Subject: comment on Strategic Plan

To Whom It May Concern:

I firmly firmly believe that XBRL belongs in the SEC strategic plan and it is well past time to replace Edgar with a modern system that incorporate machine-readability, more information for investors and certainly for the SEC to fix the many errors made in the original implementation of the XBRL mandate. The world is looking to the US and the SEC to get this right. Our financial filing mandate should look like the EU's CRD IV, with the international XBRL standard included.
