Bruce Kramer

Managing Partner at TBJ Gourmet
West Chester

Summary

As a founder of TBJ Gourmet it has been a exciting time for me. Transitioning into the food business is something that was an unexpected change of course for my life. But you know what? Slinging Bacon is fun! I obviously need to update this profile badly, so I wrote this section. I will get to it soon, but luckily I am not looking for a job so I don't think it is critical.

Dynamic technologist with diverse background who utilizes creativity, communication, and teamwork to develop, execute, and deliver solutions that create customer value. Effective communicator who is able to work with customers and understand their business requirements, which can then be implemented to develop successful solutions that convey value for both clients and end users.

Cadre Technologies

Senior Field Sales Engineer

1990 - 1997 (7 years)

Cadre offered the premier suite of tools and support for software engineering -- in the early days of "Structured Methods" when formalized software development advocates used the models for documenting architecture and process flow. Later years included support for the advent of object languages with embedded development tools as well as debuggers and build platforms for C, C++, Ada, and other object based languages. My responsibilities included pre-sales work, presentations, evangelizing, consulting, start-up training, seminar development and delivery, as well as on-going post sales work with customers.
