

These charts generally show how investments help fund game development and how sales receipts will be shared.

HOW INVESTING WORKS

- ① Investors invest in Fig securities related to the game Phoenix Point.
- ② Fig provides a development amount (Fig Funds) to the Developer.
- ③ Provided the game is successfully developed and published, the Developer will pay Fig a revenue share on sales receipts received by the Developer.

Fig's revenue share is 50% of sales receipts before 1.36x the Fig Funds is returned; after that, Fig's revenue share is 25% of sales receipts until (i) a total of 3x the Fig Funds is returned or (ii) 3 years after commercial launch of the game, whichever occurs first.

- ④ Fig then pays out 85% of these revenues to shareholders of Fig securities related to Phoenix Point.

If any assumptions behind these estimates prove to be incorrect, or if any costs not accounted for prove to be material, then the point at which an investor would break even, and other points on this graph, could be substantially higher than estimated. Be cautious and do not place undue emphasis on forward-looking statements in making your investment decisions. The number of PC owners of comparison games, sourced from Steamspy and Fig estimates, is presented solely to help indicate how many units of the current game might be sold. However, the number of PC owners may not be a reliable indicator of the number of sales made, the comparability of games is based on our judgment and may not be reliable, and none of these data evidence the financial performance of the comparison games. As a result, past sales of other games may not be relevant to an assessment of the current game, and past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance.

Introduction

Phoenix Point is the new strategy game from the creator of the original X-COM series. It features turn based tactics and world based strategy in a fight against a terrifying, alien menace.

2022 - The Pandoravirus Unleashed

An unusual virus discovered in melting permafrost excites the scientific community. It has a massive genome, and only 1% of its genes match anything in existing databases.

“What the hell is going on with the other genes?” asks researcher Jean-Michel Moreau. “This opens a Pandora’s box. What kinds of discoveries are going to come from studying the contents?”

The seas transform in something totally alien. Then the mutagens began to invade the land via an airborne microbial mist.

2057 - Present Day

The human population has been decimated. Survivors gather in layouts based on the facilities and structures located at havens, phoenix bases and alien bases. Everything is potentially destructible.

» Geoscape

The geoscape gives you a strategic view of the world situation. From here you plan all your operations, construction, research and missions. Exploration is an important initial objective. You must attempt to make contact with havens, discover scavenging sites and locate special Phoenix Project sites. You can monitor the thick microbial mist rolling in from the sea which represents an increased threat of alien activity.

» Missions

There are a great many types of missions and objectives, often based on interactions with the other human factions. Havens will frequently request assistance fighting off alien incursions, but sometimes you will be asked to intervene in a conflict between the human factions. You will get involved in kidnaps, rescues, assassinations, sabotage, infiltration, haven takeovers and base defence missions. You will need to find out what happened to the Phoenix organisation, which involves remote locations and some missions with an archaeological aspect. Then there are the assaults on alien bases and the giant alien land walkers.

Human Factions

The world of Phoenix Point is divided into several large factions dominated by charismatic leaders or powerful ideologies. They each harbour secrets which may provide clues for solving the problem of the alien menace.

» DISCIPLES OF ANU

The Disciples of Anu worship an alien god and are ruled by an enigmatic high priest. Their communion ritual involves subjugating followers to alien mutation.

▶▶ NEW JERICO

New Jericho is a militaristic order led by a veteran mercenary and former billionaire. They believe they can build a force to challenge the alien domination of the land.

» SYNEDRION

Synedrion is a radical ecological group who believe that they can create a new and better civilization from the ruins of the old. They have the most advanced technology, but they guard it vigilantly.

All the Fig funds will be used to build content and enhance the quality of the game.

Snapshot Games

Snapshot Games Inc. was established in 2013 by Julian Gollop, veteran designer of the original X-COM games, and David Kaye, the founder of Gaming Insiders. In 2014 we raised $210k on Kickstarter for our first project, Chaos Reborn, and we set up a studio in Sofia, Bulgaria, where Julian has been living for 11 years. Snapshot Games Sofia is a team of 9 talented developers with many years experience, including veterans for Ubisoft Sofia, Crytek Black Sea and other Bulgarian studios.

Collaborators

Composer John Broomhall composed the music for the original X-COM series, and he is going to work his magic for Phoenix Point.

Writer Jonas Kyratzes recently co-wrote Croteam's The Talos Principle and Road to Gehenna. He is currently working on Serious Sam 4.

Writer Allen Stroud has previously worked on Elite Dangerous world building and novelisation, and was the lead writer on Snapshot's Chaos Reborn.

Announcing Phoenix Point

From the creator of X-COM - Julian Gollop!

We've just posted a Backstage Pass page for Phoenix Point, a turn-based tactics and strategy game from the creator of the original X-COM series!

Phoenix Point is a spiritual successor to X-COM: UFO Defense in which players must manage an elite unit of scientists, engineers, and soldiers to fend off the alien Pandoravirus and deal with other human factions across the planet.

The human population has been decimated in the year 2057, the era when the game is set. Survivors gather in isolated havens spread throughout the world. A few factions control most of the havens and resources, but they have radically contrasting ideologies and guard deep secrets.

Announcing Phoenix Point

From the creator of X-COM - Julian Gollop!

Remember this icon that you added to your cart a while back?

This add-on grants you access to Fig's First Look Club! This club gives you the opportunity to participate in exclusive reward tiers, and to place a priority reservation to invest in returns from this game - while the campaign is still in a private and confidential state. If we receive enough interest, we'll register the Fig Game Shares for this title with the SEC so that everyone can invest! And you'll have reserved your spot in this offering prior to the campaign going public.

We've just posted our first project to use Fig's First Look Club - Phoenix Point, a turn-based tactics and strategy game from the creator of the original X-COM series!

Phoenix Point is a spiritual successor to X-COM: UFO Defense in which players must manage an elite unit of scientists, engineers, and soldiers to fend off the alien Pandoravirus and deal with other human factions across the planet.

The human population has been decimated in the year 2057, the era when the game is set. Survivors gather in isolated havens spread throughout the world. A few factions control most of the havens and resources, but they have radically contrasting ideologies and guard deep secrets.

Have feedback on the campaign content or investment terms? We'd like to hear from you! Please provide your feedback in the comments section of the campaign.

Announcing Phoenix Point

From the creator of X-COM - Julian Gollop!

The creator of X-COM Julian Gollop and his team Snapshot Games have posted details for their new game Phoenix Point on Fig!

Phoenix Point is a spiritual successor to X-COM: UFO Defense in which players must manage an elite unit of scientists, engineers, and soldiers to fend off the alien Pandoravirus and deal with other human factions across the planet. The human population has been decimated in the year 2057. Survivors gather in isolated havens spread throughout the world. A few factions control most of the havens and resources, but they have radically contrasting ideologies and guard deep secrets.

Phoenix Point brings many advances to the genre - procedurally generated enemies that mutate in response to your tactics, epic boss battles, gargantuan landwalkers, a V.A.T.S.-style targeting, and more!
