About

I am a Partner in Goldberg Segalla's Intellectual Property group, with a particular focus on Hatch-Waxman patent litigation.

I represent companies across a broad range of industries and technologies in a variety of patent, trademark, false advertising, trade secret and copyright cases in federal district courts and courts of appeals throughout the country, as well as the International Trade Commission.

With over twenty-five years of experience, I have been lead counsel and second-chair in over 15 bench and jury trials and evidentiary hearings. I also have argued before United States Courts of Appeals and the New York appellate division.

In addition to my intellectual property litigation practice, I enjoy working with start-ups and companies of all sizes regarding patent procurement and clearance, and domestic and international trademark prosecution and licensing.

I write and present frequently in my practice, and was named a "Life Sciences Star"/"IP Star" by Managing Intellectual Property in 2013 - 2017, and a "New York Super Lawyer" in 2012 - 2017 for Intellectual Property Litigation. Among other organizations, I am a member of the New York Intellectual Property Law Association's Amicus Briefs Committee and on the advisory board of Bloomberg/BNA's "Life Sciences Law & Industry Report."

I live in Brooklyn with my wife and three daughters, and enjoy running marathons and triathlons, including several New York City and Boston marathons, and the inaugural New York City/U.S. National Championship Ironman.

Practice areas: Hatch-Waxman patent litigation; life sciences patent litigation; general patent litigation - e.g. consumer electronics, software, business methods, medical devices; trademark, false advertising and unfair competition litigation and counseling; International Trade Commission.
