Emergis licenses invoicing technology to another utility company

Montréal, December 22, 2005 – Emergis Inc. (TSX: EME), a Canadian eBusiness company, today announced that it has entered into another agreement to license its electronic invoicing and payment technology patent, to Knoxville Utilities Board (KUB) of Tennessee.

“The current agreement is another important step in our efforts to realize the full value of our invoicing patent by entering into licensing agreements with users of electronic bill presentment and payment in North America,” said Marc Filion, Executive Vice-President, Business Development and Corporate Strategy of Emergis.

Emergis was granted a U.S. patent in March 2000 for electronic invoicing and payment, a service which allows companies to offer their customers the ability to receive and pay invoices electronically. Emergis no longer offers its electronic invoicing and payment service, but it has retained ownership of the patent.

Electronic invoicing and payment programs are part of KUB’s current EPay options which allow its customers to make payments on an account without having to print and deliver a check to KUB.

Knoxville Utilities Board is a municipal utility serving Knox County and parts of seven adjacent counties in Tennessee. It provides electric, gas, water, and wastewater services to more than 410,000 customers.
