Mr. Kaczmarczyk is a legend, and amazing, ambitious, resourceful person who makes things happen. With over 30+ years in the business, traveler of the world, peacemaker and innovator of technique and business innovation, he is a partner any filmmaker or entertainment entity would want to be in business in. His charming personality and deep intellect shines amongst the best. There's a reason he's been in Hollywood and a mainstay. He is my friend, my mentor and great person.

Omar has the rare combination of a one-track mind and a vastly diverse range of interests, which usually are mutually-exclusive personality traits. Never demand a yes-or-no answer from him in the first five minutes of a conversation...because three seconds later, he'll come up with a wildly creative suggestion that gets you most of what you want, for one-third what you were expecting to spend, and solves your problem in a way that leaves you slack-jawed and wondering, "How did he think of that?" Omar supplied production funding advice to more than 140 film projects for a reason: People who knew him, realized he would sit dead still for five minutes looking like a total grouch while being told their problems, then dream up the idea that made their project workable.
