To:

The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC):

As a United States Citizen, and business professional, ethics and honor in society and country are of paramount importance to me. The pseudo-anonymous nature of cryptocurrencies such as Bitcoin and others makes them attractive to those engaged in illegal trades. If the SEC approves a Bitcoin Spot ETF due to the non-compliance well known to the public and various agencies to include SEC, the lack of globally coordinated enforcement of stringent regulatory safeguards, it will inadvertently contribute to the financing of these illicit activities on a global scale. Such criminal organizations could be involved in market manipulation, and trades that hurt the children and youth around the world including drugs, etc. and will be able to easily exploit the ETF as a means to transfer and launder funds, posing a significant challenge to international efforts to combat the numerous illicit activities.

Thus, I request that all applications for the Bitcoin Spot ETF or similar tradable fund or trust be rejected.

Sincerely,

B Wadhwa
