SEC, Please reconsider the idea of Richard Heart misappropriating assets. Our money (that was sacrificed for freedom of speech, NOT expectation of profit from the work of others) is still sitting on the blockchain, NOT in Richard Heart's bank account. You (the SEC) are able to confirm this by viewing every transaction on the ledger. Richard Heart was rich well before the PulseChain/PulseX sacrifice, so why would he use our money to fund his lavish lifestyle?

Regarding the safeguarding of my assets, I did not ask for your assistance in this matter. I am able to safeguard my own assets. If I lose money in the wild west that is cryptocurrency, that is my fault and my fault alone. I must ask that you please stop trying to "help" us through regulation by enforcement. I, personally, have lost a lot of money because of market disruptions that the SEC has caused. Thanks, Jamal Barham
