FTAM Funds Distributor, Inc.
Notes to Financial Statements
September 30, 2010

Note 1: Nature of Operations and Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Operations

FTAM Funds Distributor, Inc. (the Company or FDI) is a wholly owned subsidiary of ALPS Holdings, Inc. (AHI). The Company is a registered broker-dealer with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) and a member of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA).

The Company operates under the provisions of the paragraph (k)(1) of Rule 15c3-3 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and, accordingly, is exempt from the remaining provisions of that Rule. As such, the Company is not required to maintain a "Special Reserve Bank Account for the Exclusive Benefit of Customers."

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Cash

The Company considers all liquid investments with original maturities of three months or less to be cash equivalents. At September 30, 2010, cash equivalents consisted of one interest-bearing cash account.

Effective July 21, 2010, the FDIC's insurance limits were permanently increased to $250,000. At September 30, 2010, the Company's interest-bearing cash accounts did not exceed federally insured limits.

Accounts Receivable

Accounts receivable are stated at the amount billed to fund clients. Accounts receivable are ordinarily due upon receipt of the invoice. Accounts past due more than 120 days are considered delinquent. Delinquent receivables may be written off based on specific circumstances of the fund clients. No allowance of doubtful accounts is deemed necessary to provide for any losses on realization of the fees receivable at September 30, 2010.

Income Taxes

Deferred income tax expense results from changes in deferred tax assets and liabilities between periods. Deferred tax assets are recognized if it is more likely than not, based on the technical merits, that the tax position will be realized or sustained upon examination. The term "more likely than not" means a likelihood of more than 50%; the terms examined and upon examination also include resolution of the related appeals or litigation processes, if any. A tax position that meets the more-likely-than-not recognition threshold is initially and subsequently measured as the largest amount of tax benefit that has a greater than 50% likelihood of being realized upon settlement with a taxing authority that has full knowledge of all relevant information. The determination of whether or not a tax position has met the more-likely-than-not recognition threshold considers the facts, circumstances, and information available at the reporting date and is subject to management's judgment. Deferred tax assets are reduced by a valuation allowance if, based on the weight of evidence available, it is more likely than not that some portion or all of a deferred tax asset will not be realized. The Company files consolidated income tax returns with AHI. Based on the expense allocation agreement with ALPS Fund Services, Inc. (AFS) (Note 3), allocable income tax expense of AHI to FDI is paid by AFS. Thus no provision for income taxes has been recorded in these financial statements.

FTAM Funds Distributor, Inc.

Revenue Recognition

Revenue from the services provided by the Company is recognized as the services are provided to customers.

Subsequent Events

Subsequent events have been evaluated through November 22, 2010, which is the date the financial statements were available to be issued.

Note 2: Net Capital Requirements

The Company is subject to the Securities and Exchange Commission Uniform Net Capital Rule (Rule 15c3-1), which requires the maintenance of minimum net capital and requires that the ratio of aggregate indebtedness to net capital, both as defined, shall not exceed 15 to 1. At September 30, 2010, the Company had net capital of $147,738, which was $142,738 in excess of its required net capital of $5,000. The Company's net capital ratio was .001 to 1 at September 30, 2010.

Note 3: Related-party Transactions

FDI and AFS have entered into an expense allocation agreement, which calls for AFS to pay various overhead and operating expenses of FDI and FDI agrees to reimburse AFS for such costs paid by AFS on its behalf. AFS allocates and FDI records expenses in amounts determined according to the reasonable allocation, applied on a consistent basis, determined for fiscal year 2010 to be FDI's percentage of revenue to the total consolidated revenue of AHI.

Concurrent with the expense allocation agreement, FDI and AHI entered into a dividend agreement, which calls for FDI to pay AHI dividends consisting of, among other things, receivables and other revenues actually collected reduced by expenses and liabilities accrued or paid by FDI, or allocated to FDI for accrual as a liability and payment by FDI, and further reduced by any amount so as to permit FDI to maintain net capital at all times of not less than $100,000 or 140% of FDI's net capital requirement, whichever is greater.

For the year ending September 30, 2010, FDI had deemed distributions to AHI in the amount of $178,525, which consisted of the excess of payments to AHI in accordance with the dividend agreement above the expenses paid on behalf of FDI by AFS in accordance with the expense allocation agreement.

Note 4: Significant Estimates and Concentrations

Accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America require disclosure of certain significant estimates and current vulnerabilities due to certain concentrations. Those matters include the following:

Major Customers

The Company has a major customer (customer who accounts for more than 10% of revenues) who accounted for 100% of total revenues for the year ended September 30, 2010. Accounts receivable from the one customer were 100% of trade receivables at September 30, 2010.

Current Economic Conditions

The current protracted economic decline continues to present service providers with difficult circumstances and challenges, which in some cases have resulted in large and unanticipated declines in the fair value of assets, declines in the volume of business, constraints on liquidity and difficulty obtaining financing. The financial statements have been prepared using values and information currently available to the Company.

Current economic and financial market conditions could adversely affect our results of operations in future periods. The current instability in the financial markets may significantly impact the volume of future sales, which could have an adverse impact on the Company's future operating results.

In addition, given the volatility of current economic conditions, the values of assets and liabilities recorded in the financial statements could change rapidly, resulting in material future adjustments in allowances for accounts receivable that could negatively impact the Company's ability to maintain sufficient liquidity.

Independent Accountants' Report on Internal Control

Board of Directors
FTAM Funds Distributor, Inc.
Denver, Colorado

In planning and performing our audit of FTAM Funds Distributor, Inc. (the Company), as of and for the year ended September 30, 2010, in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, we considered the Company's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company's internal control.

Also, as required by Rule 17a-5(g)(1) of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), we have made a study of the practices and procedures followed by the Company including consideration of control activities for safeguarding securities. This study included tests of such practices and procedures that we considered relevant to the objectives stated in Rule 17a-5(g) in making the periodic computations of aggregate indebtedness and net capital under Rule 17a-3(a)(11) and for determining compliance with the exemptive provisions of Rule 15c3-3. Because the Company does not carry securities accounts for customers or perform custodial functions relating to customer securities, we did not review the practices and procedures followed by the Company in any of the following:

1. Making quarterly securities examinations, counts, verifications, and comparisons and recordation of differences required by Rule 17a-13
2. Complying with the requirements for prompt payment for securities under Section 8 of Federal Reserve Regulation T of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System

The management of the Company is responsible for establishing and maintaining internal control and the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph. In fulfilling this responsibility, estimates and judgments by management are required to assess the expected benefits and related costs of controls and of the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph and to assess whether those practices and procedures can be expected to achieve the SEC's above-mentioned objectives. Two of the objectives of internal control and the practices and procedures are to provide management with reasonable but not absolute assurance that assets for which the Company has responsibility are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition and that transactions are executed in accordance with management's authorization and recorded properly to permit the preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. Rule 17a-5(g) lists additional objectives of the practices and procedures listed in the preceding paragraph.

Because of inherent limitations in internal control and the practices and procedures referred to above, error or fraud may occur and not be detected. Also, projection of any evaluation of them to future periods is subject to the risk that they may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the effectiveness of their design and operation may deteriorate.

A control deficiency exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent or detect misstatements on a timely basis. A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance.

A material weakness is a deficiency, or combination of deficiencies, in internal control, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the company's financial statements will not be prevented or detected and corrected on a timely basis.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the first and second paragraphs and would not necessarily identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses. We did not identify any deficiencies in internal control and control activities for safeguarding securities that we consider to be material weaknesses, as defined above.

We understand that practices and procedures that accomplish the objectives referred to in the second paragraph of this report are considered by the SEC to be adequate for its purposes in accordance with the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and related regulations, and that practices and procedures that do not accomplish such objectives in all material respects indicate a material inadequacy for such purposes. Based on this understanding and on our study, we believe that the Company's practices and procedures, as described in the second paragraph of this report, were adequate at September 30, 2010, to meet the SEC's objectives.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the board of directors, management, the SEC, and other regulatory agencies that rely on Rule 17a-5(g) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 in their regulation of registered brokers and dealers, and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.
