Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission
ATTN: Vanessa A. Countryman
100 F Street NE, Washington, DC 20549-1090.
Subject Line: Comments on S7-17-22 and S7-17-22

To whom it may concern,

Attached are the signatures and comments of 6,079 individuals who signed onto the following statement through the Sierra Club.

The Securities and Exchange Commission's new draft rules requiring asset managers to change their marketing of market mutual funds and Exchange-Traded Funds (ETFs) and their handling of Environmental, Social and Governance (ESG) matters are a critical step in fulfilling its mandate to protect investors and capital markets. Far too many asset managers engage in greenwashing and other deceptions about their handling of climate change and other ESG matters. Without improved fund labeling and more detailed disclosures, investors cannot tell if asset managers are living up to their commitments to achieve net-zero GHG emissions and other critical societal goals. This is unfair to the countless individuals like me seeking to protect their savings for the long term and expecting their asset manager to help rather than hinder the decarbonization of our economy.

By setting a clear standard for asset managers to use fund labels and disclose data about their handling of climate risk and other ESG matters, this rule will provide investors with the vital information they need to protect their financial futures. I applaud the Commission for addressing major gaps in asset manager transparency and fulfilling its mission to protect investors.

Although the proposed rules address many climate risk transparency problems, they are not strong enough on one in particular: requirements for disclosure of financed emissions. The Commission purports to require such disclosure but then indicates that disclosure of any emissions data not publicly available is not required. This sizable loophole would create incentives to not disclose and is totally unjustified given the availability of estimation methodologies. Leading organizations that assist asset managers with emission disclosures do not offer an escape hatch for non-publicly disclosed emissions. For example, the Partnership for Carbon Accounting Financials uses a data quality score to reflect how an asset manager is balancing the use of source data versus estimated emissions. To ensure that investors receive the climate risk data that they want and need, the final rules MUST establish a disclosure requirement for all financed emissions, with no loopholes.

I look forward to the SEC's continued efforts to provide transparency regarding asset manager actions on the threats that climate change and other ESG factors pose to the savings of investors across our economy.

903 of these signers, you might also notice, added their own additional personal comments. If there are any questions about this statement or our positions on this matter do not hesitate to contact us.

Sincerely,
Jessye Waxman

Although I consider myself to be a reasonably informed investor, and have instructed my financial consultant to make only investments in funds that meet ESG criteria, I have found over time that my objectives are not always met. This is in part because funds' disclosures are not sufficient. The proposed rules, and strengthening them with requirements for disclosure of financed emissions, will make a concrete, significant difference in my confidence in investing and in the accuracy of my and my financial consultant's decisions.

Americans need and deserve the truth about what their money is used for especially with the climate issues. We are supposed to transition to clean energy. Companies should be doing their part to help with this issue, not make things worse by funding more climate crisis activities.

As a mother and a grandmother, I am very concerned for the health and viability of the planet our children and future generations will inherit. We have a duty to our communities, families and most importantly, children to ensure their safety and well being through environmentally sound and sustainable policies, including clean air, water, addressing climate change, etc. That duty will always be more important than politics or profit.

35. Fran Ludwig
Lexington, MA 2420

As a retired teacher I'm required to use our MA pension system as the source of my retirement check. I would welcome more transparency in how pension investments reflect ESG values (or not). Currently I don't have a way to do this.

36. Lynn Fergusson
Yardley, PA 19067

As a senior I rely on investments for my financial security, but the thought that I am in this way inadvertently supporting corporations responsible for climate breakdown is devastating to me. Currently it is almost impossible to make the kinds of choices I would like to make due to lack of transparency about the way companies operate. My guess is that there are millions of seniors like me who would choose planet over profits if they could, and this could have a positive impact on all of our futures. Please strengthen the ESG rules. Thank you.

37. Stephen Grossman

As a small investor with a 401(k), it is extremely difficult for me to tell exactly how the monies in the mutual funds are being invested.

38. Carrie Pilto

As a veteran public educator, I believe teachers must help ensure a healthy environment for future generations.

40. Ellen Rozek
Saint Paul, MN 55105

As a young investor who has grown up with a constant awareness of the threats posed by climate change, it is incredibly important to me that companies managing financial assets are required to be transparent about how environmentally friendly their various funds actually are. Knowing whether funds specifically chosen to be eco friendly or carbon neutral meet those metrics or not is the bare minimum owed investors - many of whom are already dealing with the impacts of the climate crisis or who can expect to in their lifetimes.

41. Jasmine Claros
Lake Saint Louis, MO 63367

As a young working woman, I feel that my freedom is limited because of how little money I make. I don't always have the time or energy to research where I can spend my money sustainably. Often times the more sustainable and humane options are more expensive, I cannot always afford it. I only wish that it was easier to see where my money is going how corporations are using it. I am grateful to be alive every day- I love our planet and I love human beings, I love all living beings. I only wish for a beautiful future for us all on this planet. We must take care of it.

42. Hallie Bulleit
Morristown, NJ 7960

As an environmental activist who also has money in the stock market, I strongly believe should be making it easier for people to invest there money in ways that help the planet, rather than harm it. There should be more transparency for investors so that they know what their money is funding & the environmental impact of their investments. Greenwashing and deception when it comes to these issues is only fueling the climate crisis & hurting us all.

43. Elizabeth Peltekian
Brooklyn, WI 53521

As an environmentally concerned investor, I greatly appreciate the ruling made by the SEC; however, the ruling should be complete. The "requirements for disclosure of financed emissions" is a crucial inclusion.

44. Joseph Hale

As an investor and an advocate for addressing climate change, this rule about transparency is important to me. Please take careful note of it.

46. Charlotte Fremaux
Harpers Ferry, WV 25425

As an investor I am disgusted that asset management companies are greenwashing their image while continuing to fund climate destruction. My, and others? demands are ignored. The ESG rules will go a long way toward forcing asset managers to listen to investors. Greed must be regulated.

47. Emily Hutton-Hughes
Hamilton, NY 13346

As an investor I am trying to do right by investing in environmental friendly funds. I need to know the facts when investing and I do not appreciate asset manager who fudge the facts. Please enact these new rules.

48. Nancy McMahon
Olympia, WA 98501

As an investor I choose to act responsibly, investing my money in those funds that promote a green economy. I expect that asset managers act with equal responsibility, honestly disclosing how and to what degree they expect their funding choices to achieve net-zero GHG.

49. Frances Stewart
Bethesda, MD 20814

As an investor in two mutual funds and a person deeply concerned about the climate crisis, it is important to me to be able to get information on greenhouse gas emissions and other ESG issues and to be able to trust the accuracy and completeness of the information I receive.

50. Sandy Cleva

As an investor, I am angered there is no transparency required by asset managers. It is my retirement fund, and I should be allowed to have some control over its management.

53. Eugene Ruoff
Gardiner, NY 12525
As an investor, I am disgusted with asset managers who claim they are focused on environmental sustainability while investing in the filthiest, most polluting companies on the planet. This has to stop. I fully support your proposed rules to force better disclosure regarding ESG matters.

54. Crystal Brunelli

As much as we try to save for retirement, it is frustrating to just pick an investment or fund without knowing much about its goals. Sure, they all have a goal to make money, and there is info on big or small company investments. But are they doing good or bad for the world? I support the reporting of more information so we can be clear how they are making (or losing) money.

As someone who invests in the market through fidelity using funds, having enough transparency to make sure my money goes towards truly ethical and sustainable options is extremely important to me and the only reason I invest, as a way to put my money where my values are.

72. Emma Brunette
Saint Paul, MN 55119

As someone who is lucky enough to have a state-funded retirement plan, I would never want my hard-earned money going to support pollution and oil companies. I'm calling on the SEC to require transparency and climate responsibility from asset managers!

73. Natasha Vega-Colón
Elmhurst, NY 11373

As someone who worked in the financial sector in New York City while being an environmentalist, this is something extremely important to me. I left my last well-paid job due to how greenwashing (together with other environmental and social issues) is normalized in the sector and how little is done to address it. This would mean a lot to other young professionals that stay quiet in order to keep their jobs.

74. John Gibb
Shelby, NC 28152

As we are more and more aware of climate change and other problems from pollution, we need to change investing policy.

75. Jim Steitz
Gatlinburg, TN 37738

Asset managers have developed an art form of snowballing their clients with voluminous puffery about their environmental criteria and the environmental impacts of their held companies. It has become egregiously obvious that these asset managers, in large majority, exercise no oversight and exclude no behavior from their portfolios, permitting the most wonton, gratuitous ecological destruction in the use of their money. Terms such as "sustainable," "net zero," and "engagement" now litter the communications of asset managers to reassure their clients, but have been emptied of meaning. Around the world, one can see the most climate-wrecking, forest-shredding, water-sucking, soil-stripping atrocities being funded by asset managers using the rhetoric of environmental responsibility for domestic audience. SEC must stop this blatant deception of investors who care about a habitable planet and are falsely reassured by these misrepresentations.

76. Karen Guma
Petaluma, CA 94952
Asset managers haven't been required to be responsible in how they invest our money, and they rely on secrecy and obfuscation to keep pumping money into fossil fuels. If pensioners and investors knew what was happening to their savings, they wouldn't approve.

Los Angeles, CA 90041

Asset managers who hide the truth about what they are doing with our investments are committing fraud and we need the ability to stop their lies and to punish those who let us believe we are following our conscience while they are only concerned with their own profits without care for the planet we all need.

Those of us with these concerns are serious about what is happening to our climate and we take such deceptions very seriously and on a personal level. These dishonest asset managers mock our personal wishes and threaten our financial stability and our futures. For this to be resolved we must depend on the SEC to protect our rights and our futures.

Being able to invest my retirement funds in socially and environmentally responsible ways has long been important to me. 94. Carol Eliason

Being up front about climate change and environmental issues by large mutual fund managers isn't just a matter of being open with their investors about where their money goes; it is also critical to the risk assessment of the portfolio itself. Investors should not receive facile assurances that their investments are safe from the impact of climate change when the facts may be otherwise. Investors need to be informed how their investments and their portfolio are impacted by factors such as intensifying hurricanes and floods, tornadoes, drought, land subsidence, and the increase in heat waves and fire. Publicly traded companies and bond sellers need to publish the climate risk estimate of their products. People's retirements depend on these investments.

Climate change and chemical contamination are threats to our existence. Rules that help investors identify how companies invest their money in companies that maintain activities that threaten and harm the ecosystem are essential in order to give investors a choice to withdraw and withhold funds from such companies. In this way investors can refuse to support such activities and support a future where life can thrive on a healthy planet rather than be poisoned and destroyed by injurious activities on a large scale.

103. Yerina Mugica

Climate Change is a very serious problem. Almost every atmospheric scientist in the world says it is caused by CO2 emissions and methane emissions. Climate Change is causing severe storms and global warming and sea level rise. Already, sea level rise is causing flooding at the Norfolk Naval Base and in the city of Norfolk here in Virginia. It is also causing flooding in other parts of Hampton Roads here in Virginia. Thank you for your consideration.

Companies and investors feed off of the ignorance of the public. They need to be held accountable and if they're going to be hoarding so much of our wealth, there must be transparency. Allowing them to profit off of the planet's destruction while maintaining a façade of environmentalism is wholly irresponsible. It'll only lead to more small-time investors, funding their own demise to the effects of climate disasters. Big companies should be made to track and report their carbon emissions and waste disposal practices. These raw numbers should be made available to every investor with an impact summary describing how that company's emissions contribute to climate change. These reports should be written by independent agencies paid by the government through taxing our biggest polluters. I no longer wish to live in a world where people are rewarded for increasingly ruining our futures and putting the lives of billions at risk.

114. Keb Wolfe

Congress has finally got its act together to pass legislation that will enable the US to Corporate responsibility goes beyond investors and creditors. Making a pretense of concern for our natural environment may satisfy that group of stakeholders, but greenwashing does not meet the real needs of other stakeholders, the future human race. Short term profits should not outweigh the long term impact of climate change to our species and our planet.

Dear SEC

I am just really tired of greenwashing. I believe it is one of the most corrosive aspects of our financial system. I have over a million dollars in retirement funds with Vanguard and, with my limited available time, I cannot figure out to what extent their investments are damaging the environment. I frankly don't believe their claims of commitment to climate goals. Please enact these rules to promote basic honesty and transparency, so that I can more easily understand what is being invested in.
Sincerely
Lawrence Hall

Disclosure rules are the first line of offense against those who through clever misinformation would have us believe they are doing what the law requires, when they are not. ESG rules must be strong enough to produce results that are measurable. If we can't point to operational sustainability practices, than something is wrong and must be followed up as to when and if the investments made with our money actually produced measurable results. This matters to me because, I want to know that the money invested is producing measurable and sustainable results. The results should be clear and supported by the numbers and the results.

Fund managers should be required to be honest and transparent with investors. Like many other Americans, I am deeply concerned about the climate crisis. I want to do everything within my power to make a positive impact. Investors like me can't do that if money managers are not honest with us.

171. Kenneth Gibson

Fund managers should not be 'evaluating' the environmental, sustainability and governance attributes of companies. The SEC in alliance with agencies of other governments in major market economies should develop standards for accounting the GHG balance of companies (from original source to final consumption of product/service sold). Entirely separately, every producer of a product should be required to guarantee the recycling potential of its products. Steel and glass can return to rust and dust but a recycling infrastructure should be available in every jurisdiction. Aluminum, like gold, is so valuable a recycling system will be available in every jurisdiction. Law should require that any plastic material that is not biodegradable within a year or two is entirely recyclable at a location within each jurisdiction or wherever such material reaches the consumer - i.e. every store that sells products wrapped in plastic bag material must provide an on site space to return those bags.

Hello. I am a retired person now focused on addressing the climate crisis. I am all in favor of more information about the investments made by huge banks in fossil fuel companies. I have more than once told Vanguard, which holds my retirement accounts, that I want them to stop investing in fossil fuels. Although I have moved much of my money to ESG funds, I believe VG should get completely out of FF. And I think their customers need more transparency when it comes to where our money has been parked. Vanguard tells me that they are duty-bound to make the maximum possible earnings on their clients' funds. As one of their clients, I would tell you that I am looking for some profits, but not at the expense of life on Earth. Please require that our huge investment banks be upfront about their investments, and urge them to use their enormous clout to rein in ghg emissions. Thank you.

I am a senior citizen who wants to remain financially independent as long as possible. It is also important to me that my investments reflect my social values as much as possible. Since inheriting many major polluter stocks in my early 20s, it has been VERY difficult to find the reliably "ethical" investment options I strongly prefer. Money managers rarely have interest in such investments. Mutual fund portfolios change with no notice to the investor. I believe more people would take a stand for more responsible investing if they could trust what they were buying was real. The SEC must more reliably regulate asset managers and other investment resources who market "green" or "socially responsible" or "sustainable" investments which are NOT real!

I approve of the SEC's new draft rules requiring transparency in the use of marketing and messaging in their managing mutual funds. Otherwise, investors cannot tell if asset managers are living up to their commitments to achieve net-zero GHG emissions and other critical societal goals. Tucker, GA 30084

I don't want to exacerbate the climate crisis by investing in funds that greenwash their impact.

258. Janice Oakley
Sagamore Hills, OH 44067

I don't want to invest in oil companies.

259. Bonnie Benjamin
Denver, CO 80212

I don't want to invest in what I THINK is green energy, only to find out that's just a fake front!

260. Margaret Farley
Chicago, IL 60657

I fully support what is written here.

261. Lucyna De Barbaro
Pittsburgh, PA 15217

I had jump through hoops and eventually was able to select ESG mutual funds within my 401k portfolio back in 2011. This was a very grass-roots effort back then. Now is the time for some good rule setting. Please act!

262. Joellen Rudolph
Petoskey, MI 49770

I hate to be lied to and believe all financial institutions must come clean on what they are doing for or against climate change policy and fossil fuel funding.

263. Amanda Ramsay
Aurora, CO 80015

I have a right to know how my money is being used, so I can make decisions about how best to manage my finances.

264. Cindy Gailey
Seatac, WA 98168

I have a right to know where my money is being placed & how it will be used to finance companies.

265. Robert Kennedy
Harrisville, MI 48740

I have a right to know where my retirement investment dollars are going. Please eliminate these greenwashing practices.

266. Rita Gagliani
Irvington, NY 10533

I have a Vanguard account and I am outraged that you are financing what will destroy us all. Your decision to do so lacks foresight, wisdom, and ethics. Please change your policies for a sustainable future, even for yourselves.

267. Judith Fletcher
Bronx, NY 10463

I have already been involved in a movement to hold TIAA accountable. It would help tremendously if the government were on this issue for all companies handling our savings and retirement funds!

268. Jenise Porter
Tucson, AZ 85712

I have attempted to get a list of companies in which my pension plan is invested and have found it difficult. I want transparency so that I can monitor those funds.

269. Walt Mintkeski
Portland, OR 97202

I have been an investor using ESG criteria for over years, and I want to be sure that these criteria are accurately and truthfully applied to all investment funds, especially with respect to climate risks of investments.

270. Jean Roy
Colonia, NJ 7067

I have been concerned about the environment since I was a child suffering from pollution-induced asthma. We need to stop letting asset managers from greenwashing their portfolios.

271. Martha Cottle
Chilmark, MA 2535

I have been doing all that I can to protect the planet & the life on it for 52 years. Currently, it is extremely difficult to determine where I should invest my retirement savings, and am keeping it in a CD. That is not the best place to maximize it's earning power, but I have been reluctant to put it anywhere that acts in opposition to my strongly held beliefs. I would greatly appreciate some clarity on this issue, and believe that should be my right as a consumer. Thank you.

272. Susan Pantell
Austin, TX 78752

I have been investing in ESG funds for many years, and it is important to me to have accurate information to know what I am investing in.

273. Pam Letourneau
Rohnert Park, CA 94928

I have divested from most of my holdings in gas/oil, but I know hidden in other holdings are nefarious actors. The SEC should be protecting us all, even those of us invested in the stock market. DO NO HARM should be the guiding light.

274. Robert Pope
Torrance, CA 90503

I have divested from Oil Companies but there needs to be transparency in mutual funds. The SEC could assist with this mandate

275. Peter Baughman
San Antonio, TX 78256

I have ESG funds and am concerned that the fund managers may be exaggerating the sustainability practices of firms using the financing I'm providing.

276. Karina White
Santa Cruz, CA 95062

I have investments with Vanguard; I care deeply about the planet and our shared environment. It means a lot to me to understand what money managers need to convey to potential and existing customers, and I appreciate any rules that help disclose information that I can use to make informed choices about what my money is invested in. Thank you.

277. Peggy Hebert
Salina, KS 67401

I have long been an environmentalist and I want my investments to reflect my concern to the Earth's sustainability. It is extremely difficult for me, as an individual, to track the involvement of businesses' investments. These new rules will greatly assist all of us in knowing what our investments are doing to our Earth.

278. Paul Schickler
Brooklyn, NY 11215

I have money in an ESG and I would very much like to be sure that money is invested in a responsible manner.

279. Frederick White
Piscataway, NJ 8854

I have money in esgs and I would like to know if they're being managed with climate as a priority.

280. Mary White
Ann Arbor, MI 48104

I have mutual fund investments and I would like the managers to insist on real environmental goals for the companies they invest in.

281. Sheila Brockmeier
Breckenridge, CO 80424

I have retirement investments in several different funds and do not want them supporting industries that are not helping us move toward more sustainable climate activity!

282. Janice Pardoe
, - 94705

I have significant retirement savings in a mutual fund via my employer's 403b program. It means a lot to my peace of mind and financial comfort to have that savings, but at the same time I feel guilty and uncertain about what my money is being used to fund. Increased transparency would mean a lot to me for choosing and judging funds.

283. Stephanie Linam
Benicia, CA 94510

I have some funds that are so widespread that I have no idea what companies are actually involved. It would be good to know.

284. Ashley Craig
Manhattan Beach, CA 90266

I have three children and I am extremely worried about their future on this planet. We need our financial managers to use their influence to drive change toward a sustainable economic model.

285. Lindie Keaton
Yellow Springs, OH 45387

I have used/am using investment companies to manage my retirement funds and funds for my son's college savings. It's very difficult to make informed choices about which companies to trust with my money, when I want to make sure I'm not investing in ways that damage our planet and environment. Our markets can't work without transparency.

286. Jane Roth
Kingston, NH 3848

I have worked very hard and assiduously for my paychecks = savings.

I do not want any of my savings to go to oil companies. These assets and mutual funds must be transparent! After working so hard as a 40 year public school teacher and a climate activist, I would be distraught to learn that I was feeding oil companies any more money than I already do as in car and home heating oil. Thank you.

287. Kelley Eckmair
Oneonta, NY 13820

I hope you realize how sick we are of the manipulation of the truth.....

It is the future of our health and our civilization, please cut out the greed.

288. Jill Seiden
Englewood, NJ 7631

I hope you regulators are committed to doing the right thing, rather than auditioning for a high-paying job in finance.

289. Sally Drew
Madison, WI 53703

I invest heavily in assets that would benefit from more transparency. This would help both my financial advisory and myself.

290. Carol Valentine
Selma, OR 97538

I invest in funds that are screened for ESG and it OSS very important to me that these funds live up to their management claims.

291. Terry Sailer
Bryan, TX 77423

I just moved, but this is still a priority for me, HONESTY is ALWAYS the best policy, sirs.

292. Morris Walsh
Carmichael, CA 95608

I just want to know where my money is going and what I'm really investing.

293. Phillip Wochner
Shaker Heights, OH 44122

I need to know _EXACTLY_ how my money is being spent- whether in a savings account, an IRA (Roth or traditional), a 401K, or a mutual fund. Make sure that the rules say exactly that.

294. Charlotte Amberger
Grand Rapids, MI 49506

I need to know how my money is earned!

295. Frederick Beal
Portland, OR 97213
I need to know that I am being told the whole, complete truth.

296. Michael Pardee
Michael, TN 37919
I need to know that my retirement investments are not being used to destroy the environment or to exploit others

297. Cathy Joly
Temple, NH 3084
I personally have my IRA sitting in limbo at a bank, not even gaining interest, because I don't trust the information that companies are sharing. I want to support companies that are actually doing good for the world - for society, environment, justice - and I do not want any of my money, investments or otherwise, going to those that are deceiving citizens. So please support this draft rule and give people like me some confidence that I can trust business reports.

298. Scott Meyer
Louisville, KY 40213
I personally like to know what I'm investing in and try and invest in companies I think are doing the right thing on global warming and Social justice

299. Cris Naser
Alexandria, VA 22304
I personally would like to know whether, and if so, how much asset managers are supporting the fossil fuel industry.

300. Larry Oneil
Seattle, WA 98107
I plan to contact my fund managers and make needed changes if any funds are being used to harm the environment.

301. Susan Adams
Beloit, WI 53511
I really want to invest in social choice funds, but so many of these companies lie that I don't trust them. Please make them stop greenwashing!

302. Sally Vogel
Lacey, WA 98503
I really want to know my investments do not support activities that exacerbate climate change or environmental destruction. Big return on my investments is worth nothing in a destroyed world.

303. Betsy Gottlieb
Aurora, CO 80012
I really want to know that my investments are being used honestly and responsibly to reduce greenhouse gases.

304. Ann Guarino
Glen Rock, NJ 7452
I REALLY want to know what my money is doing. Please help me make better investment decisions!

305. Elizabeth Maxwell
Newport, VT 5855
I really want to know!!

306. Lea Langdon
Columbia, MO 65201
I rely on asset managers to make sure my portfolio truly meets my ESG investment goals. While the proposed rules address many of the problems presently existing in the financial field, they do not go far enough. Transparency as to financed emissions is critical for investors to really know the effect their investments are having in the world. Please close this loop-hole to make sure that transparency is complete.

307. Jo Elsken
Fort Smith, AR 72903
I sacrifice my time and money to support sustainability so every dollar of my investments should be protected from greenwashing.

308. Dinah Jentgen
Las Cruces, NM 88011
I should have the right to invest my money in ethical corporations.

309. Richard Walsh
Grapevine, TX 76051

I should know the truth about what my dollars are invested in.

310. Celeste Rossmiller
Aurora, CO 80010

I spent my working life educating about the environment and the necessary practices in business and ethics to keep the Planet alive for future generations. I do NOT want my retirement adding to the pollution and destruction instead!

311. Perry Cogburn
Quinton, VA 23141

I strongly support the Securities and Exchange Commission's passing the proposed rules to give us more protection from another form of greenwashing. I do not want my investments supporting further oil and gas exploration.

312. Ellen Zarter
Bellevue, WA 98008

I strongly urge the SEC to protect our investments while insisting on full disclosure about asset managers' decisions. I don't want any money going to polluters. Transparency is critical.

313. David Harrison
Salem, OR 97302

I support changing the rules to require asset managers to be honest about their handling of climate risk and other sustainability issues.

314. Edra Bogucki
Beaumont, TX 77707

I support environmental issues. I prefer that my investments reflect my values. It's the right thing to do.

315. Nancy Phillips
La Pine, OR 97739

I try to invest in ESG funds and I want a clear standard so I can compare funds and choose the ones that best represent my values. Currently, it is too difficult to ferret out the true ESG funds.

316. Martha Adams
Westminster, VT 5101

I try very hard to invest carefully, so this especially important to me.

317. Sandra Jones
Denver, CO 80206

I urge the SEC to finalize its proposed rules to require asset managers to be honest about how they manage investor-clients' money, so that prospective investor-clients can evaluate asset managers' behavior (for instance, their handling of climate risk) before deciding to trust those asset managers with their money.

318. Kathleen Corby
Pine Plains, NY 12567

I urge you to put an end to the misinformation and require asset managers' transparency to the public.

319. Lea Lagueux
Saint Petersburg, FL 33714

I use a great deal of care and diligence when shopping and selecting products and service providers. Always selecting the product or service provider with the least environmental impact whenever I can. But when it comes to my investments I find very little to no information that will help me make these choices. It's time for some transparency in an area that represents our largest dollars.

320. Katherine Cooke
Brooklyn, NY 11209

I vote with my dollars in my investments. Please make it transparent.

321. Tracey Koehle
Southbury, CT 6488

I want asset management transparency.

322. Judith May
San Francisco, CA 94122

I want complete assurance that my investments are only in Sustainable, environmentally and climate safe. Put an end to the misinformation and require asset managers' transparency to the public.

323. Nancy Swartwout
South Hadley, MA 1075

I want honesty and transparency from people who invest my money. I don't want my investments to support fracking or any other form of pollution. This is too important, the climate can't sustain us with the current modalities and everyone needs to be on board.

324. Joan McGowan
Venice, FL 34292

I want information-- not misinformation from Investment Companies . the SEC needs to put a stop to investments companies cheating their costumers

325. Diane Swanson
Columbia, MD 21044

I want my dollars to benefit our environment, not fund pollution producing companies. Help me to more easily invest in ESG matters + avoid deception + greenwashing.

326. Barbara Bell
Mooreville, IN 46158

I want my funds to benefit environmental, wildlife, and social causes that keep our planet and all of its ecosystems healthy.

327. Linnell Krikorian
Manchester, NH 3103

I want my investments to reflect my values - especially my advocacy for environmental sustainability.

328. Catharine Tucker
Richmond, VA 23227

I want my money to count for something. I want to know that my investments are helping to alleviate rapid climate change, or at least aren't adding to it!

329. Jessica Krakow
San Francisco, CA 94131

I want my money to do good things not bad

330. Karen Deckel
Buzzards Bay, MA 2532

I WANT MY RETIREMENT MONEY PROTECTED. I WORKED VERY HARD ALL MY LIFE TO SUPPORT MY FAMILY AND SAVE FOR MY RETIREMENT! I DESERVE TO HAVE MY MONEY

PROTECTED FOR MY FUTURE RETIREMENT THAT I WORKED SO HARD FOR!!!!!!!

331. Terra Ashe
Brooklyn, NY 11218

I want o be able to put my savings somewhere and this makes it so much harder. I do not want to fund our climate crisis.

332. Margaret Strobel
Ventura, CA 93003

I want the firms handling my investments to factor in risk from climate change, both because I care about the planet and because I need my investments to help support me in retirement.

333. Jane Goldthwait
Black Mountain, NC 28711

I want to be sure My money is invested in the way I want our future to be. Let's make investment managers tell us the full truth about the places our money is invested so we can make the decisions for real climate goals.

334. Abbie Bernstein
West Hollywood, CA 90069

I want to feel safe when investing that I am not being misled by the professionals hired to help me.

335. Tom McCartney
Pittsburgh, PA 15206

I want to invest in companies that are helping to solve our climate crisis. I fully support the SEC's new draft rules requiring asset managers to be transparent regarding fund labels and to fully disclose data about their handling of climate risk.

336. Jane Bartosz
Salem, OR 97306

I want to invest in things that support healthy lives (and will be around for a long time)

337. Thomas Talbot
Anthony, NM 88021

I want to know if my funds are financing fossil fuels. I do not want to fund any further damage to earth, period.

338. Dirk Rogers
Dirk, - 76301

I want to know my impact however small. The planet is trashed.

339. Teresa Wise
Stockbridge, MA 1262

I want to know that my investments are improving life in the US, not causing further disaster!

340. Ron Wallace
Eugene, OR 97402

I want to know that my investments are used for environmental justice and to not accelerate climate degradation. Please act to make it so.

341. Dennis Dunnum
T Or C, NM 87901

I want to know what my money is funding when I give it to 'money managers' and the like. Of course oil and gas and even coal are still big money makers but I, personally, do not want to be a part of destroying the planet in order to make money. I want and will require that I KNOW where their investments are and what they are financing.

342. Kristin Graziano
Arroyo Seco, NM 87514

I want to know where my investment dollars are going, and I want to invest in companies who are making significant contributions to combat climate change. I have a right to this information and it will affect where I choose to invest.

343. Natasha Kline
Saint Augustine, FL 32086

I want to know where my money is going and what it is supporting!

344. Heidi Hickman
Irving, TX 75039

I want to know where my money is going, and be able to put my savings into a company that isn't killing the planet I live on. Please help me do that.

345. Mary Miller
Wilmore, KY 40390

I want to make sure my investments are supporting companies that are truly working on sustainability. We need transparency.

346. Dana Ayala
Greensboro, NC 27408

I want to make sure that what I invest in is not detrimental to our climate. Please close any loopholes that enable companies to dodge having to be fully truthful about what they are doing.

Sincerely,
Dana Ayala
Greensboro NC

347. Andrew Neely
Denver, CO 80205

I want to save for retirement without fueling climate change.

348. Tim Gould
Seattle, WA 98103

I want to see financial managers respect the wishes of investors who expect companies to follow Environmental, Social, and Governance standards in making investment decisions. Please implement stringent requirements that ensure transparency for investors.

349. Laurel Martin
Seattle, WA 98116

I want to use my money to fund social good and sustainable development. It is too hard as a busy, working parent to research every single thing a company does to figure out whether they are doing the right thing. Government needs to help us hold companies accountable to doing what they say, and funding a sustainable future where small-scale investors can make the decisions that align with their values. We want to think "ESG" means something, and the companies we put our money in should know it means something too.

350. Wally Bubelis

Seattle, WA 98136

I want transparency in the system so I know which companies are working against my ethics and can steer my money in better directions. I believe my strategy will pay off big, but only if asset managers are honest about which companies are acting against planetary interests.

351. Laura DeHaven
Atlanta, GA 30318

I want transparency. If I have money to invest, I don't want anything to do with climate deniers. I want to invest in climate sustainability.

352. Lisanne Freese
Chicago, IL 60646

I want Vanguard to offer ethical funds.

353. Miriam Epstein
Portland, OR 97225

I was horrified to learn that green funds are not necessarily truly green. If I choose a green fund to invest in, I expect the fund manager to pay close attention to the environmental impact of the companies they select for the portfolio.

354. Charles Tazzia
Grosse Pointe, MI 48236

I was taught a long time ago that if you want to see how things really work in the world, follow the money. It is for this reason that asset managers for investment and retirement funds need to be 100% transparent about where our retirement funds are actually invested. It's too easy to greenwash under cover of the ESG label. Investors like me have the right to know exactly what they are helping to finance.

355. Robert Thiefels
Hinesburg, VT 5461

I work hard to make sure that I am investing responsibly. If the investment firms are deceiving us, it is impossible to invest with any kind of conscience. They owe this to all their investors.

356. Jody Benson
Los Alamos, NM 87544

I work with Middle and High School environmental groups who themselves are working hard to protect the living planet that they love. They had heard with relief about that some companies transferring to green products, practices, and offsets to protect the environment, but during this past year, something the kids (they always choose their projects) investigated was whether what these corporations SAID they were doing was actually WHAT they were doing, or if there was any real impact (i.e., using recycled materials for products, or planting trees as offsets). They found that the majority of corporations considered (as the kids said) "tossing a seed or using a strand of a recycled plastic bag" was adequate to call themselves green. Yep--it's time to put an end to the greenwashing. We need transparency, for me, my kids, your kids, and the rest of the living planet.

357. Karen Killmar
Odessa, FL 33556

I worked hard to earn my money. My retirement fund should absolutely not be used to support industries or companies that continue to pollute and destroy our environment. I have a right to know what my retirement fund is used for and asset managers must be transparent with the information they have.

358. Rhoda Schlamm
Woodside, NY 11377

I would like the SEC to enact protective ESG rules that would let the investing public know which asset managers are investing our money in companies that add greatly to the pollution of our planet and evident rapid climate change that is affecting people everywhere in one way or another.

359. Julie Harris
New Orleans, LA 70118

I would like to know where my money is being invested so I can tell if it is being used for things I think unworthy and I can judge if I want to change who manages it.

360. Carolyn Gammerman

363. Linda Unger
Danville, PA 17821
I've been an investor ever since I started paying taxes. Funds that were called 'Socially Aware' back in my day, always performed better because they addressed hidden costs. With more ethical investors these days, it is important that we have a clearer picture of how ESG funds are limiting their risks to climate and sustainability issues. We can't be fooled by greenwashing efforts. Please put an end to misinformation, most people do really care about the world we live in, and where our money goes. Thank you.

364. Lyle Chastaine

I'm writing to you as a concerned parent. My daughter was born last June, when she was just about 2 months old, the IPCC released a report issuing a "Code Red for Humanity" regarding where we are in our emissions and climate change. I am terrified about what my daughters future looks like under the scenarios of continued expansion and burning of fossil fuels and ecosystem destruction. We are already seeing the consequent severe weather, food and water shortages, global conflict, and immigration emergencies related to climate change and she is not even 18 months old. I worry about how this will escalate as she gets older.

375. Mary Thorpe

IMO, one of the greatest threats to our way of life has been the erosion of truth. How are we supposed to make good decisions when the information those decisions are based on are false? Truth in business dealings, truth in advertising, truth in political campaigning, truth in news reporting: without truth, our system has foundation in sand and clay, and is being eroded daily.

Investing money is really complicated and most people don't understand it, but are forced to participate or else lose money. Subsequently, protections like these are necessary to support investors, to simplify their ability to understand the process and actually choose how their money is spent. Vulnerable people are at the mercy of asset managers without protections like these.

Investors deserve full and truthful disclosure from asset managers concerning their handling of ESG matters in investing. Use of ESG information is a crucial tool to reining in environmentally harmful corporate actions.
In a similar vein, full disclosure of financed emissions are required for an appropriate ESG evaluation. Please close the current loophole so that ALL such emissions must be reported.

Investors seek help in investing because it has become increasingly difficult to really understand the details involved. 395. Carrie Megill
Murfreesboro, TN 37130

It has been proven many times over that these companies cannot be trusted to be transparent with regard to profits over environmental and social welfare. Please help us average consumers to make the choices that actually support our beliefs. Thank you

396. Leonie Galil

It is about time to make order in this mess!

397. Genette Foster
Pasadena, CA 91106

It is critical for investors to know exactly what investments are buried in retirement and savings funds. I am particularly concerned that my investments in Vanguard funds are profiting at the expense of our health and the planet by financing the expansion of polluters such as Chevron and ExxonMobil.

398. Janet Parkins
Oakland, CA 94611

It is critically important that people working in the investment industry be accountable for telling the truth.

399. Marvis J. Phillips

It is high time that these People who engage with these Exchange-Traded Funds and their handling by the Environmental Social and Governance due what they are suppose to and force these asset managers to disclose who their clients are and where there money they are investing is coming from! Thank You!

It is imperative that we call on companies to focus on insuring their practices support healthy climate initiatives. I would not want to invest in a company that doesn't and this legislation will help me do that.

401. Susan Perry

It is imperative that we protect our environment! A healthy planet equals healthy humans.

402. Elizabeth Maschka Csj
Concordia, KS 66901
It is important that we know completely and without whitewashing what our funds are being used for. This is very important and I would like to have complete transparency from these decision makers. I would not want our funds to be used for any negative purposes.

403. Saraya Uitvlugt
Kalkaska, MI 49646
It is important that we start being honest and clear with others. People place their trust in investors, and these investors use information to make informed decisions. But if the information is being skewered for financial gain from green washing, then the people cannot be expected to trust the system. It is important to me that asset managers be held accountable for their choices and actions. Cheating the system has an impact on everyone, especially people's values.

404. W David Barnes
Seattle, WA 98107
It is important to the entire world that we have full transparency on how asset managers are making climate change better or worse. Investors need this information and there needs to be enforcement behind the eventual requirements that are put in place by the SEC.

405. Linda Bryan
Maplewood, MN 55109

It is my experience with supposedly reliable financial advisors that they know little science. One asked me to explain the difference between "air pollution" and ozone. Another argued with me on the very first day of the Gulf of Mexico oil spill that this would be a minor event. They are simply out of their depth with many science-related topics.

Government officials AND financial executives need to be using the same vocabulary and the same assumptions about what "sustainable" and "ESG" investments are. Only a law can clear up the misunderstandings.

406. Jo-Ann Sramek

It is very important to me that I know what my money is doing. I do not want to be complicit with practices that will hurt my own grandchildren. We must take climate change seriously. We must stop our destructive ways. I vote with my dollars (and with my actual votes!) I should have the right to know what my money is enabling and supporting.

It should be easy for me to figure out if my retirement fund and other investments are being used to fund the fossil fuel industry. Instead, I have to dive into the fine print to even possibly figure it out.
If I'm giving my money to an asset manager or company to invest for me, I have a right to know how it's being used to fund the climate crisis.

417. Peter Ayres

It's time to force a show of hands and require investment firms to come clean about the institutions they support. If they tout climate support, then they should be required to show it. And report their investments to non-climate friendly organizations. They can't have it both ways. Please put guidelines in place requiring these firms to come clean.

It's hard for most of us to decipher information that's provided about our mutual

426. Colleen Rost-Banik
Honolulu, HI 96815

It's really hard to know whether the money I invest is creating greater harm to the planet. For years, asset managers have hidden behind words, slogans, and practices that may look decent on the surface but actually reinforce harm. It's beyond time that asset managers be transparent in their dealings, including where and how they invest. Please put in place rules that require asset managers to be transparent to the public.

427. Dinyah Rein

I've been a Fidelity investor for 30+ years. I want proof that investment managers are in fact engaged in climate friendly investments. I also want them to let investors know the fine details of those climate friendly or climate harmful investments. It's MY money, I demand better transparency, and more earth-friendly focus.

430. Patrick Bosold

I've been engaged in Socially Responsible Investing for many years and these rules are what I want and expect from my government. Please implement them without delay.

431. Isaac Clark
Joplin, MO 64801

I've heard a friend remark that if most people knew and cared how most of their daily necessities were sourced and made, our economy would collapse overnight. So too with long-term financial investments, not because the system is inherently weak and unstable, but because what's hidden from the average investor is enraging. Ensuring maximum possible transparency in investing is an often-overlooked but crucial component of climate justice, as most investors are not eager to tie their own financial security to environmentally destructive business practices. But first they have to know about such practices, and the SEC must step up to maximize their chances of doing so.

432. Joan B Groff
Mount Joy, PA 17552

I've purposely stayed away from businesses such as Exxon-Mobil, etc., since for so many years they disregard intelligent and wise environmental methods in favor of nothing but profits! Extreme profits!!! I insist you do the same! Leave this earth a better place!

433. Julia Spangler

I've tried to be a diligent green investor for nearly a decade, and it isn't easy to navigate the information provided by mutual funds and asset managers. Just decide that only a global shift in energy generation will save us and our headlong folly in staying addicted to oil and gas. We have shown before that we can both live within a carbon budget and survive just fine.

So - STOP prevaricating on how "green"
BlackRock and Vanguard are and STOP funding oil.

436. Jean Korte

Just like the opioid industry, financial companies and fossil fuel companies are putting profits before people! PLEASE start holding these companies accountable for their actions. These companies have known about climate change since 1950, yet they chose to protect their profits. It's time for government agencies to act on behalf of the Large companies seem to think they can do anything they want now. They are shirking their responsibility to act ethically and to protect consumers from the dangers we don't know about. And they are doing harm to the world they are leaving to the next

Many investors rely on ESG ratings to help choose stocks and mutual funds. Please create greater transparency for investors to know which funds are truly investing in carbon neutral companies. Companies like Exxon Mobil and Chevron have been fooling the public for years claiming to be investing in renewable energies, while expanding their carbon spewing practices while raking in record profits.

462. Stephen Krawczyk

My family believes strongly in SRI investment, they are the only kinds of investments we will consider. So we are very disturbed to learn that it is possible for fund managers to deceive us about this! We mean to put our money where our mouth is and it should not be allowed for anyone to misrepresent their funds like this.

My wife and I have investments in several managed accounts. Once a year I spend some time going through our accounts and identify companies involved in fossil fuels. Please strengthen the new rule to include full disclosure on finance emissions. I'm grateful to the SEC for proposing these improvements to hold companies accountable and appropriately label their investments as ESG or not. Please protect consumers who are depending on accurate information to make decisions that will impact all of our futures and to be able to do that we need to be able to see the full picture. Thank you

Strong rules for asset managers' transparency matters to me because I am a young person and my generation will face the worst effects of climate change. I want to do all that I can to reduce greenhouse gas emissions to help ensure that the world we grow up in will be one of sustainability and renewability, not one filled with the unnatural disasters that are already beginning to strike. In order to do that, however, we need to have complete information regarding asset managers? climate impacts. This includes disclosure of all financed emissions. Please help make sure that young people like me and other concerned citizens can make truly informed decisions that will shape the state of the future world, by instating these rules today.

The impacts of global warming are becoming increasingly frequent and more severe. Without some "constructive nudging" from regulators, few will step forward on their own to make the needed changes to stop additional emissions or build resiliency. It's going to get much worse before it gets better, but investments now will help dampen the societal, technical and financial impacts to come. Please get with it. There is no other later time, other person/agency, glorious technical solution that will lessen the impacts to come -- the time is NOW.

The Securities and Exchange Commission's new draft rules requiring asset managers to change their marketing of market mutual funds and Exchange-Traded Funds (ETFs) and their handling of Environmental, Social and Governance (ESG) matters are a critical step in fulfilling its mandate to protect investors and capital markets. Far too many asset managers engage in greenwashing and other deceptions about their handling of climate change and other ESG matters. This topic matters very much to me. I have tried my best to divest from all fossil fuel holdings but am concerned I haven't made it to 100% yet because of greenwashing.

Please change the rules and hold asset managers accountable for complete transparency.

This would be really useful information. I'm not interested in financing fossil fuels or any other type of pollution.
And on a related subject, I'm tired of paying CEOs millions while regular workers have trouble making ends meet.

722. James Klein
Corpus Christi, TX 78411
This, like numerous other issues (climate change, gun safety, immigration reform, prison reform, education reform, short-term lending regulation, healthcare reform, banking regulation, opioid regulation) remains a vexing problem primarily due to corporations' ability to curry favor with elected officials. The corrupting influence of money in our political system is undermining our democratic traditions and discouraging Americans from voting and/or running for office. This ominous development may well end our experiment in representative democracy unless we alter this decades-long trend. For the sake of the republic, we must amend the US Constitution to state that corporations are not people (and do not have constitutional rights) and money is not speech (and thus can be regulated by state and/or federal campaign finance laws). Short of accomplishing this, no other reform of significance will be achieved.

723. Karin Hemmingsen
Attleboro, MA 2703
Those who manage other people's money should not be allowed to do their work in the dark: if we cannot trust them to inform us of the sustainability of their investments, then they do not deserve the trust of handling our money.

Why is it that trillionaires are constantly complaining that they're broke? I'm not a millionaire, but I don't walk around saying how broke I am.

889. John Rosner
Colorado Springs, CO 80909
Why not use the incredible power to change the pathway of our future to sustainability. Do you really want to make profits of deception and destruction of our planet?

890. Remi Tan
Pacifica, CA 94044
With so many of us dependent on 401k this is a critical ruling to make sure that we all know about the underlying investments in our accounts to make sure they do not harm the environment

891. William Brudenell
Boise, ID 83712
Without improved fund labeling and more detailed disclosures, I cannot know where my money is going. I want to sleep without my conscience keeping me awake!
Thank you.

892. Annette Drager

Yes oil investments will soon be stranded assets.
It is time for asset managers to level and be truthful about what they are doing to investors about their lack of investing in green energy and it research and development and start doing it now!

893. James Poage
Lexington, MA 2420
Yes, I support transparency and truth in marketing of mutual funds and ETFs regarding their actions on ESG issue.

894. Gladys Sutliff
Harrison, AR 72601
Yes, we urgently need transparency now!

You guys have important jobs because you want to do important work, decisions you can tell your friends and children about, ones that make the world a better place for us all. So, do the important work, make the decisions that will change the course of life to the better. Help us return to a time where we live in balance with earth.

You need to stop enabling criminals.

900. Weslie Walker-Phillips
Wickenburg, AZ 85390
You thieves need to start looking at the big picture instead of packing your pockets with ill gotten money!!! NO amount of money is going to buy you a glass of water when there is none...We are in a climate crisis. You can keep lying to yourselves and others, but Mother Nature is pissed off. SHE will always win. She is sending warning shots everyday...PAY ATTENTION!!!!??

901. Carl Johnson
Skokie, IL 60076
You, dear friends are contributing to the floods, fires that are ruining lives of REAL people!! Your investments support the wrong industries at this time of crisis. I urge you to turn to companies that will care for Mother Earth. The Holy Bible reminds us to love good and hate evil. Companies like Exxon Mobile, Chevron and BP act without little regard for the bigger picture which is if we do not act NOW 2022 we will ruin our world for our children(Tom, Lisa, Max,Joan, Lucy, Mary and.....!!!
!) and our grandchildren and their children and grandchildren. PLEASE for the love of the earth stop investing in BAD, unethical, greedy companies!!

902. Lisa Saaf Capozza
