CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the Stockholder of
Inferential Brokerage Services, Inc.
New York, New York

I have audited the accompanying statement of financial condition of Inferential Brokerage Services, Inc. as of July 31, 2003 and the related statements of income and retained earnings, changes in stockholder's equity and cash flows for the year then ended that you are filing pursuant to Rule 17a-5 under the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Company's management. My responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on my audit.

I conducted my audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that I plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. I believe that my audit provides a reasonable basis for my opinion.

In my opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Inferential Brokerage Services, Inc. as of July 31, 2003, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

My audit was conducted for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The information contained in Schedule 1 is presented for purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements, but is supplementary information required by rule 17a-5 of the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements, and, in my opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

INFERENTIAL BROKERAGE SERVICES, INC.
NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
JULY 31, 2003

Note 1 – Nature of Business and Significant Accounting Policies

Inferential Brokerage Services, Inc. (the Company), is a New York State corporation formed for the purpose of conducting business as a broker/dealer in securities.

The Company operates under the provisions of Paragraph (k) (2) (ii) of Rule 15c3-3 of the Securities and Exchange Commission and, accordingly, is exempt from the remaining provisions of that rule. Essentially, the requirements of paragraph (k) (2) (ii) provide that the Company clears all transactions on behalf of customers on a fully disclosed basis with a clearing broker/dealer. The clearing broker/dealer carries all of the accounts of the customers and maintains and preserves all related books and records as are customarily kept by a clearing broker/dealer. The company also collects commissions, research and consulting fees from other broker-dealers based on third party billing.

a. Revenue Recognition

Securities transactions (and the related commission, revenue and expense) are recorded on a settlement date basis, generally the third business day following the transaction date. No material differences existed between trade and settlement date.

b. Income Taxes

The Company adopted Statement of Financial Accounting Standards (SFAS) 109 "Accounting for Income Taxes". The cumulative effect of adopting SFAS 109 on prior year's retained earnings was not significant.

Deferred taxes are recognized for temporary differences between the basis of assets and liabilities for financial statement and income tax purposes. The deferred taxes represent the future tax return consequences of those differences which will either be taxable or deductible when the assets and liabilities are recovered or settled. As of July 31, 2003, no adjustment has been made for deferred taxes. The effect on the financial statements is immaterial.

c. Credit Concentration

The Company's financial instruments that are exposed to concentrations of credit risk consist primarily of cash and cash equivalents and receivables from customers. The Company places its cash and cash equivalents with high credit quality institutions insured by the FDIC. The Company routinely assesses the financial strength of its customers and, as a consequence, believes that the credit risk exposure to its receivables is limited.

INFERENTIAL BROKERAGE SERVICES, INC.
NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
JULY 31, 2003

d. Statement of Cash Flows

For purposes of the Statement of Cash Flows, the Company considers all highly liquid debt instruments purchased with a maturity of three months or less to be cash equivalents.

e. Use of Estimates

The preparation of the financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of financial statements and the reported amounts of revenue and expenses during the reporting period. Management does not believe that actual results will differ materially from these estimates.

Note 2 – Income Taxes

The Company's income tax provision for July 31, 2003 consists of the following:

Current	Tax Expense
Federal	$ 7,205
State & City	9,561
Total Tax Expense	$ 16,766

Note 3 – Net Capital Requirements

The capital ratio, as independently computed by our auditors, was 210% versus an allowable maximum of 1500% under the rules of the Securities and Exchange Commission. The Company's net capital as computed was $110,523 leaving capital in excess of requirements in the amount of $105,523.

The Securities and Exchange Commission has adopted certain amendments to its Net Capital Rule that may require increased minimum net capital for certain brokers and dealers in securities. The amendments provide that increased minimum net capital requirements to be phased-in over a period of time for those brokers and dealers so affected. The Company is an introducing broker on a fully disclosed basis that does not receive, directly or indirectly, securities, or owe to customers. In accordance with the new minimum net capital requirements, the Company's requirement for minimum net capital remains at $5,000.

Note 4 - Related Party Transactions

Management consulting, research and printing services, including but not limited to rental of office space and utilities, are provided by a related party, whereas similar management control exists. For the year ended July 31, 2003, the management consulting, research and printing services was $1,145,000. The Company also pays rent to the related party on a month-to-month basis. For the year ended July 31, 2003 the total rent paid was $48,000.

Note 5 - Financial Instruments With Off-Balance-Sheet Credit Risk

As a securities broker, the Corporation is engaged in buying and selling securities for a diverse group of institutions and individual investors. The Corporation's transactions are collateralized and are executed with and on behalf of banks, brokers and dealers and other financial institutions. The Corporation introduces these transactions for clearance to another broker/dealer on a fully disclosed basis.

The Corporation's exposure to credit risk associated with non-performance of customers in fulfilling their contractual obligations pursuant to securities transactions can be directly impacted by volatile trading markets which may impair customers' ability to satisfy their obligations to the Corporation and the Corporation's ability to liquidate the collateral at an amount equal to the original contracted amount. The agreement between the Corporation and its clearing broker provides that the Corporation is obligated to assume any exposure related to such non-performance by its customers. The Corporation seeks to control the aforementioned risks by requiring customers to maintain margin collateral in compliance with various regulatory requirements and the clearing brokers internal guidelines. The Corporation monitors its customer activity by reviewing information it receives from its clearing broker on a daily basis, and requiring customers to deposit additional collateral, or reduce positions, when necessary.

A copy of the Company's Statement of Financial Condition, as at July 31, 2003, pursuant to S.E.C. Rule 17a-5, is available for inspection at the Company's office and at the regional office of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT ON INTERNAL ACCOUNTING CONTROL REQUIRED BY SEC RULE 17a-5

To the Stockholder of
Inferential Brokerage Services, Inc.
New York, New York

In planning and performing my audit of the financial statements of Inferential Brokerage Services, Inc. for the year ended July 31, 2003, I considered its internal control structure in order to determine my auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing my opinion on the financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control structure.

I also made a study of the practices and procedures followed by the Company in making the periodic computations of aggregate indebtedness and net capital under Rule 17a-3(a), (11) and the procedures for determining compliance with the exemptive provisions of rule 15c3-3. I did not review the practices and procedures followed by the Company in making the quarterly securities examinations, counts, verifications and comparisons, and the recordation of differences required by rule 17a-13 or in complying with the requirements for prompt payment for securities under section 8 of Regulation T of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, because the Company does not carry security accounts for customers or perform custodial functions relating to customer securities.

The management of the Company is responsible for establishing and maintaining a system of internal control structure and the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph. In fulfilling this responsibility, estimates and judgments by management are required to assess the expected benefits and related costs of internal control structure policies and procedures and of the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph and to assess whether those practices and procedures can be expected to achieve the SEC's above-mentioned objectives. Two of the objectives of an internal control structure and the practices and procedures are to provide management with reasonable, but not absolute, assurance that assets for which the Company has responsibility are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition and that transactions are executed in accordance with management's authorization and recorded properly to permit preparation of financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. Rule 17a-5(g) lists additional objectives of the practices and procedures listed in the preceding paragraph.

Because of inherent limitations in any internal control structure or the practices and procedures referred to above, errors or fraud may occur and not be detected. Also, projection of any evaluation of the internal control structure to future periods is subject to the risk that procedures may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the effectiveness of their design and operation may deteriorate.

My consideration of the internal control structure would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control structure that might be material weaknesses under standards established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of the specific internal control structure elements does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that errors or irregularities in amounts that would be material in relation to the financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. However, I noted no matters involving the internal control structure, including procedures for safeguarding securities, that I consider to be material weaknesses as defined above, except for:

The size of the business and resultant limited number of employees imposes practical limitations on the effectiveness of those internal control structure procedures that depend on the segregation of duties. Since this condition is inherent in the size of the Company, the specific weaknesses are not described herein and no corrective action has been taken or proposed by the Company.

The foregoing condition was considered in determining the nature, timing and extent of the procedures to be performed in our audit of the financial statements of Inferential Brokerage Services, Inc. for the year ended July 31, 2003 and this report does not effect our report thereon dated September 16, 2003.

I understand that practices and procedures that accomplish the objectives referred to in the second paragraph of this report are considered by the Commission to be adequate for its purposes in accordance with the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and related regulations, and that practices and procedures that do not accomplish such objectives in all material respects indicate a material inadequacy for such purposes. Based on this understanding and on our study, I believe that the Company's practices and procedures were adequate at July 31, 2003, to meet the Commission's objectives.

This report is intended solely for the use of management, the Securities and Exchange Commission, and other regulatory agencies which rely on Rule 17a-5(g) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and should not be used for any other purpose.
