceasing operations as it was unable to secure new equity under favorable terms when the Company commenced negotiations with the Debtor. As of June 30, 2003, no legal action has been initiated against the debtor; however, the account has been restructured. In concert with several other lessors and lenders, the Company concluded negotiations and executed a Settlement Agreement with the Debtor. Under the terms of the Settlement Agreement, the Company received an initial $200,000 in cash in July 2002. The Company is carrying a promissory note from the Debtor for $300,000 that is payable interest only at prime plus 1.25% from August 1, 2002 to October 2003, at which time payments will convert to an equal principal plus interest basis, spread over 36 months.

The Company has been granted $200,000 worth of new equity shares in Photuris as the final part of the settlement. The Company still retains its perfected first priority lien on the equipment financed by the Company. As of early October 2002, the Company became aware that Photuris had not yet closed on receiving additional equity and was in danger of running out of operating capital in early November 2002. The Company has confirmed with the lead investor in Photuris' latest equity round that the investors have agreed to provide additional equity to allow Photuris to continue to operate; however, this commitment, for up to $15 million, is being provided in stages on a quarterly basis if certain milestones are met. The Company has confirmed that Photuris received the first stage of this new equity in November 2002. Follow on rounds, which have allowed Photuris to continue operations for a few more months at a time, have closed in February and May 2003, with another to close in late July or early August 2003. Continued receipt of these staged equity investments will allow Photuris to operate into the fourth quarter 2003.
