Re: File No. S7-21-21; Share Repurchase Disclosure Modernization

Dear Ms. Countryman:

The Securities Industry and Financial Markets Association (“SIFMA”)¹ respectfully requests that the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (the “Commission”) extend the comment period for the above-referenced proposal (the “Proposal”) from the current 45-day period to a 90-day period from the date of publication in the Federal Register to provide the industry and the public with a more appropriate time period in which to evaluate and comment on the Proposal.² Given the significant implications of the Proposal for issuers and a broad range of market participants and the number of Commission rule proposals currently in the comment process, the current 45-day period is not sufficient time for the Commission to solicit meaningful feedback on the Proposal. Thus, under these circumstances, the length of the comment period is inconsistent with the spirit of the Administrative Procedure Act, which requires that agencies provide the public with adequate notice of a proposed rule followed by a meaningful opportunity to comment on the proposed rule’s content. SIFMA is eager to work with the Commission and its staff in support of modernizing disclosure requirements relating to repurchases of an issuer’s equity securities that are registered under Section 12 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (the “Exchange Act”), but additional time is needed to analyze and consider the impact of the new rules proposed by the Commission. SIFMA believes that providing an appropriate comment period of 90 days will not significantly slow the Commission’s efforts to modernize disclosures relating to repurchases of an issuer’s equity securities and will result in a better rule.

The Commission currently has six rule proposals out for comment. The rule proposals include, for instance, first time reporting obligations for security-based swaps, first time reporting obligations for security loans, and a re-proposal of an anti-fraud rule for security-based swaps. These rule proposals affect many of the same market participants, and the overlapping comment periods simply do not provide market participants the time to fully analyze, consider and comment on these rule proposals, including the time that it takes to study and analyze the market and economic implications of the proposals. The number of first time reporting proposals makes it particularly important to extend the comment deadlines.

In order to demonstrate the number, complexity and breadth of pending rule proposals in the comment period, we attach Annex A. As shown in Annex A, the Commission has generally limited comment periods for the pending proposals to a mere 45-day period (or less in two cases), unlike the more common 60- to 90-day periods. Market participants simply do not have unlimited resources to evaluate and meaningfully comment on the rule proposals in the comment periods provided by the Commission.

For these reasons, SIFMA respectfully requests that the Commission extend the comment period on the Proposal to 90 days. We further request that the Commission announce such an extension as soon as possible to allow issuers and the public to make appropriate plans to solicit meaningful feedback from interested market participants that they can incorporate in comments on the Proposal.

Thank you for your consideration of this request. If you any questions about it, please do not hesitate to contact me at [REDACTED] or [REDACTED].

Respectfully yours,

Joseph P. Corcoran
