Re: JPMorgan Chase & Co.
Shareholder Proposal of Thomas Strobhar

Dear Ladies and Gentlemen:

This letter concerns the request, dated January 13, 2020 (the "Initial Request Letter"), that we submitted on behalf of our client JPMorgan Chase & Co., a Delaware corporation (the "Company"), seeking confirmation that the staff (the "Staff") of the Division of Corporation Finance of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Commission") will not recommend enforcement action to the Commission if, in reliance on Rule 14a-8 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (the "Exchange Act"), the Company omits the enclosed shareholder proposal (the "Proposal") and supporting statement (the "Supporting Statement") submitted by Thomas Strobhar (the "Proponent") from the Company's proxy materials for its 2020 Annual Meeting of Shareholders (the "2020 Proxy Materials").

We submit this letter on behalf of the Company to supplement the Initial Request Letter and to reflect a recent Staff position regarding the application of Rule 14a-8(i)(10). We also renew our request for confirmation that the Staff will not recommend enforcement action to the Commission if the Company omits the Proposal from its 2020 Proxy Materials in reliance on Rule 14a-8. We have concurrently sent copies of this correspondence to the Proponent's Representative.

Pursuant to the guidance provided in Section F of Staff Legal Bulletin 14F (Oct. 18, 2011), we ask that the Staff provide its response to the Initial Request letter and this supplemental letter to Martin Dunn, on behalf of the Company, via email at mdunn@mof.com, and to the Proponent via email at ***

I. THE COMPANY HAS SUBSTANTIALLY IMPLEMENTED THE PROPOSAL WITHIN THE MEANING OF RULE 14a-8(i)(10)

The Commission stated in 1976 that the predecessor to Rule 14a-8(i)(10) was “designed to avoid the possibility of shareholders having to consider matters which already have been favorably acted upon by the management.” Exchange Act Release No. 12598 (July 7, 1976). Originally, the Staff narrowly interpreted this predecessor rule and granted no-action relief only when proposals were “‘fully’ effected” by the company. See Exchange Act Release No. 19135 (Oct. 14, 1982). By 1983, the Commission recognized that the “previous formalistic application of [the Rule] defeated its purpose” because proponents were successfully convincing the Staff to deny no-action relief by submitting proposals that differed from existing company policy by only a few words. Exchange Act Release No. 20091 (Aug. 16, 1983) (the “1983 Release”). In the 1983 Release, the Commission expressed a revised interpretation of the rule to permit the omission of proposals that had been “substantially implemented,” and then codified this revised interpretation in Exchange Act Release No. 40018 (May 21, 1998). Thus, when a company can demonstrate that it already has taken actions to address the underlying concerns and essential objective of a shareholder proposal, the Staff has concurred that the proposal has been “substantially implemented” and may be excluded as moot. See, e.g., Bank of New York Mellon Corp. (Feb. 15, 2019); Exelon Corp. (Feb. 26, 2010); and Exxon Mobil Corp. (Burt) (Mar. 23, 2009). Applying this standard, the Staff has noted that “a determination that the company has substantially implemented the proposal depends upon whether [the company’s] particular policies, practices and procedures compare favorably with the guidelines of the proposal.” Texaco, Inc. (Mar. 6, 1991, recon. granted Mar. 28, 1991). See also, Annaly Capital Management, Inc. (Feb. 22, 2019).

The Proposal requests that the “Board of Directors disclose on the Company website any recipient which receives $1,000 or more of direct contributions, excluding employee matching gifts.” As discussed in the Initial Request Letter, the essential objective of the Proposal is public disclosure of the Company’s charitable contributions, with an intent to effect charitable giving to certain organizations. As demonstrated by materials that have already been made publicly available, the Company has publicly disclosed the information requested by the Proposal and no additional disclosure would be necessitated to implement the Proposal’s request for transparency. As stated in footnote 3 of the Initial Request Letter, “The Supporting Statement’s discussion of the benefits of public disclosure ignores the fact that the JPMorgan Chase Foundation, like all private foundations, is required to annually file IRS Form 990-PF, which is available on many public websites such as www.GuideStar.org, www.erieri.com, and www.ProPublica.org, and on some state AG websites. JPMorgan Chase Foundation’s annual Forms 990-PF are filed with the Delaware Attorney General. Form 990-PF provides information on JPMorgan Chase Foundation’s mission, programs, and finances – as well as a list of the names of each recipient of JPMorgan Chase Foundation’s grants and contributions, fundraising, or investments, the purpose of such grants and contributions, and the dollar amount received by each recipient, as sought by the Proposal.” In this regard, the JPMorgan Chase Foundation’s most recent Form 990-PF provides information regarding contributions to each of the seven organizations named in the Proposal (American Heart Association, American Cancer Society, Boys and Girls Clubs, Girl Scouts, Planned Parenthood, Red Cross, and Southern Poverty Law Center).¹

The Staff has permitted exclusion under Rule 14a-8(i)(10) where a company already had addressed the underlying concerns and satisfied the essential objectives of the proposal, even if the proposal had not been implemented exactly as proposed by the proponent. For example, in PG&E Corp. (Mar. 10, 2010), the Staff permitted exclusion under Rule 14a-8(i)(10) of a proposal requesting that the company provide a report disclosing, among other things, the company’s standards for choosing the organizations to which the company makes charitable contributions and the “business rationale and purpose for each of the charitable contributions.” In arguing that the proposal had been substantially implemented, the company referred to two existing webpages where the company had described its policies and guidelines for determining the types of grants that it makes and the types of requests that the company typically does not fund. Although the proposal appeared to contemplate disclosure of each and every charitable contribution, the company argued that existing webpages provided the “majority” of the information requested by the proposal and the Staff concluded that the company had substantially implemented the proposal. See also, e.g., The Boeing Co. (Feb. 3, 2016) (permitting exclusion on substantial implementation grounds of a proposal requesting a report on, among other matters, the intended purpose of each charitable contribution by the company, where Boeing disclosed the intended purpose of its charitable giving but did not disclose each contribution made by the company).

Since the submission of the Initial Request Letter, the Staff concurred in a no-action request by Pfizer, Inc. to exclude a proposal in reliance on Rule 14a-8(i)(10). Pfizer, Inc. (February 5, 2020). In that instance, the proposal, also submitted by the Proponent, requested that:

[T]he Board of Directors consider issuing a statement on the Company website, omitting proprietary information and at reasonable cost, disclosing the Company’s standards for choosing which organization receive the Company’s assets in the form of charitable contributions, and the rational, if any, for such contributions. Also, it is requested that any recipient which receives $1,000 or more of direct contributions, excluding employee matching gifts, be listed on the Company website.

In its no-action request, Pfizer argued that “[g]iven the existing disclosure on Pfizer’s website explaining the standards and rationale for the bulk of its charitable contributions and listing the recipients and amounts of the donations, Pfizer has satisfied the essential objective of the Proposal.” The Staff concurred in this view.

Notably, unlike the Pfizer proposal’s request for disclosure of standards and rationale for charitable donations, the Proposal requests only that the Company publicly list any recipient of $1,000 or more of direct contributions. As shown in Exhibit A, the JPMorgan Chase Foundation’s Form PF-990 already provides the Proposal’s requested disclosure relating to the bulk of the Company’s charitable contributions, including a list of donation recipients and amounts. This Form PF-990 is publicly available and lists each recipient’s name, including the names of every organization named in the Proposal.

The Proposal’s stated objective is disclosure of a list of charitable contributions – “Fuller disclosure would provide enhanced feedback opportunities from which our Company could make more fruitful decisions. Decisions regarding corporate philanthropy should be transparent to serve the interests of shareholders better.” The Company’s existing public disclosures fulfill the essential objective of the Proposal and, as such, the Company has substantially implemented the Proposal and may exclude it under Rule 14a-8(i)(10). The existing public availability of the information requested to be publicly available in the Proposal also demonstrates the true objective of the Proposal – limiting contributions on behalf of the Company to specific organizations – and further demonstrates the basis for the Company’s view that the Proposal also may be excluded under Rule 14a-8(i)(7).

II. CONCLUSION

For the reasons discussed in the Initial Request Letter and discussed further above, the Company continues to be of the view that it may properly omit the Proposal from its 2020 Proxy Materials in reliance on Rule 14a-8. If we can be of further assistance in this matter, please do not hesitate to contact me at (202) 778-1611.

Sincerely,

Martin P. Dunn

4947(a)(1) nonexempt charitable trust treated as a private foundation

501(c)(3) taxable private foundation

Check if your organization is covered by the General Rule or a Special Rule.

Note: Only a section 501(c)(7), (8), or (10) organization can check boxes for both the General Rule and a Special Rule. See instructions.

General Rule

For an organization filing Form 990, 990-EZ, or 990-PF that received, during the year, contributions totaling $5,000 or more (in money or property) from any one contributor. Complete Parts I and II. See instructions for determining a contributor's total contributions.

Special Rules

For an organization described in section 501(c)(3) filing Form 990 or 990-EZ that met the 33 1/3% support test of the regulations under sections 509(a)(1) and 170(b)(1)(A)(vi), that checked Schedule A (Form 990 or 990-EZ), Part II, line 13, 16a, or 16b, and that received from any one contributor, during the year, total contributions of the greater of (1) $5,000; or (2) 2% of the amount on (i) Form 990, Part VIII, line 1h; or (ii) Form 990-EZ, line 1. Complete Parts I and II.

For an organization described in section 501(c)(7), (8), or (10) filing Form 990 or 990-EZ that received from any one contributor, during the year, total contributions of more than $1,000 exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals. Complete Parts I (entering "N/A" in column (b) instead of the contributor name and address), II, and III.

For an organization described in section 501(c)(7), (8), or (10) filing Form 990 or 990-EZ that received from any one contributor, during the year, contributions exclusively for religious, charitable, etc., purposes, but no such contributions totaled more than $1,000. If this box is checked, enter here the total contributions that were received during the year for an exclusively religious, charitable, etc., purpose. Don't complete any of the parts unless the General Rule applies to this organization because it received nonexclusively religious, charitable, etc., contributions totaling $5,000 or more during the year ▶ $ _____

Caution: An organization that isn't covered by the General Rule and/or the Special Rules doesn't file Schedule B (Form 990, 990-EZ, or 990-PF), but it must answer "No" on Part IV, line 2, of its Form 990; or check the box on line H of its Form 990-EZ or on its Form 990-PF, Part I, line 2, to certify that it doesn't meet the filing requirements of Schedule B (Form 990, 990-EZ, or 990-PF).

Re: JPMorgan Chase & Co.
Shareholder Proposal of Thomas Strobhar

Dear Ladies and Gentlemen:

We submit this letter on behalf of our client JPMorgan Chase & Co., a Delaware corporation (the "Company"), which requests confirmation that the staff (the "Staff") of the Division of Corporation Finance of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Commission") will not recommend enforcement action to the Commission if, in reliance on Rule 14a-8 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (the "Exchange Act"), the Company omits the enclosed shareholder proposal (the "Proposal") and supporting statement (the "Supporting Statement") submitted by Thomas Strobhar (the "Proponent") from the Company's proxy materials for its 2020 Annual Meeting of Shareholders (the "2020 Proxy Materials").

Pursuant to Rule 14a-8(j) under the Exchange Act, we have:

- submitted this letter to the Staff no later than eighty (80) calendar days before the Company intends to file its definitive 2020 Proxy Materials with the Commission; and
- concurrently sent copies of this correspondence to the Proponent.

Pursuant to the guidance provided in Section F of Staff Legal Bulletin 14F (Oct. 18, 2011), we ask that the Staff provide its response to this request to Martin Dunn, on behalf of the Company, via email at mdunn@mofo.com, and to the Proponent via email at

I. THE PROPOSAL

On December 9, 2019, the Company received an email from the Proponent containing the Proposal for inclusion in the Company's 2020 Proxy Materials.¹ The Proposal reads as follows:

Whereas, the Company's charitable contributions, properly managed, are likely to enhance the reputation of the Company:

Whereas, increased disclosure regarding appropriate charitable contributions is expected to create goodwill for our company.

Whereas, making the benefits of our Company's philanthropic programs broadly known is likely to promote the Company's interests:

Whereas, transparency and corresponding feedback from shareholders, the philanthropic community and others, could be useful in guiding the Company's future charitable decision making:

Resolved: The Proponent requests that the Board of Directors disclose on the Company website any recipient which receives $1,000 or more of direct contributions, excluding employee matching gifts.

Supporting Statement

Absent a system of accountability and transparency, some charitable contributions may be handled unwisely, potentially harming the Company's reputation and shareholder value. Corporate charitable contributions should be given as much exposure as possible, lest their intended impact on goodwill is diminished. For example, if we gave to the American Cancer Society potentially thousands of our stakeholders might approve of our interest in challenging this disease. Likewise, our support of Planned Parenthood could win the praise of millions of Americans who have had an abortion at one of their facilities. Educational organizations, like the Southern Poverty Law Center, have seen an increase in their funding since they included several conservative Christian organizations on their list of hate groups. Our stakeholders and customers might be similarly enthused if we supported them. Be it the Girl Scouts, American Heart Association, Boys and Girls Club of America, Red Cross or countless other possible recipients; our support should be publicly noted. Those who might disagree with our decisions can play a valuable role also.

Fuller disclosure would provide enhanced feedback opportunities from which our Company could make more fruitful decisions. Decisions regarding corporate philanthropy should be transparent to serve the interests of shareholders better.

II. EXCLUSION OF THE PROPOSAL

A. Basis for Excluding the Proposal

As discussed more fully below, the Company believes it may properly omit the Proposal from its 2020 Proxy Materials in reliance on Rule 14a-8(i)(7), as the Proposal deals with matters related to the Company's ordinary business operations.

B. The Proposal May Be Omitted in Reliance on Rule 14a-8(i)(7) Because It Deals With Matters Relating to the Company's Ordinary Business Operations

Rule 14a-8(i)(7) permits a company to omit from its proxy materials a shareholder proposal that relates to the company's "ordinary business operations." According to the Commission, the underlying policy of the ordinary business exclusion is "to confine the resolution of ordinary business problems to management and the board of directors, since it is impracticable for shareholders to decide how to solve such problems at an annual shareholders meeting." Exchange Act Release No. 40018 (May 21, 1998) (the "1998 Release"). In the 1998 Release, the Commission described the two "central considerations" for the ordinary business exclusion. One consideration of the 1998 Release relates to "the degree to which the proposal seeks to 'micro-manage' the company by probing too deeply into matters of a complex nature upon which shareholders, as a group, would not be in a position to make an informed judgment." (footnote omitted). The other consideration is that certain tasks are "so fundamental to management's ability to run a company on a day-to-day basis that they could not, as a practical matter, be subject to direct shareholder oversight" and, as such, may be excluded, unless the proposal raises policy issues that are sufficiently significant to transcend day-to-day business matters.

1. The Proposal May be Omitted Because it Seeks to Micromanage the Company

It is the Company's view that the Proposal may be properly omitted in reliance on Rule 14a-8(i)(7) because the Staff has repeatedly concurred that a proposal that seeks to micromanage

the determinations of a company's management regarding day-to-day decisions is excludable under Rule 14a-8(i)(7) as a component of "ordinary business."

In the 1998 Release, the Commission explained that the micromanagement consideration "may come into play in a number of circumstances, such as where the proposal involves intricate detail, or seeks to impose specific time-frames or methods for implementing complex policies." The Commission has long held that proposals requesting a report are evaluated by the Staff by considering the underlying subject matter of the proposal when applying Rule 14a-8(i)(7). See Exchange Act Release No. 20091 (Aug. 16, 1983) (the "1983 Release"). In Staff Legal Bulletin No. 14J (Oct. 23, 2018) ("SLB 14J"), stated that proposals "seek[ing] to impose specific time-frames or methods for implementing complex policies" are excludable under Rule 14a-8(i)(7) as seeking to micromanage a company. In this regard, in SLB 14J, the Staff stated that, "consistent with Commission guidance, [we will] consider the underlying substance of the matters addressed by the study or report. Thus, for example, a proposal calling for a report may be excludable if the substance of the report relates to the imposition or assumption of specific timeframes or methods for implementing complex policies." Further, in Staff Legal Bulletin No. 14K (October 16, 2019), the Staff stated: "When analyzing a proposal to determine the underlying concern or central purpose of any proposal, we look not only to the resolved clause but to the proposal in its entirety. Thus, if a supporting statement modifies or re-focuses the intent of the resolved clause, or effectively requires some action in order to achieve the proposal's central purpose as set forth in the resolved clause, we take that into account in determining whether the proposal seeks to micromanage the company."

In this regard, it is important to note that the Proposal is not limited to the publication of recipients of charitable contributions. Rather, as demonstrated by the Supporting Statement, the requested publication is intended to restrict charitable contributions made to certain organizations (i.e., those named in the Proposal – Planned Parenthood and the Southern Poverty Law Center) with respect to which some shareholders and customers "might be similarly enthused." This statement is particularly informative as to the intent of the Proposal, particularly when read in conjunction with the later statement in the Supporting Statement which notes that certain shareholders "might disagree with our [charitable contribution] decisions" to such organizations.² The requested publication is intended to encourage those who disagree with such contributions to "play a valuable role" by voicing their opposition. In response to such opposition, the Supporting Statement indicates that "our Company could make more fruitful decisions" with respect to its charitable contributions. The Supporting Statement lists these two organizations, whose actions have resulted in "millions of Americans who have had an abortion at one of [Planned Parenthood’s] facilities” and “have seen an increase in [the Southern Poverty Law Center’s] funding since they included several conservative Christian organizations on their list of hate groups,” without any evidence indicating that these two organizations misuse charitable contributions. As the Proposal clearly seeks to limit the Company’s charitable contributions to the two organizations targeted in the Supporting Statement, which support an agenda different than what is supported by the Proponent, the Proposal seeks to micromanage management’s charitable contribution decisions.

The Company is a global financial services firm that specializes in investment banking, financial services for consumers, small business and commercial banking, financial transaction processing, asset management, and private equity. In connection with enabling more people to contribute to and share in the rewards of a growing economy, the Company and the JPMorgan Chase Foundation contribute to nonprofit organizations across the United States and globally to assist various causes, such as small business expansion, financial health, neighborhood revitalization, and humanitarian and environmental aid. As such, the Company’s decisions with respect to which organizations it will direct its charitable contributions are central to its ability to run its operations on a day-to-day basis. The Company’s management invests a significant amount of time, energy, and effort on a daily basis in analyzing and determining how the Company will distribute its charitable contributions to best support economic opportunity. Management establishes appropriate standards for making charitable decisions, which are then considered on a day-to-day basis by management and employees who are making the charitable contributions decisions.

The Company’s conclusion that the Proposal seeks to micromanage the Company is supported by recent Staff decisions. In JPMorgan Chase & Co. (Rosenfeld) (Mar. 13, 2019), the Staff concurred in the exclusion of a proposal which asked the Company to institute transparent procedures to avoid holding or recommending investments in companies that, in management’s judgment, substantially contribute to genocide or crimes against humanity. While the proposal did not explicitly dictate an alteration of Company policy, the Staff found that it micromanaged in that it sought to “impose specific methods for implementing complex policies.”

As was the case in JPMorgan Chase & Co. (Rosenfeld), the Proposal requests that the Company undertake a specific analysis regarding complex policies relating to the Company’s charitable contributions decisions (i.e., whether to limit the Company’s charitable contributions to the two organizations targeted in the Supporting Statement, which support an agenda different than what is supported by the Proponent).³ Further, the Proposal seeks to impose upon the Company’s charitable contribution decisions the Proponent’s opinion on which nonprofit organizations are suitable to receive aid from the Company, thereby significantly impacting the day-to-day decision making of the Company regarding how it chooses nonprofit organizations to which it will provide charitable contributions. The Company's decisions regarding the appropriate policies and practices to implement with respect to decisions regarding to which organizations it will direct its charitable contributions requires deep knowledge of the Company's business, operations and long-term strategy – information to which the Company's shareholders do not have access. Determining the appropriate policies and practices for these decisions also requires consideration of numerous factors, including the objectives of a particular nonprofit organization, the expected use of the charitable contribution, legal and regulatory considerations and competitive factors, among others. Company personnel similarly must consider those and other factors in making specific decisions regarding whether to distribute charitable contributions to a particular nonprofit organization.

The Proposal seeks to dictate that the Company not provide charitable contributions to particular nonprofit organizations, even if the nonprofit organizations targeted in the Supporting Statement otherwise meet all of the conditions established in the Company's policies and procedures. The requests within the Proposal and Supporting Statement would clearly impact the Company's policies and procedures with respect to how the Company evaluates nonprofit organizations for potential charitable contributions and the ongoing decisions the Company makes with respect to those potential charitable contribution recipients. Those Company decisions involve complex, day-to-day operational determinations of management that are dependent on management's underlying expertise. As the Proposal would impose a specific, over-riding requirement regarding day-to-day management decisions (e.g., a restriction on charitable contributions to two specific organizations), the Company is of the view that the Proposal seeks to micromanage the Company by probing too deeply into matters of a complex nature upon which shareholders, as a group, would not be in a position to make an informed judgment. As a result, the Proposal may be omitted pursuant to Rule 14a-8(i)(7) as it seeks to micromanage the Company.

2. The Proposal May Be Omitted because it Relates to Ordinary Business Matters

a. The Company's Charitable Contributions to Specific Types of Organizations Are Ordinary Business Matters

It is the Company's view that the Proposal may be properly omitted in reliance on Rule 14a-8(i)(7) because the Staff has repeatedly recognized that a proposal relating to charitable contributions to specific types of organizations is excludable under Rule 14a-8(i)(7) as a component of "ordinary business." At its core, the Proposal attempts to hinder the Company's contributions to organizations whose agendas appear to be inconsistent with the Proponent's views. This conclusion is reinforced by references to two specific organizations in the Supporting Statement (Planned Parenthood and the Southern Poverty Law Center), which references are unrelated to the Proposal's purported goal of preventing "some charitable contributions [to] be handled unwisely, potentially harming the Company's reputation and shareholder value.” The subject matter of the Proposal’s requested publication, therefore, relates directly to the ordinary business matter of determining the particular nonprofit organizations to which the Company should or should not direct its charitable contributions and the Company’s standards for selecting the recipients of its charitable contributions.

The Company takes a comprehensive approach to increasing economic opportunity through its charitable contributions, using its global scale, talent, and resources to make investments and create partnerships in workforce skills development, small business expansion, financial capability for individuals, and community development. In 2019, the Company and the JPMorgan Chase Foundation gave nearly $255 million to nonprofit organizations across the United States and in 38 countries around the world to assist various causes, such as small business expansion, financial health, neighborhood revitalization and humanitarian and environmental aid. The Supporting Statement expresses specific opposition to the Company’s charitable contributions to Planned Parenthood and the Southern Poverty Law Center. As such, the Proposal relates to the Company’s ordinary business operations because it targets the Company’s decisions to direct its charitable contributions to specific organizations. The Company’s decisions as to whether to contribute its charitable funds to certain organizations are precisely the kind of fundamental, day-to-day operational matters meant to be covered by the ordinary business operations exception under Rule 14a-8(i)(7).

The Proposal requests that the Company publish on its website “any recipient which receives $1,000 or more of direct contributions.” As noted above, the Commission has long held that proposals requesting a report are evaluated by the Staff by considering the underlying subject matter of the proposal when applying Rule 14a-8(i)(7). See the 1983 Release. The Proposal is not limited to the publication of recipients on the Company’s website; rather, as demonstrated by the Supporting Statement, the requested publication is intended to serve as “a system of accountability and transparency” to allow “[t]hose who might disagree with [the Company’s charitable] decisions [to] play a valuable role” because “some charitable contributions may be handled unwisely, potentially harming the Company’s reputation and shareholder value.” Despite its apparently neutral discussion of the potential for charitable donations being “handled unwisely,” the Supporting Statement then lists two specific organizations, discusses them pejoratively, and notes that “[t]hose who might disagree with our [charitable giving] decisions can play a valuable role also.” As the Proposal explicitly seeks to direct the Company’s charitable contributions away from specific organizations, the Proposal would clearly impact how the Company evaluates its charitable contributions to specific organizations. The decision-making process relating to charitable contributions is fundamental to management’s ability to run the Company on a day-to-day basis; as such, the proposal relates to the Company’s ordinary business operations.

The Staff has concurred that proposals seeking to either require a company to make or prohibit a company from making contributions to specific types of organizations relate to a company’s ordinary business operations and, as such, may be omitted under Rule 14a-8(i)(7). See, e.g., PG&E Corp. (Feb. 4, 2015) (concurring in the omission of a proposal suggesting the board “make appropriate changes to avoid future losses due to anti-family contributions and how to limit anti-family contributions”); The Boeing Co. (Jan. 21, 2005) (concurring in the omission of a proposal directing the company’s “gift matching program” to include the Boy Scouts of America as an “eligible organization”); Wachovia Corp. (Jan. 25, 2005) (concurring in the omission of a proposal recommending that the board disallow the payment of corporate funds directed at Planned Parenthood and any other organizations involved in providing abortion services); Bank of America Corp. (Jan. 24, 2003) (concurring in the omission of a facially neutral proposal to refrain from making charitable contributions to Planned Parenthood and organizations that support abortion); and American Home Products Corp. (Mar. 4, 2002) (concurring in the omission of a facially neutral proposal that the company form a committee to study the impact of charitable contributions on the business of the company).

As shown by the above Staff precedent, the facial neutrality of the Proposal’s resolution itself does not change the analysis. Substantial precedent exists that recognizes that even where the language of a resolution does not target specific charities or types of charities, a proposal may still be omitted under Rule 14a-8(i)(7) where the supporting statement – as is the case with the Proposal – makes clear that the proposal is intended to serve as a shareholder referendum on corporate contributions to a particular charity or type of charity. See, e.g., Starbucks Corp. (Jan. 4, 2018) (contributions to specific types of organizations); The Home Depot (Mar. 18, 2011) (contributions to specific types of organizations); Johnson & Johnson (Feb. 12, 2007) (contributions to specific types of organizations); Pfizer (Feb. 12, 2007) (contributions to specific types of organizations); Wells Fargo & Co. (Feb. 12, 2007) (contributions to specific types of organizations); Bank of America Corp. (Jan. 24, 2003) (supporting statement opposed abortion); American Home Products Corp. (Mar. 4, 2002) (supporting statement opposed abortion); and Schering-Plough Corp. (Mar. 4, 2002) (supporting statement opposed abortion). The proposal in American Home Products, using the same approach as in the Proposal, attempted to frame a proposal aimed at a specific type of charitable contribution with a facially neutral proposal. Finding this proposal to be related to “charitable contributions directed to specific types of organizations,” the Staff concurred that it could be omitted from the company’s proxy materials in reliance on Rule 14a-8(i)(7). In reaching this decision, the Staff went beyond the face of the proposal in recognizing the proponent’s and the proposal’s true objective.

In Starbucks Corp., the proposal – which was also submitted by the Proponent – was facially neutral, but the supporting statement criticized Planned Parenthood for “being the subject of much controversy,” the Human Rights Campaign for “call[ing] people who don’t support same-sex marriage haters and bigots,” and the Southern Poverty Law Center for “publish[ing] a list of ‘hate’ groups.” The company argued that the supporting statement “clearly reveal[ed] the [p]roponent’s true intent to use a vote on this otherwise facially [neutral] resolution to target contributions to support organizations that support abortion and same-sex marriage, such as Planned Parenthood, the Human Rights Campaign and the Southern Poverty Law Center.” In The Home Depot, the proposal was facially neutral and simply requested the company to list the recipients of corporate charitable contributions or merchandise vouchers on the company website. However, the company argued that the proposal targeted specific organizations because “[a] majority of the [p]roponent’s supporting statement refers to GLBT groups, related events or same-sex marriage.” Similarly, in Johnson & Johnson and Pfizer, the proponents submitted proposals that requested the board to implement a policy listing all charitable contributions on their websites. Notwithstanding the facial neutrality of the resolutions, the preambles and supporting statements targeted specific kinds of charitable contributions, namely contributions to Planned Parenthood and organizations that support abortion and same-sex marriage. In Schering-Plough Corp., a facially neutral proposal requested that the company “form a committee to study the impact [that] charitable contributions have on the business of the company and its share value.” The company argued that the proposal, along with its supporting statement, was “clearly designed to involve the company in the issue of abortion.” In The Walt Disney Company (Nov. 10, 1997), a facially neutral proposal requested that the company “refrain from making any charitable contributions.” However, when read in combination with the proposal’s supporting statement, it was evident that the proposal was directed at contributions to organizations advocating homosexual causes. Similarly, in Wells Fargo & Company (Feb. 12, 2007), a facially neutral resolution was submitted with a preamble and supporting statement with references to Planned Parenthood as well as “survey statistics and reports, concerning sexual practices, sexual orientation, religion, sexually transmitted diseases” The Staff found these proposals to be related to the companies’ “ordinary business operations (i.e., contributions to specific types of organizations),” and concurred that these proposals could be omitted from the companies’ proxy materials in reliance on Rule 14a-8(i)(7).

As was the case in the letters described above, the Proposal itself appears to be facially neutral; however, when read with the Supporting Statement, the Company believes that the Proposal is merely an attempt to conduct a shareholder referendum opposing the Company’s interaction with particular organizations or groups that support an agenda different than what is supported by the Proponent. As with Starbucks Corp., The Home Depot, Johnson & Johnson, Pfizer, Schering-Plough Corp., The Walt Disney Company and the other precedent cited above, the Proponent’s and the Proposal’s true objective is evidenced by the following statements in the Supporting Statement:

- “[O]ur support of Planned Parenthood could win the praise of millions of Americans who have had an abortion at one of their facilities.”
- “Educational organizations, like the Southern Poverty Law Center, have seen an increase in their funding since they included several conservative Christian organizations on their list of hate groups. Our stakeholders and customers might be similarly enthused if we supported them.”
- “Those who might disagree with our decisions can play a valuable role also.”

Notwithstanding the facial neutrality of the Proposal itself, the above statements make clear that the Proposal is directed at charitable contributions to two specific organizations.

We are aware that in certain circumstances the Staff has been unable to concur with the exclusion under Rule 14a-8(i)(7) of facially neutral shareholder proposals relating to charitable donations in which the companies argued that such proposals were actually directed to specific types of organizations. See, e.g., McDonald's Corp. (Feb. 28, 2017) (the Staff was unable to concur with the exclusion under Rule 14a-8(i)(7) of a proposal to provide a report disclosing charitable contributions and related information); Wells Fargo & Co. (Feb. 19, 2010) (the Staff was unable to concur with the exclusion under Rule 14a-8(i)(7) of a proposal requesting the company list the recipients of charitable contributions on its website). We believe that the current Proposal is distinguishable from those situations, as those proposals did not, as in the Proposal and Supporting Statement, demonstrate the proponent's desire to impact or influence the corporate giving strategies of those particular companies. Furthermore, the supporting statements to those proposals contained only brief or isolated references to a specific charitable organization or cause. By contrast, the Supporting Statement clearly states the Proponent's purpose is to guide the Company's philanthropic decision-making, targets two specific organizations, and claims that charitable contributions may be handled "unwisely"; these statements have the collective effect of overshadowing the apparently neutral language of the Proposal's resolved clause. Indeed, the Proponent does not claim that either of the two specific organizations targeted in the Supporting Statement handled charitable contributions "unwisely." Rather, the Proposal and Supporting Statement state that affiliation with those organizations may result in the Company's stakeholders and customers being "similarly enthused" by "millions of Americans who have had an abortion at one of [Planned Parenthood's] facilities" or those that donated to the Southern Poverty Law Center "since they included several conservative Christian organizations on their list of hate groups," for reasons entirely unrelated to allegedly handling charitable contributions "unwisely."

In Wells Fargo & Co. (Feb. 19, 2010), the language of the proposal's resolution was similar to the current Proposal, but the supporting statement and preamble clauses were focused on the proponent's desire to "enhance the image" of the company, and the supporting statement included neutral statements, such as "[w]hether one approves or disapproves of abortion, most would acknowledge that it is a controversial issue." In contrast, the Proposal's first "whereas" clause and the provocative statements in the Supporting Statement cast serious doubt on the Proponent's stated desire to prevent "some charitable contributions [to be] handled unwisely"; rather, these statements make abundantly clear the Proposal's intent to direct the Company's philanthropic decision-making away from specific organizations by conducting a shareholder referendum on contributions to specific nonprofit organizations. This is precisely the type of direct involvement by shareholders by way of the proxy process in a routine matter relating to a company's ordinary business operations that Rule 14a-8(i)(7) is intended to curtail. The Company contributes to and invests in organizations and initiatives to drive inclusive growth by building job skills, expanding small businesses, revitalizing neighborhoods, and promoting financial health. These contributions are made in accordance with the Company's long-term strategy and with a deep understanding of the Company's resources and analysis of market trends, financial data, and other factors. Therefore, the Company is of the view that whether it decides to commence or cease contributions to a particular organization falls squarely within the scope of its ordinary day-to-day business operations under Rule 14a-8(i)(7).

Furthermore, permitting shareholders to effectively transform an otherwise facially neutral shareholder proposal into a referendum targeting the Company's contributions (or lack thereof) to specific nonprofit groups or causes is likely to generate numerable, opposing, and potentially incendiary shareholder proposals each year. Shareholders as a group are simply not well-positioned to make determinations, through the proxy process, regarding the grant-making decisions the Company makes on a day-to-day basis in the diverse communities in which it conducts business.

It is the Company's view that the Proposal may be properly omitted in reliance on Rule 14a-8(i)(7) because the Proposal is focused on the ordinary business matter of determining charitable contributions to specific types of organizations.

b. The Proposal Does Not Focus Solely on a Significant Policy Issue; it Focuses, at least in part, on Ordinary Business Matters

The Company is of the view that the Proposal does not implicate a significant policy issue as such an issue is not self-evident on the face of the Proposal; nor does the Proponent assert a significant policy issue in the Supporting Statement. Nonetheless, even if the Proposal touches upon a policy issue that may be of such significance that the matter transcends ordinary business and would be appropriate for a shareholder vote, if the Proposal does not focus on such significant policy issue, the Staff has consistently concurred with the exclusion of the proposal. Further, even if a proposal itself focuses on a significant policy issue, language accompanying a proposal may be used to demonstrate that the proposal relates to ordinary business matters. The Staff stated in Staff Legal Bulletin No. 14C (June 28, 2005) that “[i]n determining whether the focus of these proposals is a significant social policy issue, we consider both the proposal and the supporting statement as a whole.” For example, in JPMorgan Chase & Co. (NCPPR) (Feb. 28, 2018), the Staff concurred with the exclusion under Rule 14a-8(i)(7) of a proposal with a whereas clause and resolution concerning the general charitable contribution activities of the Company where the supporting statement demonstrated that the thrust and focus of the proposal was on specific Company charitable contributions, which are ordinary business matters. Similarly, in Johnson & Johnson (Northstar) (Feb. 10, 2014), the Staff concurred with the exclusion under Rule 14a-8(i)(7) of a proposal with a resolution concerning the general political activities of the company where the preamble paragraphs to the proposal demonstrated that the thrust and focus of the proposal was on specific company political expenditures, which are ordinary business matters. The Company is of the view that the Proposal's request, on its face, does not pertain to a significant policy issue. The discussion in the Proposal and Supporting Statement thereafter makes clear that the focus of the Proposal is the ordinary business matter of charitable contributions to specific types of organizations.

If the Staff were to conclude that the Proposal, even in part, relates to a policy issue that transcends ordinary business and would be appropriate for a shareholder vote, as was the case in

Office of Chief Counsel
Division of Corporation Finance
U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission
January 13, 2020

the letters discussed above, the Proposal may nonetheless be excluded pursuant to Rule 14a-8(i)(7) because it is not focused on such policy issue and clearly addresses matters related to the Company's ordinary business operations. The Company is of the view that the Proposal relates to the ordinary business matter of the Company's charitable contributions to specific types of organizations and is not focused on a significant policy issue. The Company's view is supported by the language of the Proposal and Supporting Statement which discuss the agendas of two specific charitable organizations and the Company's potential charitable contributions to these organizations, which are considerations that relate to the ordinary business of charitable contributions decisions.

The criteria the Company chooses to utilize in its myriad charitable contributions decisions is a day-to-day operational determination of management. As the Proposal relates to the Company's ordinary business operations of its charitable contributions criteria, and is not focused on a significant policy issue, the Company is of the view that it may properly omit the Proposal pursuant to Rule 14a-8(i)(7).

III. CONCLUSION

For the reasons discussed above, the Company believes that it may properly omit the Proposal from its 2020 Proxy Materials in reliance on Rule 14a-8. As such, we respectfully request that the Staff concur with the Company's view and not recommend enforcement action to the Commission if the Company omits the Proposal from its 2020 Proxy Materials. If we can be of further assistance in this matter, please do not hesitate to contact me at (202) 778-1611.

Ms. Molly Carpenter
Corporate Secretary
JP Morgan Chase
4 New York Plaza
New York, NY 10004

Dear Ms. Carpenter:

I am the owner of 50 shares of JP Morgan Chase.

I have owned them continuously for over a year and intend to hold them through the time of our next annual meeting. At that meeting I will make the following proposal:

Whereas, the Company's charitable contributions, properly managed, are likely to enhance the reputation of the Company:

Whereas, increased disclosure regarding appropriate charitable contributions is expected to create goodwill for our company.

Whereas, making the benefits of our Company's philanthropic programs broadly known is likely to promote the Company's interests:

Whereas, transparency and corresponding feedback from shareholders, the philanthropic community and others, could be useful in guiding the Company's future charitable decision making:

Resolved: The Proponent requests that the Board of Directors consider issuing a statement on the Company website, omitting proprietary information and at reasonable cost, disclosing the Company's standards for choosing which organization receive the Company's assets in the form of charitable contributions, and the rationale, if any, for such contributions. Also, it is requested that any recipient which receives $1,000 or more of direct contributions, excluding employee matching gifts, be listed on the Company website.

Supporting Statement

Absent a system of accountability and transparency, some charitable contributions may be handled unwisely, potentially harming the Company's reputation and shareholder value. Corporate charitable contributions should be given as much exposure as possible, lest their intended impact on goodwill is diminished. For example, if we gave to the American Cancer Society potentially thousands of our stakeholders might approve of our interest in challenging this disease. Likewise, our support of Planned Parenthood could win the praise of millions of Americans who have had an abortion at one of their facilities. Educational organizations, like the Southern Poverty Law Center, have seen an increase in their funding since they included several conservative Christian organizations on their list of hate groups. Our stakeholders and customers might be similarly enthused if we supported them. Be it the Girl Scouts, American Heart Association, Boys and Girls Club of America, Red Cross or countless other possible recipients; our support should be publicly noted. Those who might disagree with our decisions can play a valuable role also.

Fuller disclosure would provide enhanced feedback opportunities from which our Company could make more fruitful decisions. Decisions regarding corporate philanthropy should be transparent to serve the interests of shareholders better.

Dear Mr. Strobhar:

I am writing on behalf of JPMorgan Chase & Co. (“JPMC”), which received from you (the “Proponent”), via USPS on November 27, 2019, the shareholder submission regarding charitable contributions disclosure (the “Submission”) for consideration at JPMC’s 2020 Annual Meeting of Shareholders.

The Submission contains certain procedural deficiencies, as set forth below, which Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) regulations require us to bring to your attention.

No More Than One Proposal

Rule 14a-8(c) provides that a stockholder may submit no more than one proposal to a company for a particular stockholders’ meeting. We believe that the Submission contains more than one stockholder proposal. Specifically, we believe that the Submission requests that the Board of Directors (1) issue a statement on the JPMC website disclosing JPMC’s standards for choosing which organizations receive JPMC’s assets in the form of charitable contributions, and the rationale, if any, for such contributions; and (2) disclose on the JPMC website any recipient which receives $1,000 or more direct contributions, excluding employee matching gifts.

The Submission must be limited to a single proposal to satisfy the requirements of Rule 14a-8(c). You may correct this procedural deficiency by indicating which proposal you would like to submit and which proposal you would like to withdraw, or by submitting a revised submission in its entirety.

Ownership Verification

Rule 14a-8(b) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, provides that each shareholder proponent must submit sufficient proof that it has continuously held at least $2,000 in market value, or 1%, of a company’s shares entitled to vote on the proposal for at least one year as of the date the shareholder proposal was submitted. JPMC’s stock records do not indicate that the Proponent is the record owner of sufficient shares to satisfy this requirement. In addition, to date we have not received proof from the Proponent that it has satisfied Rule 14a-8’s ownership requirements as of the date that the Proposal was submitted to JPMC. In this regard, our records indicate that you submitted the Proposal on November 21, 2019.

To remedy this defect, you must submit sufficient proof of ownership of JPMC shares. As explained in Rule 14a-8(b), sufficient proof may be in one of the following forms:

- A written statement from the “record” holder of the shares (usually a broker or a bank) verifying that, as of the date the Proposal was submitted (i.e., November 21, 2019), the Proponent continuously held the requisite number of JPMC shares for at least one year.
- If the Proponent has filed a Schedule 13D, Schedule 13G, Form 3, Form 4 or Form 5, or amendments to those documents or updated forms, reflecting ownership of JPMC shares as of or before the date on which the one-year eligibility period begins, a copy of the schedule and/or form, and any subsequent amendments reporting a change in the ownership level and a written statement that the Proponent continuously held the required number of shares for the one-year period.

To help shareholders comply with the requirement to prove ownership by providing a written statement from the “record” holder of the shares, the SEC’s Division of Corporation Finance (the “SEC Staff”) published Staff Legal Bulletin No. 14F (“SLB 14F”). In SLB 14F, the SEC Staff stated that only brokers or banks that are Depository Trust Company (“DTC”) participants will be viewed as “record” holders for purposes of Rule 14a-8. Thus, you will need to obtain the required written statement from the DTC participant through which your shares are held. If you are not certain whether your broker or bank is a DTC participant, you may check the DTC’s participant list, which is currently available on the Internet at <http://www.dtcc.com/~media/Files/Downloads/client-center/DTC/alpha.ashx>. If your broker or bank is not on DTC’s participant list, you will need to obtain proof of ownership from the DTC participant through which your securities are held. You should be able to determine the name of this DTC participant by asking your broker or bank. If the DTC participant knows the holdings of your broker or bank, but does not know your holdings, you may satisfy the proof of ownership requirement by obtaining and submitting two proof of ownership statements verifying that, at the time the proposal was submitted, the required amount of securities were continuously held by you for at least one year – with one statement from your broker or bank confirming your ownership, and the other statement from the DTC participant confirming the broker or bank’s ownership.

For your reference, please find enclosed a copy of SEC Rule 14a-8 and SLB 14F.

For the Proposal to be eligible for inclusion in JPMC’s proxy materials for JPMC’s 2020 Annual Meeting of Shareholders, the rules of the SEC require that a response to this letter, correcting all procedural deficiencies described in this letter, be postmarked or transmitted electronically no later than 14 calendar days from the date you receive this letter. Please address any response to me at 4 New York Plaza 8th Floor, New York NY 10004 or via email to corporate.secretary@jpmchase.com.

If you have any questions with respect to the foregoing, please contact me.

Sincerely,

Rule 14a-8 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934
Division of Corporation Finance Staff Bulletin No. 14F

Rule 14a-8 – Proposals of Security Holders

This section addresses when a company must include a shareholder's proposal in its proxy statement and identify the proposal in its form of proxy when the company holds an annual or special meeting of shareholders. In summary, in order to have your shareholder proposal included on a company's proxy card, and included along with any supporting statement in its proxy statement, you must be eligible and follow certain procedures. Under a few specific circumstances, the company is permitted to exclude your proposal, but only after submitting its reasons to the Commission. We structured this section in a question-and-answer format so that it is easier to understand. The references to "you" are to a shareholder seeking to submit the proposal.

(a) Question 1: What is a proposal?

A shareholder proposal is your recommendation or requirement that the company and/or its board of directors take action, which you intend to present at a meeting of the company's shareholders. Your proposal should state as clearly as possible the course of action that you believe the company should follow. If your proposal is placed on the company's proxy card, the company must also provide in the form of proxy means for shareholders to specify by boxes a choice between approval or disapproval, or abstention. Unless otherwise indicated, the word "proposal" as used in this section refers both to your proposal, and to your corresponding statement in support of your proposal (if any).

(b) Question 2: Who is eligible to submit a proposal, and how do I demonstrate to the company that I am eligible?

(1) In order to be eligible to submit a proposal, you must have continuously held at least $2,000 in market value, or 1%, of the company's securities entitled to be voted on the proposal at the meeting for at least one year by the date you submit the proposal. You must continue to hold those securities through the date of the meeting.

(2) If you are the registered holder of your securities, which means that your name appears in the company's records as a shareholder, the company can verify your eligibility on its own, although you will still have to provide the company with a written statement that you intend to continue to hold the securities through the date of the meeting of shareholders. However, if like many shareholders you are not a registered holder, the company likely does not know that you are a shareholder, or how many shares you own. In this case, at the time you submit your proposal, you must prove your eligibility to the company in one of two ways:

(i) The first way is to submit to the company a written statement from the "record" holder of your securities (usually a broker or bank) verifying that, at the time you submitted your proposal, you continuously held the securities for at least one year. You must also include your own written statement that you intend to continue to hold the securities through the date of the meeting of shareholders; or

- (ii) The second way to prove ownership applies only if you have filed a Schedule 13D (§ 240.13d-101), Schedule 13G (§ 240.13d-102), Form 3 (§ 249.103 of this chapter), Form 4 (§ 249.104 of this chapter) and/or Form 5 (§ 249.105 of this chapter), or amendments to those documents or updated forms, reflecting your ownership of the shares as of or before the date on which the one-year eligibility period begins. If you have filed one of these documents with the SEC, you may demonstrate your eligibility by submitting to the company:
 - (A) A copy of the schedule and/or form, and any subsequent amendments reporting a change in your ownership level;
 - (B) Your written statement that you continuously held the required number of shares for the one-year period as of the date of the statement; and
 - (C) Your written statement that you intend to continue ownership of the shares through the date of the company's annual or special meeting.
- (c) Question 3: How many proposals may I submit? Each shareholder may submit no more than one proposal to a company for a particular shareholders' meeting.
- (d) Question 4: How long can my proposal be? The proposal, including any accompanying supporting statement, may not exceed 500 words.
- (e) Question 5: What is the deadline for submitting a proposal?
 - (1) If you are submitting your proposal for the company's annual meeting, you can in most cases find the deadline in last year's proxy statement. However, if the company did not hold an annual meeting last year, or has changed the date of its meeting for this year more than 30 days from last year's meeting, you can usually find the deadline in one of the company's quarterly reports on Form 10-Q (§ 249.308a of this chapter), or in shareholder reports of investment companies under § 270.30d-1 of this chapter of the Investment Company Act of 1940. In order to avoid controversy, shareholders should submit their proposals by means, including electronic means, that permit them to prove the date of delivery.
 - (2) The deadline is calculated in the following manner if the proposal is submitted for a regularly scheduled annual meeting. The proposal must be received at the company's principal executive offices not less than 120 calendar days before the date of the company's proxy statement released to shareholders in connection with the previous year's annual meeting. However, if the company did not hold an annual meeting the previous year, or if the date of this year's annual meeting has been changed by more than 30 days from the date of the previous year's meeting, then the deadline is a reasonable time before the company begins to print and send its proxy materials.
 - (3) If you are submitting your proposal for a meeting of shareholders other than a regularly scheduled annual meeting, the deadline is a reasonable time before the company begins to print and send its proxy materials.

- (f) Question 6: What if I fail to follow one of the eligibility or procedural requirements explained in answers to Questions 1 through 4 of this section?
- (1) The company may exclude your proposal, but only after it has notified you of the problem, and you have failed adequately to correct it. Within 14 calendar days of receiving your proposal, the company must notify you in writing of any procedural or eligibility deficiencies, as well as of the time frame for your response. Your response must be postmarked, or transmitted electronically, no later than 14 days from the date you received the company's notification. A company need not provide you such notice of a deficiency if the deficiency cannot be remedied, such as if you fail to submit a proposal by the company's properly determined deadline. If the company intends to exclude the proposal, it will later have to make a submission under § 240.14a-8 and provide you with a copy under Question 10 below, § 240.14a-8(j).
 - (2) If you fail in your promise to hold the required number of securities through the date of the meeting of shareholders, then the company will be permitted to exclude all of your proposals from its proxy materials for any meeting held in the following two calendar years.
- (g) Question 7: Who has the burden of persuading the Commission or its staff that my proposal can be excluded? Except as otherwise noted, the burden is on the company to demonstrate that it is entitled to exclude a proposal.
- (h) Question 8: Must I appear personally at the shareholders' meeting to present the proposal?
- (1) Either you, or your representative who is qualified under state law to present the proposal on your behalf, must attend the meeting to present the proposal. Whether you attend the meeting yourself or send a qualified representative to the meeting in your place, you should make sure that you, or your representative, follow the proper state law procedures for attending the meeting and/or presenting your proposal.
 - (2) If the company holds its shareholder meeting in whole or in part via electronic media, and the company permits you or your representative to present your proposal via such media, then you may appear through electronic media rather than traveling to the meeting to appear in person.
 - (3) If you or your qualified representative fail to appear and present the proposal, without good cause, the company will be permitted to exclude all of your proposals from its proxy materials for any meetings held in the following two calendar years.
- (i) Question 9: If I have complied with the procedural requirements, on what other bases may a company rely to exclude my proposal?
- (1) Improper under state law: If the proposal is not a proper subject for action by shareholders under the laws of the jurisdiction of the company's organization;

Note to paragraph (i)(1): Depending on the subject matter, some proposals are not considered proper under state law if they would be binding on the company if approved by shareholders. In our experience, most proposals that are cast as recommendations or requests that the board of directors take specified action are proper under state law. Accordingly, we will assume that a proposal drafted as a recommendation or suggestion is proper unless the company demonstrates otherwise.

- (2) Violation of law: If the proposal would, if implemented, cause the company to violate any state, federal, or foreign law to which it is subject;

Note to paragraph (i)(2): We will not apply this basis for exclusion to permit exclusion of a proposal on grounds that it would violate foreign law if compliance with the foreign law would result in a violation of any state or federal law.

- (3) Violation of proxy rules: If the proposal or supporting statement is contrary to any of the Commission's proxy rules, including § 240.14a-9, which prohibits materially false or misleading statements in proxy soliciting materials;
- (4) Personal grievance; special interest: If the proposal relates to the redress of a personal claim or grievance against the company or any other person, or if it is designed to result in a benefit to you, or to further a personal interest, which is not shared by the other shareholders at large;
- (5) Relevance: If the proposal relates to operations which account for less than 5 percent of the company's total assets at the end of its most recent fiscal year, and for less than 5 percent of its net earnings and gross sales for its most recent fiscal year, and is not otherwise significantly related to the company's business;
- (6) Absence of power/authority: If the company would lack the power or authority to implement the proposal;
- (7) Management functions: If the proposal deals with a matter relating to the company's ordinary business operations;
- (8) Director elections: If the proposal:
- (i) Would disqualify a nominee who is standing for election;
 - (ii) Would remove a director from office before his or her term expired;
 - (iii) Questions the competence, business judgment, or character of one or more nominees or directors;
 - (iv) Seeks to include a specific individual in the company's proxy materials for election to the board of directors; or
 - (v) Otherwise could affect the outcome of the upcoming election of directors.

(9) Conflicts with company's proposal: If the proposal directly conflicts with one of the company's own proposals to be submitted to shareholders at the same meeting;

Note to paragraph (i)(9): A company's submission to the Commission under this section should specify the points of conflict with the company's proposal.

(10) Substantially implemented: If the company has already substantially implemented the proposal;

Note to paragraph (i)(10): A company may exclude a shareholder proposal that would provide an advisory vote or seek future advisory votes to approve the compensation of executives as disclosed pursuant to Item 402 of Regulation S-K (§ 229.402 of this chapter) or any successor to Item 402 (a "say-on-pay vote") or that relates to the frequency of say-on-pay votes, provided that in the most recent shareholder vote required by § 240.14a-21(b) of this chapter a single year (i.e., one, two, or three years) received approval of a majority of votes cast on the matter and the company has adopted a policy on the frequency of say-on-pay votes that is consistent with the choice of the majority of votes cast in the most recent shareholder vote required by § 240.14a-21(b) of this chapter.

(11) Duplication: If the proposal substantially duplicates another proposal previously submitted to the company by another proponent that will be included in the company's proxy materials for the same meeting;

(12) Resubmissions: If the proposal deals with substantially the same subject matter as another proposal or proposals that has or have been previously included in the company's proxy materials within the preceding 5 calendar years, a company may exclude it from its proxy materials for any meeting held within 3 calendar years of the last time it was included if the proposal received:

(i) Less than 3% of the vote if proposed once within the preceding 5 calendar years;

(ii) Less than 6% of the vote on its last submission to shareholders if proposed twice previously within the preceding 5 calendar years; or

(iii) Less than 10% of the vote on its last submission to shareholders if proposed three times or more previously within the preceding 5 calendar years; and

(13) Specific amount of dividends: If the proposal relates to specific amounts of cash or stock dividends.

(j) Question 10: What procedures must the company follow if it intends to exclude my proposal?

(1) If the company intends to exclude a proposal from its proxy materials, it must file its reasons with the Commission no later than 80 calendar days before it files its definitive proxy statement and form of proxy with the Commission. The company must simultaneously provide you with a copy of its submission. The Commission staff may permit the company to make its submission later than 80 days before the company files its definitive proxy statement and form of proxy, if the company demonstrates good cause for missing the deadline.

(2) The company must file six paper copies of the following:

(i) The proposal;

(ii) An explanation of why the company believes that it may exclude the proposal, which should, if possible, refer to the most recent applicable authority, such as prior Division letters issued under the rule; and

(iii) A supporting opinion of counsel when such reasons are based on matters of state or foreign law.

(k) Question 11: May I submit my own statement to the Commission responding to the company's arguments?

Yes, you may submit a response, but it is not required. You should try to submit any response to us, with a copy to the company, as soon as possible after the company makes its submission. This way, the Commission staff will have time to consider fully your submission before it issues its response. You should submit six paper copies of your response.

(l) Question 12: If the company includes my shareholder proposal in its proxy materials, what information about me must it include along with the proposal itself?

(1) The company's proxy statement must include your name and address, as well as the number of the company's voting securities that you hold. However, instead of providing that information, the company may instead include a statement that it will provide the information to shareholders promptly upon receiving an oral or written request.

(2) The company is not responsible for the contents of your proposal or supporting statement.

(m) Question 13: What can I do if the company includes in its proxy statement reasons why it believes shareholders should not vote in favor of my proposal, and I disagree with some of its statements?

(1) The company may elect to include in its proxy statement reasons why it believes shareholders should vote against your proposal. The company is allowed to make arguments reflecting its own point of view, just as you may express your own point of view in your proposal's supporting statement.

(2) However, if you believe that the company's opposition to your proposal contains materially false or misleading statements that may violate our anti-fraud rule, § 240.14a-9, you should promptly send to the Commission staff and the company a letter explaining the reasons for your view, along with a copy of the company's statements opposing your proposal. To the extent possible, your letter should include specific factual information demonstrating the inaccuracy of the company's claims. Time permitting, you may wish to try to work out your differences with the company by yourself before contacting the Commission staff.

- (3) We require the company to send you a copy of its statements opposing your proposal before it sends its proxy materials, so that you may bring to our attention any materially false or misleading statements, under the following timeframes:
- (i) If our no-action response requires that you make revisions to your proposal or supporting statement as a condition to requiring the company to include it in its proxy materials, then the company must provide you with a copy of its opposition statements no later than 5 calendar days after the company receives a copy of your revised proposal; or
 - (ii) In all other cases, the company must provide you with a copy of its opposition statements no later than 30 calendar days before its files definitive copies of its proxy statement and form of proxy under § 240.14a-6.

Shareholder Proposals

Staff Legal Bulletin No. 14F (CF)

Action: Publication of CF Staff Legal Bulletin

Date: October 18, 2011

Summary: This staff legal bulletin provides information for companies and shareholders regarding Rule 14a-8 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

Supplementary Information: The statements in this bulletin represent the views of the Division of Corporation Finance (the "Division"). This bulletin is not a rule, regulation or statement of the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Commission"). Further, the Commission has neither approved nor disapproved its content.

Contacts: For further information, please contact the Division's Office of Chief Counsel by calling (202) 551-3500 or by submitting a web-based request form at https://tts.sec.gov/cgi-bin/corp_fin_interpretive.

A. The purpose of this bulletin

This bulletin is part of a continuing effort by the Division to provide guidance on important issues arising under Exchange Act Rule 14a-8. Specifically, this bulletin contains information regarding:

Brokers and banks that constitute "record" holders under Rule 14a-8(b)(2)(i) for purposes of verifying whether a beneficial owner is eligible to submit a proposal under Rule 14a-8;

Common errors shareholders can avoid when submitting proof of ownership to companies;

The submission of revised proposals;

Procedures for withdrawing no-action requests regarding proposals submitted by multiple proponents; and

The Division's new process for transmitting Rule 14a-8 no-action responses by email.

You can find additional guidance regarding Rule 14a-8 in the following bulletins that are available on the Commission's website: SLB No. 14, SLB No. 14A, SLB No. 14B, SLB No. 14C, SLB No. 14D and SLB No. 14E.

B. The types of brokers and banks that constitute "record" holders under Rule 14a-8(b)(2)(i) for purposes of verifying whether a beneficial owner is eligible to submit a proposal under Rule 14a-8

1. Eligibility to submit a proposal under Rule 14a-8

To be eligible to submit a shareholder proposal, a shareholder must have continuously held at least $2,000 in market value, or 1%, of the company's securities entitled to be voted on the proposal at the shareholder meeting for at least one year as of the date the shareholder submits the proposal. The shareholder must also continue to hold the required amount of securities through the date of the meeting and must provide the company with a written statement of intent to do so.¹

The steps that a shareholder must take to verify his or her eligibility to submit a proposal depend on how the shareholder owns the securities. There are two types of security holders in the U.S.: registered owners and beneficial owners.² Registered owners have a direct relationship with the issuer because their ownership of shares is listed on the records maintained by the issuer or its transfer agent. If a shareholder is a registered owner, the company can independently confirm that the shareholder's holdings satisfy Rule 14a-8(b)'s eligibility requirement.

The vast majority of investors in shares issued by U.S. companies, however, are beneficial owners, which means that they hold their securities in book-entry form through a securities intermediary, such as a broker or a bank. Beneficial owners are sometimes referred to as "street name" holders. Rule 14a-8(b)(2)(i) provides that a beneficial owner can provide proof of ownership to support his or her eligibility to submit a proposal by submitting a written statement "from the 'record' holder of [the] securities (usually a broker or bank)," verifying that, at the time the proposal was submitted, the shareholder held the required amount of securities continuously for at least one year.³

2. The role of the Depository Trust Company

Most large U.S. brokers and banks deposit their customers' securities with, and hold those securities through, the Depository Trust Company ("DTC"), a registered clearing agency acting as a securities depository. Such brokers and banks are often referred to as "participants" in DTC.⁴ The names of these DTC participants, however, do not appear as the registered owners of the securities deposited with DTC on the list of shareholders maintained by the company or, more typically, by its transfer agent. Rather, DTC's nominee, Cede & Co., appears on the shareholder list as the sole registered owner of securities deposited with DTC by the DTC participants. A company can request from DTC a "securities position listing" as of a specified date, which identifies the DTC participants having a position in the company's securities and the number of securities held by each DTC participant on that date.⁵

3. Brokers and banks that constitute "record" holders under Rule 14a-8(b)(2)(i) for purposes of verifying whether a beneficial owner is eligible to submit a proposal under Rule 14a-8

In The Hain Celestial Group, Inc. (Oct. 1, 2008), we took the position that an introducing broker could be considered a "record" holder for purposes of Rule 14a-8(b)(2)(i). An introducing broker is a broker that engages in sales and other activities involving customer contact, such as opening customer accounts and accepting customer orders, but is not permitted to maintain custody of customer funds and securities.⁶ Instead, an introducing broker engages another broker, known as a "clearing broker," to hold custody of client funds and securities, to clear and execute customer trades, and to handle other functions such as issuing confirmations of customer trades and customer account statements.

Clearing brokers generally are DTC participants; introducing brokers generally are not. As introducing brokers generally are not DTC participants, and therefore typically do not appear on DTC's securities position listing, Hain Celestial has required companies to accept proof of ownership letters from brokers in cases where, unlike the positions of registered owners and brokers and banks that are DTC participants, the company is unable to verify the positions against its own or its transfer agent's records or against DTC's securities position listing.

In light of questions we have received following two recent court cases relating to proof of ownership under Rule 14a-8⁷ and in light of the Commission's discussion of registered and beneficial owners in the Proxy Mechanics Concept Release, we have reconsidered our views as to what types of brokers and banks should be considered "record" holders under Rule 14a-8(b)(2)(i). Because of the transparency of DTC participants' positions in a company's securities, we will take the view going forward that, for Rule 14a-8(b)(2)(i) purposes, only DTC participants should be viewed as "record" holders of securities that are deposited at DTC. As a result, we will no longer follow Hain Celestial.

We believe that taking this approach as to who constitutes a "record" holder for purposes of Rule 14a-8(b)(2)(i) will provide greater certainty to beneficial owners and companies. We also note that this approach is consistent with Exchange Act Rule 12g5-1 and a 1988 staff no-action letter addressing that rule,⁸ under which brokers and banks that are DTC participants are considered to be the record holders of securities on deposit with DTC when calculating the number of record holders for purposes of Sections 12(g) and 15(d) of the Exchange Act.

Companies have occasionally expressed the view that, because DTC's nominee, Cede & Co., appears on the shareholder list as the sole registered owner of securities deposited with DTC by the DTC participants, only DTC or Cede & Co. should be viewed as the "record" holder of the securities held on deposit at DTC for purposes of Rule 14a-8(b)(2)(i). We have never interpreted the rule to require a shareholder to obtain a proof of ownership letter from DTC or Cede & Co., and nothing in this guidance should be construed as changing that view.

How can a shareholder determine whether his or her broker or bank is a DTC participant?

Shareholders and companies can confirm whether a particular broker or bank is a DTC participant by checking DTC's participant list, which is currently available on the Internet at <http://www.dtcc.com/~media/Files/Downloads/client-center/DTC/alpha.ashx>.

What if a shareholder's broker or bank is not on DTC's participant list?

The shareholder will need to obtain proof of ownership from the DTC participant through which the securities are held. The shareholder should be able to find out who this DTC participant is by asking the shareholder's broker or bank.⁹

If the DTC participant knows the shareholder's broker or bank's holdings, but does not know the shareholder's holdings, a shareholder could satisfy Rule 14a-8(b)(2)(i) by obtaining and submitting two proof of ownership statements verifying that, at the time the proposal was submitted, the required amount of securities were continuously held for at least one year – one from the shareholder's broker or bank confirming the shareholder's ownership, and the other from the DTC participant confirming the broker or bank's ownership.

How will the staff process no-action requests that argue for exclusion on the basis that the shareholder's proof of ownership is not from a DTC participant?

The staff will grant no-action relief to a company on the basis that the shareholder's proof of ownership is not from a DTC participant only if the company's notice of defect describes the required proof of ownership in a manner that is consistent with the guidance contained in this bulletin. Under Rule 14a-8(f)(1), the shareholder will have an opportunity to obtain the requisite proof of ownership after receiving the notice of defect.

C. Common errors shareholders can avoid when submitting proof of ownership to companies

In this section, we describe two common errors shareholders make when submitting proof of ownership for purposes of Rule 14a-8(b)(2), and we provide guidance on how to avoid these errors.

First, Rule 14a-8(b) requires a shareholder to provide proof of ownership that he or she has "continuously held at least $2,000 in market value, or 1%, of the company's securities entitled to be voted on the proposal at the meeting for at least one year by the date you submit the proposal" (emphasis added).¹⁰ We note that many proof of ownership letters do not satisfy this requirement because they do not verify the shareholder's beneficial ownership for the entire one-year period preceding and including the date the proposal is submitted. In some cases, the letter speaks as of a date before the date the proposal is submitted, thereby leaving a gap between the date of the verification and the date the proposal is submitted. In other cases, the letter speaks as of a date after the date the proposal was submitted but covers a period of only one year, thus failing to verify the shareholder's beneficial ownership over the required full one-year period preceding the date of the proposal's submission.

Second, many letters fail to confirm continuous ownership of the securities. This can occur when a broker or bank submits a letter that confirms the shareholder's beneficial ownership only as of a specified date but omits any reference to continuous ownership for a one-year period.

We recognize that the requirements of Rule 14a-8(b) are highly prescriptive and can cause inconvenience for shareholders when submitting proposals. Although our administration of Rule 14a-8(b) is constrained by the terms of the rule, we believe that shareholders can avoid the two errors highlighted above by arranging to have their broker or bank provide the required verification of ownership as of the date they plan to submit the proposal using the following format:

"As of [date the proposal is submitted], [name of shareholder] held, and has held continuously for at least one year, [number of securities] shares of [company name] [class of securities]."¹¹

As discussed above, a shareholder may also need to provide a separate written statement from the DTC participant through which the shareholder's securities are held if the shareholder's broker or bank is not a DTC participant.

D. The submission of revised proposals

On occasion, a shareholder will revise a proposal after submitting it to a company. This section addresses questions we have received regarding revisions to a proposal or supporting statement.

1. A shareholder submits a timely proposal. The shareholder then submits a revised proposal before the company's deadline for receiving proposals. Must the company accept the revisions?

Yes. In this situation, we believe the revised proposal serves as a replacement of the initial proposal. By submitting a revised proposal, the shareholder has effectively withdrawn the initial proposal. Therefore, the shareholder is not in violation of the one-proposal limitation in Rule 14a-8(c).¹² If the company intends to submit a no-action request, it must do so with respect to the revised proposal.

We recognize that in Question and Answer E.2 of SLB No. 14, we indicated that if a shareholder makes revisions to a proposal before the company submits its no-action request, the company can choose whether to accept the revisions. However, this guidance has led some companies to believe that, in cases where shareholders attempt to make changes to an initial proposal, the company is free to ignore such revisions even if the revised proposal is submitted before the company's deadline for receiving shareholder proposals. We are revising our guidance on this issue to make clear that a company may not ignore a revised proposal in this situation.¹³

2. A shareholder submits a timely proposal. After the deadline for receiving proposals, the shareholder submits a revised proposal. Must the company accept the revisions?

No. If a shareholder submits revisions to a proposal after the deadline for receiving proposals under Rule 14a-8(e), the company is not required to accept the revisions. However, if the company does not accept the revisions, it must treat the revised proposal as a second proposal and submit a notice stating its intention to exclude the revised proposal, as required by Rule 14a-8(j). The company's notice may cite Rule 14a-8(e) as the reason for excluding the revised proposal. If the company does not accept the revisions and intends to exclude the initial proposal, it would also need to submit its reasons for excluding the initial proposal.

3. If a shareholder submits a revised proposal, as of which date must the shareholder prove his or her share ownership?

A shareholder must prove ownership as of the date the original proposal is submitted. When the Commission has discussed revisions to proposals,¹⁴ it has not suggested that a revision triggers a requirement to provide proof of ownership a second time. As outlined in Rule 14a-8(b), proving ownership includes providing a written statement that the shareholder intends to continue to hold the securities through the date of the shareholder meeting. Rule 14a-8(f)(2) provides that if the shareholder "fails in [his or her] promise to hold the required number of securities through the date of the meeting of shareholders, then the company will be permitted to exclude all of [the same shareholder's] proposals from its proxy materials for any meeting held in the following two calendar years." With these provisions in mind, we do not interpret Rule 14a-8 as requiring additional proof of ownership when a shareholder submits a revised proposal.¹⁵

E. Procedures for withdrawing no-action requests for proposals submitted by multiple proponents

We have previously addressed the requirements for withdrawing a Rule 14a-8 no-action request in SLB Nos. 14 and 14C. SLB No. 14 notes that a company should include with a withdrawal letter documentation demonstrating that a shareholder has withdrawn the proposal. In cases where a proposal submitted by multiple shareholders is withdrawn, SLB No. 14C states that, if each shareholder has designated a lead individual to act on its behalf and the company is able to demonstrate that the individual is authorized to act on behalf of all of the proponents, the company need only provide a letter from that lead individual indicating that the lead individual is withdrawing the proposal on behalf of all of the proponents.

Because there is no relief granted by the staff in cases where a no-action request is withdrawn following the withdrawal of the related proposal, we recognize that the threshold for withdrawing a no-action request need not be overly burdensome. Going forward, we will process a withdrawal request if the company provides a letter from the lead filer that includes a representation that the lead filer is authorized to withdraw the proposal on behalf of each proponent identified in the company's no-action request.¹⁶

F. Use of email to transmit our Rule 14a-8 no-action responses to companies and proponents

To date, the Division has transmitted copies of our Rule 14a-8 no-action responses, including copies of the correspondence we have received in connection with such requests, by U.S. mail to companies and proponents. We also post our response and the related correspondence to the Commission's website shortly after issuance of our response.

In order to accelerate delivery of staff responses to companies and proponents, and to reduce our copying and postage costs, going forward, we intend to transmit our Rule 14a-8 no-action responses by email to companies and proponents. We therefore encourage both companies and proponents to include email contact information in any correspondence to each other and to us. We will use U.S. mail to transmit our no-action response to any company or proponent for which we do not have email contact information.

Given the availability of our responses and the related correspondence on the Commission's website and the requirement under Rule 14a-8 for companies and proponents to copy each other on correspondence submitted to the Commission, we believe it is unnecessary to transmit copies of the related correspondence along with our no-action response. Therefore, we intend to transmit only our staff response and not the correspondence we receive from the parties. We will continue to post to the Commission's website copies of this correspondence at the same time that we post our staff no-action response.

² For an explanation of the types of share ownership in the U.S., see Concept Release on U.S. Proxy System, Release No. 34-62495 (July 14, 2010) [75 FR 42982] ("Proxy Mechanics Concept Release"), at Section II.A. The term "beneficial owner" does not have a uniform meaning under the federal securities laws. It has a different meaning in this bulletin as compared to “beneficial owner” and “beneficial ownership” in Sections 13 and 16 of the Exchange Act. Our use of the term in this bulletin is not intended to suggest that registered owners are not beneficial owners for purposes of those Exchange Act provisions. See Proposed Amendments to Rule 14a-8 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 Relating to Proposals by Security Holders, Release No. 34-12598 (July 7, 1976) [41 FR 29982], at n.2 (“The term ‘beneficial owner’ when used in the context of the proxy rules, and in light of the purposes of those rules, may be interpreted to have a broader meaning than it would for certain other purpose[s] under the federal securities laws, such as reporting pursuant to the Williams Act.”).

³ If a shareholder has filed a Schedule 13D, Schedule 13G, Form 3, Form 4 or Form 5 reflecting ownership of the required amount of shares, the shareholder may instead prove ownership by submitting a copy of such filings and providing the additional information that is described in Rule 14a-8(b)(2)(ii).

⁴ DTC holds the deposited securities in “fungible bulk,” meaning that there are no specifically identifiable shares directly owned by the DTC participants. Rather, each DTC participant holds a pro rata interest or position in the aggregate number of shares of a particular issuer held at DTC. Correspondingly, each customer of a DTC participant – such as an individual investor – owns a pro rata interest in the shares in which the DTC participant has a pro rata interest. See Proxy Mechanics Concept Release, at Section II.B.2.a.

⁵ See Exchange Act Rule 17Ad-8.

⁶ See Net Capital Rule, Release No. 34-31511 (Nov. 24, 1992) [57 FR 56973] (“Net Capital Rule Release”), at Section II.C.

⁷ See KBR Inc. v. Chevedden, Civil Action No. H-11-0196, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 36431, 2011 WL 1463611 (S.D. Tex. Apr. 4, 2011); Apache Corp. v. Chevedden, 696 F. Supp. 2d 723 (S.D. Tex. 2010). In both cases, the court concluded that a securities intermediary was not a record holder for purposes of Rule 14a-8(b) because it did not appear on a list of the company’s non-objecting beneficial owners or on any DTC securities position listing, nor was the intermediary a DTC participant.

⁸ Techne Corp. (Sept. 20, 1988).

⁹ In addition, if the shareholder’s broker is an introducing broker, the shareholder’s account statements should include the clearing broker’s identity and telephone number. See Net Capital Rule Release, at Section II.C.(iii). The clearing broker will generally be a DTC participant.

¹⁰ For purposes of Rule 14a-8(b), the submission date of a proposal will generally precede the company’s receipt date of the proposal, absent the use of electronic or other means of same-day delivery.

¹¹ This format is acceptable for purposes of Rule 14a-8(b), but it is not mandatory or exclusive.

¹² As such, it is not appropriate for a company to send a notice of defect for multiple proposals under Rule 14a-8(c) upon receiving a revised proposal.

¹³ This position will apply to all proposals submitted after an initial proposal but before the company's deadline for receiving proposals, regardless of whether they are explicitly labeled as "revisions" to an initial proposal, unless the shareholder affirmatively indicates an intent to submit a second, additional proposal for inclusion in the company's proxy materials. In that case, the company must send the shareholder a notice of defect pursuant to Rule 14a-8(f)(1) if it intends to exclude either proposal from its proxy materials in reliance on Rule 14a-8(c). In light of this guidance, with respect to proposals or revisions received before a company's deadline for submission, we will no longer follow Layne Christensen Co. (Mar. 21, 2011) and other prior staff no-action letters in which we took the view that a proposal would violate the Rule 14a-8(c) one-proposal limitation if such proposal is submitted to a company after the company has either submitted a Rule 14a-8 no-action request to exclude an earlier proposal submitted by the same proponent or notified the proponent that the earlier proposal was excludable under the rule.

¹⁴ See, e.g., Adoption of Amendments Relating to Proposals by Security Holders, Release No. 34-12999 (Nov. 22, 1976) [41 FR 52994].

¹⁶ Nothing in this staff position has any effect on the status of any shareholder proposal that is not withdrawn by the proponent or its authorized representative.

Dear Ms. Connors:

Attached is my proof of ownership as provided by National Financial Services. As regards the original submission possibly containing two proposals, I wish to retain the following: "disclose on the JPMC website any recipient which receives $1,000 or more direct contributions, excluding employee matching gifts." The one concerning standards may be omitted.

Please acknowledge receipt of this email.

Regards,

Thomas Strobhar
