AMEC JV reaches financial close on UK's largest schools PFI project

AMEC plc, the international project management and services company, announces that the AMEC-led InspirED joint venture has today reached financial close on the UK's largest schools PFI project.

Highlights:

- InspirED a joint-venture between AMEC, Innisfree and Equion (a division of John Laing), granted 30-year PFI concession to deliver 17 new and two refurbished secondary schools for South Lanarkshire Council
- Total capital value of £319m
- AMEC to invest £8.4m equity
- AMEC to benefit from multiple income streams together worth more than £400m, including contracts to design, construct and refurbish the schools, redevelop surplus land around 12 of the sites and provide estate-management services
- The first school is due to be delivered by August 2007 and final completion in mid-2009
- At 31 December 2005 AMEC's portfolio of 11 existing PPP projects was valued at £109m, substantially ahead of the book value of £66m
- AMEC is also shortlisted for two further projects in Scotland, a schools project at East Dunbartonshire and a hospital project at Fife, as well as the Knowsley Building Schools for the Future project and St Luke's Hospital in Middlesbrough

Sir Peter Mason, chief executive of AMEC, said:

"In the UK, PPP remains a major government procurement route which is attractive to AMEC as it enables us to combine our investment, design, development, delivery and maintenance expertise to deliver both a complete solution to clients and maximise shareholder value. Given the recent disappointing news that Colchester General Hospital will not proceed, we are delighted to have finalised this prestigious, substantial and complex project to timetable."

The leader of South Lanarkshire Council, Councillor Eddie McAvoy, confirmed his delight at the Council securing the largest Schools Modernisation Programme in Scotland. "This tangible investment in education will undoubtedly enhance the whole of the Council's learning curriculum. It is an illustration of our commitment to the education of our children, young people and to the wider community as the schools' leisure facilities will also be open for community use. Of equal importance is the Council's ability to retain its entire staff."

The InspirED joint venture has successfully raised £320m in Guaranteed Secured Index-Linked Bonds a process managed by Barclays Capital with the triple-A rated financial guarantee issued by XL Capital Assurance (U.K.) Limit.
