

I am against allowing Broker Dealers the right to set their own fees to clients. It is more appropriate, I believe, to allow mutual fund companies to do this at that level. This way middle class clients and those who need investment help can use a registered representative rather than a no-load mutual fund family and KNOW that their representative is responsible to give them good service.

Carolyn E. Bruns

Carolyn "Kay" Bruns, LUTCF, CFP®

Agent, New York Life Insurance Company

Registered Representative for NYLIFE Securities LLC(Member FINRA/SIPC)