Cash Flow Analysis

1. It is not clear how your disclosure concisely explains the decrease in operating cash flows between the fiscal periods presented. Your disclosure references net income, non-cash items, and changes in operating assets and liabilities, and repeats changes disclosed in the statements of cash flows. Note that references to these items may not provide a sufficient basis to understand how operating cash actually was affected between periods. Your discussion should be a comparative analysis between periods that discusses all material factors that actually affected operating cash. Also, your analysis should discuss the reasons for underlying factors cited, particularly in regard to changes for which the impact on cash is not readily apparent. Please revise your disclosure as appropriate. Refer to

Item 303(b) of Regulation S-K, the introductory paragraph of section IV.B and B.1 of Release No. 33-8350 for guidance, and section 501.04 of our Codification of Financial Reporting Releases regarding quantification of variance factors. Consider the preceding in regard to the analysis of changes in operating cash flows for interim periods (e.g., for the fiscal period ended April 2, 2023).

In closing, we remind you that the company and its management are responsible for the accuracy and adequacy of their disclosures, notwithstanding any review, comments, action or absence of action by the staff.
