RISK FACTORS

These forward-looking statements are based on current expectations, estimates and projections about our industry, management's beliefs and assumptions made by management. Words such as "anticipates," "expects," "intends," "plans," "believes," "seeks," "estimates," variations of such words and similar expressions are intended to identify such forward-looking statements. These statements are not guarantees of future performance and are subject to certain risks, uncertainties and assumptions that are difficult to predict.

Accordingly, actual results may differ materially from those expressed or forecasted in any such forward-looking statements. Such risks and uncertainties include those risk factors and such other uncertainties noted in the prospectus and in the documents incorporated herein by reference. New Frontier Media assumes no obligation to update publicly any forward-looking statements, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise.

Limits on our access to distribution channels could cause us to lose subscriber revenues and adversely affect our operating performance.

Our satellite uplink provider's services are critical to us. If our satellite uplink provider fails to provide the contracted uplinking services, our satellite programming operations would in all likelihood be suspended, resulting in a loss of substantial revenue to the Company. If our satellite uplink provider improperly manages its uplink facilities, we could experience signal disruptions and other quality problems that, if not immediately addressed, could cause us to lose subscribers and subscriber revenues.

Our continued access to satellite transponders is critical to us. Our satellite programming operations require continued access to satellite transponders to transmit programming to our subscribers. We also use satellite transponders to transmit programming to cable operators and DBS providers. Material limitations to satellite transponder capacity could materially adversely affect our operating performance. Access to transponders may be restricted or denied if:

- we or the satellite owner is indicted or otherwise charged as a defendant in a criminal proceeding;
- the FCC issues an order initiating a proceeding to revoke the satellite owner's authorization to operate the satellite;
- the satellite owner is ordered by a court or governmental authority to deny us access to the transponder;
- we are deemed by a governmental authority to have violated any obscenity law; or
- our satellite transponder provider determines that the content of our programming is harmful to its name or business.

In addition to the above, the access of our networks to transponders may be restricted or denied if a governmental authority commences an investigation concerning the content of the transmissions.

Our ability to convince cable operators and DBS providers to carry our programming is critical to us. The primary way for us to expand our cable subscriber base is to convince additional cable operators and DBS providers to carry our programming. We can give no assurance, however, that our efforts to increase our base of subscribers will be successful.

If we are unable to compete effectively with our primary Cable/DBS competitor, who has significantly greater resources than us, we will not be able to increase subscriber revenues.

Our ability to increase subscriber revenues and operate profitably, is directly related to our ability to compete effectively with Playboy, our principal competitor. Playboy has significantly greater financial, sales, marketing and other resources to devote to the development, promotion and sale of its cable programming products, as well as a longer operating history and broader name recognition, than we do. We compete with Playboy as to the editing standards of its programming, network performance in terms of subscriber buy rates and the license fees that we offer to cable operators and DBS providers.

If we are unable to compete effectively with our primary Internet competitors, some of whom have significantly greater resources than us, we will not be able to increase our web site membership revenues.

Our ability to increase our Internet web site membership revenues is directly related to our ability to compete effectively with our Internet competitors. Some of these competitors have significantly greater financial, sales, marketing and other resources to devote to the development, promotion and sale of their web site subscriptions, as well as a longer operating history and broader name recognition, than we do. We compete with other adult-content web sites as to the editing standards of their programming and the subscription fees that are offered to web site members. In this regard, to the extent that the availability of free adult content on the Internet increases, it may negatively impact our ability to attract fee-paying members.

In addition, our Internet operations benefit from, and compete with our competitors for, traffic arrangements with third party webmasters who direct traffic to our Internet sites. These traffic arrangements are short-term in nature and, as such, are subject to rapid change. No assurances can be given that we will be able to continue our arrangements with our affiliated webmasters or that these arrangements will continue to be profitable for us.

If we are unable to compete effectively with other forms of adult and non-adult entertainment, we will also not be able to increase subscriber revenue.

Our ability to increase revenue is also related to our ability to compete effectively with other forms of adult and non-adult entertainment. We face competition in the adult entertainment industry from other providers of adult programming, adult video rentals and sales, newspapers and magazines aimed at adult consumers, adult oriented telephone chat lines, and adult oriented Internet services. To a lesser extent, we also face general competition from other forms of non-adult entertainment, including sporting and cultural events, other television networks, feature films and other programming.

Our ability to compete depends on many factors, some of which are outside of our control. These factors include the quality and appeal of our competitors' content, the technology utilized by our competitors, the effectiveness of their sales and marketing efforts and the attractiveness of their product offerings.

Our existing competitors, as well as potential new competitors, may have significantly greater financial, technical and marketing resources than we do. This may allow them to devote greater resources than we can to the development and promotion of their product offerings. These competitors may also engage in more extensive technology research and development and adopt more aggressive pricing policies for their subscription-based content. Additionally, increased competition could result in price reductions, lower margins and negatively impact our financial results.

We may be liable for the content we make available on the Internet.

Because of the adult-oriented content of our web sites, we may be subject to obscenity or other legal claims by third parties. We may also be subject to claims based upon the content that is available on our web sites through links to other sites. Our business, financial condition and operating results could be harmed if we were found liable for this content. Implementing measures to reduce our exposure to this liability may require us to take steps that would substantially limit the attractiveness of our web sites and/or their availability in various geographic areas, which would negatively impact their ability to generate revenue. Furthermore, our insurance may not adequately protect us against all of these types of claims.

Disruption of our Internet services due to security breaches or other system failures could result in less traffic at our web sites and subscriber cancellations.

The uninterrupted performance of our computer systems is critical to the operation of our web sites. Our computer systems for our Internet services are located in Southern California and, as such, are vulnerable to earthquakes, fire, floods, power loss, telecommunications failures and other similar catastrophes. In addition, we may have to restrict access to our web sites to solve problems caused by computer viruses, security breaches or other system failures. Our customers may become dissatisfied by any systems disruption or failure that interrupts our ability to provide our content. Repeated system failures could substantially reduce the attractiveness of our web sites and/or interfere with commercial transactions, negatively impacting their ability to generate revenues.

Our web sites must accommodate a high volume of traffic and deliver regularly updated content. Our sites have, on occasion, experienced slower response times and network failures. These types of occurrences in the future could cause users to perceive our web sites as not functioning properly and therefore cause them to frequent other Internet web sites. In addition, our customers depend on their own Internet service providers for access to our web sites. To the extent that they experience outages or other difficulties accessing our web sites due to system disruptions or failures unrelated to our systems our revenues could be negatively impacted.

Our insurance policies may not adequately compensate us for any losses that may occur due to any failures in our service providers' systems or interruptions in our Internet services.

Increased government regulation in the United States and abroad could impede our ability to deliver our content and expand our business.

New laws or regulations relating to the Internet, or the new application of existing laws, could decrease the growth in the use of our web sites, prevent us from making our content available in various jurisdictions or otherwise have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and operating results. These new laws or regulations may relate to liability for information retrieved from or transmitted over the Internet, taxation, user privacy and other matters relating to our products and services. Moreover, the application to the Internet of existing laws governing issues such as intellectual property ownership and infringement, pornography, obscenity, libel, employment and personal privacy is uncertain and developing.

Cable system operators could become subject to new governmental regulations that could further restrict their ability to broadcast our programming. If new regulations make it more difficult for cable operators to broadcast our programming our operating performance would be adversely affected.

The change to a Republican administration in Washington D.C. could result in increased government regulation of our business. It is not possible for us to predict what new governmental regulations we may be subject to in the future.

Continued imposition of tighter processing restrictions by the various card associations and acquiring banks would make it more difficult to generate revenues from our websites.

Our ability to accept credit cards as a form of payment for our products and services is critical to us. With the ongoing efforts of the card associations to restrict the processing of credit cards for online adult-related content, we must continue to invest heavily in new technologies to better profile against fraud. Unlike a merchant handling a sales transaction in a card present environment, the e-commerce merchant is 100% responsible for all fraud perpetrated against them.

Our ability to accept credit cards as a form of payment for our products and services has been or could further be restricted or denied for a number of reasons, including but not limited to:

- Visa Tier 1 capital ratio requirements for financial institutions have significantly reduced the total dollar sales volume of Visa activity any bank can process in any given month;
- Visa Tier 1 capital ratio requirements for financial institutions have significantly restricted the level of adult-related Internet activity a particular bank may be allowed to process in any given month;
- if we experience excessive chargebacks and/or credits;
- if we experience excessive fraud ratios;
- there is a breach of our security resulting in theft of credit card data;
- there is a change in policy of the acquiring banks and/or card associations with respect to the processing of credit card charges for adult-related content;
- continued tightening of credit card association chargeback regulations in international areas of commerce;
- association requirements for new technologies that consumers are less likely to use;
- an increasing number of European and U.S. banks will not take accounts with adult-related content

In this regard we note that American Express has instituted a policy of not processing credit card charges for online adult-related content. To the extent other credit card processing companies were to implement a similar policy it could have a material adverse effect on our business operations and financial condition.

If we are not able to retain our key executives it will be more difficult for us to manage our operations and our operating performance could be adversely affected.

As a small company with approximately 180 employees, our success depends upon the contributions of our executive officers and our other key technical personnel. The loss of the services of any of our executive officers or other key personnel could have a significant adverse effect on our business and operating results. We cannot assure that New Frontier Media will be successful in attracting and retaining these personnel. It may also be more difficult for us to attract and recruit new personnel due to the adult nature of our business.

Our inability to identify, fund the investment in, and commercially exploit new technology could have an adverse impact on our financial condition.

We are engaged in a business that has experienced tremendous technological change over the past several years. As a result, we face all the risks inherent in businesses that are subject to rapid technological advancement, such as the possibility that a technology that we have invested in may become obsolete. In that event, we may be required to invest in new technology. Our inability to identify, fund the investment in, and commercially exploit such new technology could have an adverse impact on our financial condition. Our ability to implement our business plan and to achieve the results projected by management will be dependent upon management's ability to predict technological advances and implement strategies to take advantage of such changes.

Negative publicity, lawsuits or boycotts by opponents of adult content could adversely affect our operating performance and discourage investors from investing in our publicly traded securities.

We could become a target of negative publicity, lawsuits or boycotts by one or more advocacy groups who oppose the distribution of "adult entertainment." These groups have mounted negative publicity campaigns, filed lawsuits and encouraged boycotts against companies whose businesses involve adult entertainment. The costs of defending against any such negative publicity, lawsuits or boycotts could be significant, could hurt our finances and could discourage investors from investing in our publicly traded securities. To date, we have not been a target of any of these advocacy groups. As a leading provider of adult entertainment, we can not assure you that we may not become a target in the future.

Because we are involved in the adult programming business, it may be more difficult for us to raise money or attract market support for our stock.

Some investors, investment banking entities, market makers, lenders and others in the investment community may decide not to provide financing to us, or to participate in our public market or other activities due to the nature of our business, which, in turn, may hurt the value of our stock, and our ability to attract market support.

Because it may be difficult to effect a change in control of New Frontier Media without current management's consent, a potential suitor who otherwise might be willing to pay a premium for acquiring our company may decide not to attempt an acquisition of New Frontier Media.

Issuance of a poison-pill or a large block of preferred stock with voting rights could have the effect of delaying, deferring or preventing a change in control of New Frontier Media. Potential suitors who otherwise might be willing to pay a premium to acquire New Frontier Media may decide not to try to acquire us because it may be difficult to effect a change in control of New Frontier Media without current management's consent. New Frontier Media's board of directors has the authority to issue up to 5,000,000 shares of preferred stock and to determine the price, rights, preferences, privileges and restrictions, including voting rights, of such stock without further shareholder approval. The rights of the holders of common stock will be subjected to, and may also be adversely affected by, the rights of the holders of any preferred stock that may be issued in the future.

Future sales of common stock may cause the market price of the common stock to drop.

Future sales of shares of common stock by New Frontier Media and/or its stockholders could cause the market price of the common stock to drop. As of July 5, 2001, there were 8,534,982 restricted shares which are currently eligible for resale under Rule 144 of the Securities Act and 12,551,698 shares of common stock which are freely tradable. Sales of substantial amounts of common stock in the public market, or the perception that such sales may occur, could have a significant adverse effect on the market price of the common stock.

INDEMNIFICATION

Our Bylaws require us, to the fullest extent permitted or required by Colorado law, to:

- indemnify our directors against any and all liabilities and
- advance any and all reasonable expenses incurred in any proceeding to which any such director is a party or in which such director is deposed or called to testify as a witness because he or she is or was a director of New Frontier Media.

Generally, Colorado statutory law permits indemnification of a director upon a determination that he or she acted in good faith and in a manner he or she reasonably believed to be in, or not opposed to, the best interests of the corporation and, with respect to any criminal action or proceeding, had no reasonable cause to believe his or her conduct was unlawful. The right to indemnification granted in our Bylaws is not exclusive of any other rights to indemnification against liabilities or the advancement of expenses which a director may be entitled to under any written agreement, Board resolution, vote of stockholders, Colorado law or otherwise.

Insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the Securities Act of 1933 may be permitted to directors, officers and controlling persons of the registrant under the foregoing provisions, or otherwise, the registrant has been advised that in the opinion of the Securities and Exchange Commission such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Act and is, therefore, unenforceable.

USE OF PROCEEDS FROM SALE OF COMMON STOCK

Proceeds from the sale of the shares of common stock being registered hereby will be received directly by the selling stockholders. Accordingly, we will not receive any proceeds from the sale of the shares.

SELLING STOCKHOLDERS

New Frontier has agreed to register the public offering of the selling stockholders' shares of common stock under the Securities Act and to pay all expenses in connection with such registration, other than brokerage commissions and discounts in connection with the sale of the common stock and the expenses of counsel.

The following table sets forth the names of the selling stockholders, the number of shares of common stock owned beneficially by each of the selling stockholders as of July 5, 2001, the number of shares which may be offered for resale pursuant to this prospectus and the number and percentage of shares of common stock owned beneficially by each of the selling stockholders after the offering.

The information included below is based upon information provided by the selling stockholders. None of the selling stockholders have been an affiliate of New Frontier during the preceding three years, except as noted. Because the selling stockholders may offer all, some or none of their common stock, no definitive estimate as to the number of shares that will be held by the selling stockholders after such offering can be provided and the following table has been prepared on the assumption that all shares of common stock offered under this prospectus will be sold.

- (1) Under Securities and Exchange Commission rules, beneficial ownership includes any shares as to which an individual or entity has sole or shared voting power or investment power. We believe that the selling stockholders named in the table have sole voting and investment power with respect to all shares beneficially owned by them, except as noted. A person is also deemed to be the beneficial owner of securities that can be acquired by such person within 60 days from the date hereof upon the exercise of warrants or options. Each beneficial owner's percentage ownership is determined by assuming that options or warrants that are held by such person (but not those held by any other person) and are exercisable within 60 days from the date hereof have been exercised.
- (2) Based on a total of 21,086,680 shares issued and outstanding as of July 5, 2001 plus the shares issued under the subject warrants.

PLAN OF DISTRIBUTION

The selling stockholders and any of their pledgees, assignees and successors-in-interest may, from time to time, sell any or all of their shares of common stock on any stock exchange, market or trading facility on which the shares are traded or in private transactions. These sales may be at fixed or negotiated prices. The selling stockholders may use any one or more of the following methods when selling shares:

- ordinary brokerage transactions and transactions in which the broker-dealer solicits purchasers;
- block trades in which the broker-dealer will attempt to sell the shares as agent but may position and resell a portion of the block as principal to facilitate the transaction;
- purchases by a broker-dealer as principal and resale by the broker-dealer for its account;
- an exchange distribution in accordance with the rules of the applicable exchange;
- privately negotiated transactions;
- short sales, except as described below;
- broker-dealers may agree with the selling stockholders to sell a specified number of such shares at a stipulated price per share;
- a combination of any such methods of sale; and
- any other method permitted pursuant to applicable law.

The selling stockholders may also sell shares under Rule 144 under the Securities Act, if available, rather than under this prospectus.

The selling stockholders may also engage in short sales against the box (which is a type of short sale which the short seller simultaneously maintains a long position in a security), puts and calls and other transactions in securities of New Frontier Media or derivatives of New Frontier Media securities and may sell or deliver shares in connection with these trades. The selling stockholders may pledge their shares to their brokers under the margin provisions of customer agreements. If a selling stockholder defaults on a margin loan, the broker may, from time to time, offer and sell the pledged shares.

Broker-dealers engaged by the selling stockholders may arrange for other broker-dealers to participate in sales. Broker-dealers may receive commissions or discounts from the selling stockholders (or, if any broker-dealer acts as agent for the purchaser of shares, from the purchaser) in amounts to be negotiated. The selling stockholders do not expect these commissions and discounts to exceed what is customary in the types of transactions involved.

The selling stockholders and any broker-dealers or agents that are involved in selling the shares may be deemed to be “underwriters” within the meaning of the Securities Act in connection with such sales. In such event, any commissions received by such broker-dealers or agents and any profit on the resale of the shares purchased by them may be deemed to be underwriting commissions or discounts under the Securities Act.

Under applicable rules and regulations under the Exchange Act of 1934, any person engaged in the distribution of shares may not simultaneously engage in market making activities with respect to our common stock for a period of two business days prior to the commencement of such distribution. In addition, each selling shareholder will be subject to applicable provisions of the Exchange Act of 1934 and the associated rules and regulations under the Exchange Act of 1934, including Regulation M, which provisions may limit the timing of purchases and sales of shares of our common stock by the selling shareholders. We will make copies of this prospectus available to the selling shareholders and have informed them of the need for delivery of copies of this prospectus to purchasers at or prior to the time of any sale of the shares.

New Frontier Media is required to pay all fees and expenses incident to the registration of the shares, including fees and disbursements of counsel to the selling stockholders. New Frontier Media has agreed to indemnify the selling stockholders against certain losses, claims, damages and liabilities, including liabilities under the Securities Act.

DIVIDEND POLICY

We have not paid any cash or other dividends on our common stock since our inception and do not anticipate paying any such dividends in the foreseeable future. We intend to retain any earnings for use in our operations and to finance the expansion of its business.

LEGAL MATTERS

The legality of the Shares offered hereby has been passed upon for us by Thorburn, Sakol & Throne of Denver, Colorado.

Item 15. Indemnification of Directors and Officers.

(i) Article 3, Section 3.17 of the Company’s First Amended and Restated Bylaws provides as follows:

“SECTION 3.17
LIMITATIONS ON LIABILITY

To the fullest extent permitted by the Colorado Business Corporation Act as the same exists or may hereafter be amended, a director of the corporation shall not be liable to the corporation or its stockholders for monetary damages for any action taken or any failure to take any action as a director. Notwithstanding the foregoing, a director will have liability for monetary damages for a breach or failure which involves: (i) a violation of criminal law; (ii) a transaction from which the director derived an improper personal benefit, either directly or indirectly; (iii) distributions in violation of the Colorado Business Corporation Act or the Articles of the corporation (but only to the extent provided by law); (iv) willful misconduct or disregard for the best interests of the corporation concerning any acts or omissions concerning any proceeding other than in the right of the corporation or a shareholder; or (v) reckless, malicious or wanton acts or omissions concerning any proceeding other than in the right of the corporation or of a shareholder. No repeal, amendment or modification of this Article, whether direct or indirect, shall eliminate or reduce its effect with respect to any act or omission of a director of the corporation occurring prior to such repeal, amendment or modification.”

(ii) Article 3, Section 3.18 of the Company’s First Amended and Restated Bylaws provides as follows:

“SECTION 3.18
INDEMNIFICATION

Subject to and in accordance with the Colorado Business Corporation Act, and except as may be expressly limited by the Articles of Incorporation and any amendments thereto, the corporation shall indemnify any person:

(i) made a party to any proceeding (other than an action by, or in the right of, the corporation) by reason of the fact that he is or was a director, officer, employee or agent of the corporation, or is or was serving at the corporation’s request, as a director, officer, employee or agent or another corporation, or other enterprise; or

(ii) who was or is a party to any proceeding by or in the right of the corporation, to procure a judgement in its favor by reason of the fact that he is or was a director, officer, employee, or agent of the corporation or is or was serving at the request of the corporation as a director, officer, employee, or agent of another corporation, partnership, joint venture, trust, or other enterprise. This indemnification shall be mandatory in all circumstances in which indemnification is permitted by law.

The corporation may maintain indemnification insurance regardless of its power to indemnify under the Colorado Business Corporation Act.

The corporation may make any other or further indemnification or advancement of expenses of any of the directors, officers, employees or agents under any bylaw, agreement, vote of shareholders or disinterested directors or otherwise, both as to action in his or her official capacity and to action in another capacity while holding such office, except an indemnification against material criminal or unlawful misconduct as set forth by statute, or as to any transaction wherein the director derived an improper personal benefit.

Except to the extent reimbursement shall be mandatory in accordance herewith, the corporation shall have the right to refuse indemnification, in whole or in part, in any instance in which the person to whom indemnification would otherwise have been applicable, if he or she unreasonably refused to permit the corporation, at its own expense and through counsel of its own choosing, to defend him or her in the action, or unreasonably refused to cooperate in the defense of such action.”

Item 17. Undertakings.

The Company hereby undertakes:

(a) That insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the 1933 Act may be permitted to directors, officers and controlling persons of the Company, the Company has been advised that in the opinion of the Securities and Exchange Commission, such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the 1933 Act and is, therefore, unenforceable. In the event that a claim for indemnification against such liabilities (other than the payment by the Company of expenses incurred or paid by a director, officer or controlling person of the Company in the successful defense of any action, suit or proceeding) is asserted by such director, officer or controlling person in connection with the securities being registered, the Registrant will, unless in the opinion of its counsel the matter has been settled by controlling precedent, submit to a court of appropriate jurisdiction the question of whether such indemnification by it is against public policy as expressed in the 1933 Act, and will be governed by the final adjudication of such issue.

(b) That, subject to the terms and conditions of Section 13 (a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, it will file with the Securities and Exchange Commission such supplementary and periodic information, documents and reports as may be prescribed by any rule or regulation of the Commission heretofore or hereafter duly adopted pursuant to authority conferred in that section.

(c) That any post-effective amendment filed will comply with the applicable form, rules and regulations of the Commission in effect at the time such post-effective amendment is filed.

(d) To file, during any period in which offers or sales are being made, a post-effective amendment to this registration statement:

(i) To include any prospectus required by section 10 (a) (3) of the 1933 Act;

(ii) To reflect in the prospectus any facts or events arising after the effective date of the registration statement (or the most recent post-effective amendment thereof) which, individually or in the aggregate, represent a fundamental change in the information set forth in the registration statement; and

(iii) To include any material information with respect to the plan of distribution not previously disclosed in the registration statement or any material change to such information in the registration statement.

(e) That, for the purpose of determining any liability under the 1933 Act, each such post-effective amendment shall be deemed to be a new registration statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.

(f) To remove from registration by means of a post-effective amendment any of the securities being registered which remain unsold at the termination of this offering.
