Notes to Statement of Financial Condition

December 31, 2002

1. Organization

Commerce Capital Markets, Inc. (the Company), an operating subsidiary of Commerce Bank, N.A. (CBNA), is a registered broker-dealer in securities under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and is a member of the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc. CBNA is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Commerce Bancorp, Inc. (Bancorp), a multibank holding company headquartered in Cherry Hill, New Jersey.

The Company primarily underwrites and trades in state and municipal securities. The Company also provides corporate and municipal finance services, including private placements and financial advisory services for its customers and the customers of the Parent. The Company also acts as agent for affiliates of the Parent and others in certain securities transactions.

2. Significant Accounting Policies

Significant accounting policies are summarized as follows:

Securities Transactions

Security transactions are accounted for on a trade-date basis with the resulting receivables and payables classified as amounts due to or from pending transactions.

Securities owned consist primarily of state and municipal obligations which are valued at fair value. The fair value of securities owned is based primarily on quoted market prices, dealer quotes, and prices obtained from independent third parties.

Income Taxes

The Company is included in the consolidated federal income tax return filed by Bancorp. In accordance with the tax allocation policy of the consolidated group, the Company determines its federal income tax liability on a separate-return basis and makes the required tax payments to Bancorp.

Deferred income taxes have been provided for the effects of temporary differences between financial reporting and tax bases of assets and liabilities and have been measured using the enacted marginal tax rates and laws that are currently in effect. The deferred tax liability is recorded in other liabilities on the Statement of Financial Condition.

Furniture, Equipment, and Leasehold Improvements

All furniture, equipment, and leasehold improvements are recorded at cost and are depreciated on a straight-line basis over the estimated useful lives of the assets. Leasehold improvements are amortized using the straight-line method over the shorter of the lease term or useful life.

Financial Instruments

Short-term receivables are recorded at contracted amounts approximating fair value.

Derivative financial instruments used to offset the market risk associated with trading instruments include futures and options and are carried at market value which is based on quoted market prices. Fair values of option contracts and futures transactions, as well as cash maintained in a related brokerage account, are recorded as receivable from and payable to brokers and dealers.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in the financial statements and the accompanying notes. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

3. Receivable from and Payable to Brokers and Dealers

4. Receivable from and Payable to Customers

The Company clears certain of its customer transactions through another broker-dealer on a fully disclosed basis.

5. Securities Owned

At December 31, 2002, securities owned by the Company are comprised of the following:

	Fair Value

8. Lease Commitments

The Company leases two branch offices under noncancelable operating leases expiring at various dates through 2003.

The Company leases its main office space from Bancorp. Minimum rental commitments associated with this lease are included in the table below.

At December 31, 2002, minimum rental commitments under all noncancelable leases were as follows:

Year ended December 31	Total	Bancorp	Third Party
2003	$ 515,000	$ 425,000	$ 90,000
2004	458,000	458,000	—
2005	464,000	464,000	—
2006	464,000	464,000	—
2007	77,000	77,000	—
Thereafter	—	—	—
Total	$ 1,978,000	$ 1,888,000	$ 90,000

9. Derivative Financial Instruments and Concentrations of Credit Risk

As part of its broker-dealer activities, the Company maintains an inventory of securities for distribution to its customers in order to meet those customers' needs. In order to reduce the exposure to market risk relating to the inventory, the Company buys and sells a variety of derivative financial instruments including futures and option contracts. Market risk includes changes in interest rates or value fluctuations in the underlying financial instruments. The Company's hedging strategy is to offset the market risk associated with its inventory through the buying and selling of futures and option contracts. The Company regularly sells financial future contracts not yet purchased (short sales) to offset the market risk associated in the inventory. Short positions may expose the Company to market risk in the event prices increase as the Company may be obligated to acquire the future contracts at prevailing market prices. The Company uses notional (contract) amounts to measure derivative activity. Notional amounts are not included on the statement of financial condition, as those amounts are not actually paid or received at settlement. The following table reflects the open commitments for futures and options and the associated unrealized gains (losses) as of December 31, 2002:

Commitments	Net Contracts		Unrealized Gain (Loss)
	Outstanding Long/(Short)	Notional Amount Long (Short)
Municipal bond futures	365	$ 36,500,000	$ - $ 278,561
Treasury bond futures	(600)	10,000,000	(70,000,000) (2,537,224)
Treasury bond put options	(450)	45,000,000	- (22,919)
Treasury bond call options	(1,050)	-	(105,000,000) (1,341,966)
Total commitments	(1,735)	$ 91,500,000	$ (175,000,000) $ (3,623,548)

The average notional amount for futures and options contracts for the year ended December 31, 2002 was $106.7 million.

The notional amounts of derivative financial instruments do not represent the potential risk from counterparty nonperformance. Transactions in derivative financial instruments are conducted through regulated exchanges, which guarantee performance of counterparties, and settle in cash on a daily basis. The Company believes these factors minimize credit risk.

The Company's business involves the participation in underwriting activities primarily with public entities in and contiguous to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. As part of this activity, the Company executes commitments to acquire securities and execute security sale transactions with customers. The Company is exposed to market risk if the value of the securities which the Company has committed to underwrite declines before the closing of the transaction. Credit risk is eliminated at a transaction closing at which time funds are exchanged for the underwritten securities.

Commerce Capital Markets, Inc.

9. Derivative Financial Instruments and Concentration of Credit Risk (continued)

The Company is involved in investment banking and trading services to underwrite, sell, and make a market in high yield securities. High yield securities have been defined as debt securities which are nonrated or those rated by Standard and Poor's as BB+ and Moody's as BB or lower (or equivalent ratings for other instruments). These activities expose the Company to higher degrees of credit risk than that associated with investment-grade securities. As of December 31, 2002, the Company held nonrated securities with a combined market value of approximately $78.7 million.

10. Related Party Transactions

Cash segregated in compliance with federal and other regulations was $100,000 at December 31, 2002. Cash on deposit with the Parent was $3,092,277 at December 31, 2002.

The financial condition may have been significantly different had the Company been autonomous.
