RBC announces successful placement of $100m debut issue of credit linked notes

Moscow, May 30, 2006. – On May 26, 2006, MDM Bank and Aton Capital Limited closed the order book for the debut issue of CLNs for RBC in the amount of $100m.

The notes have a maturity of 3 years with the fixed coupon rate of 9.5% p.a. The notes provide for the put option in 2 years at par and the call option at 103% of the par value from the issue date to December 31, 2006, 102.5% during the year 2007, 101.5 % from January 1, 2008 to June 7, 2008 and at par from June 7, 2008 onwards. Dresdner Bank AG will act as the issuer of the notes. The notes are issued on the back of a loan extended by Dresdner Bank AG to RBC Investments (Cyprus), the loan will be guaranteed by OJSC RBC Information Systems and CJSC RBC-TV. Proceeds from the loan will be used to finance RBC's development via acquisitions in the media industry and the implementation of the company's own projects.

The lead managers received purchase orders for the amount of $122.35m from 25 investors. 53.5% of the issue was distributed among foreign investors, and 46.5% was sold to domestic investors. Furthermore, orders from investment funds and asset managers comprised 36% of the issue and 64% were orders from banks.

Roadshow presentations were organized in London, Zurich, Hong Kong and Singapore from May 17 to May 23, 2006. Despite difficult financial market conditions, investors demonstrated a significant interest in the company's securities.

RBC Chairman and CEO German Kaplun highly appreciated the results of the transaction. "It's the first time we raise a considerable amount of funds on the debt capital market. We have extensive experience of interaction with equity investors, now we are pleased that debt investors showed a great interest to this transaction. It will allow us to achieve an optimal capital structure, which is essential to maintaining the high rate of the company's growth", he said.

According to Anton Kirukhin, the Director of debt capital markets division of MDM Bank, an unfavorable market situation has not prevented the lead managers from building a diversified order book. "The Russian media industry is new to the international debt capital market, but we feel a significant investors' interest to it. First of all it is explained by remarkable growth rates of the Russian advertising market, fuelled by general growth of the Russian economy and people's disposable incomes. At the same time, RBC is one of the fastest growing companies on this market, and its target audience is the most attractive for advertisers. Additionally, investors highly valued RBC as the leader of the industry in respect of information transparency and corporate governance", Kirukhin said.

STRATEGY

STRATEGY

- We plan to concentrate on the media business and possibly split-off the IT segment, when it reaches $100m of revenue
- We plan to grow our revenues by at least 30% CAGR over the next three-five years via organic growth of existing business, acquisitions and start-up projects
- We intend to maintain the leading position in the business information segment and simultaneously go beyond it in the niches relevant to our target audience of higher income population
- We want to gain higher penetration levels in Moscow and expand geographic coverage further into Russia and the CIS.

x

STRATEGIC MATRIX

KEY PRIORITIES IN EACH SEGMENT

- Internet:
  - To maintain a leading position in Internet advertising in Russia and the CIS
  - Strengthen the leadership among business information resources in Russia/CIS
  - Branch out to niche Internet resources and charge premium rates for advertising
  - Broaden RBC's Internet audience through expansion into non-business Internet and attract new types of advertisers
- TV:
  - Increase market share and capitalize on the unmet demand for TV advertising time
  - To agree with Mostelecom to distribute RBC TV via its cable network in Moscow. This will increase RBC TV's penetration from 15% to 75% of Moscow but will require up to $50m investments to be utilized within 3 years
  - Increase coverage in the regions through diversified distribution channels and acquisition of local TV stations
  - Open a new non-business channel within two years to capture a broader audience
- Print:
  - Create a new range of advertising spaces for current and existing clients
  - Enlarge the audience through penetration into other segments (such as luxury) under alternate brand names
  - Launch new distribution channels for content
  - Supplement the Company's business and hi-tech magazines with one or more non-business magazines

FINANCIAL STRATEGY

- In order to achieve strategic goals RBC will need to invest up to $200m within the next three years in acquisitions, new projects and increasing distribution channels for TV.
- Traditionally we were very conservative in using leverage and our net debt was negative in 2004 and 2005.
- Now we want to optimize our capital structure and are planning to use a combination of debt and equity to finance our investments.
- The current level of cashflow from operations will be comfortably sufficient to service our borrowings even if we fail to meet our growth targets.
- Our debt service ratio is set within 4 EBITDA limit and EBITDA interest coverage ratio is not lower than 2.
- Having more than $1bn of market capitalization provides us with significant refinancing tool in the following years.
- Split-off of the IT business may decrease the operational cashflow but will bring significant immediate cash to the Company, which will be used primarily to repay our debts.
