WINNING PORTFOLIO

Ford Pickups

As the segment leader, F-Series is on a record setting pace with sales up 4.1 percent over the first half of 2018, a then record year for F-Series, with 939,511 pickups sold. Transaction prices are the highest of any full-size pickup manufacturer, $46,800

Ford Sport Utility Vehicles

EcoSport had its best month since launch, with 6,756 vehicles sold, a 23.3 percent gain over May figures. Our highly profitable all-new Ford Expedition posted a strong retail gain of 37.3 percent in the first half of the year, while June retail sales were up 20.7 percent

Ford Performance

As America and the world's best-selling sports car for three years running, Mustang sales gained 19.6 percent last month. Redesigned late last year, Mustang is a top seller with all buyers, offering both an EcoBoost 4-cyl., about 45 percent of sales, and the traditional 5.0-liter V8.

Ford Commercial Vans

Ford dominates the U.S. commercial van segment with 39 years as America's best-selling van. Transit posted an increase of 25.0 percent, for a total of 13,533 vehicles sold. Ford overall van sales, including Transit, E-Series and Connect, hit 20,381 Vans – up 8.2 percent.

Lincoln

Navigator continues its strong momentum with retail sales up 115.5 percent through the first half of the year, as Lincoln works to keep up with demand. Lincoln is seeing strongest demand for its most exclusive trim levels, with 80 percent of the retail mix coming from Reserve and Black Label, pushing a $27,000 increase in transaction pricing.
