Plaintiff Securities and Exchange Commission (“Commission”), for its Amended Complaint against defendants Arista Power, Inc. (“Arista”), Peter Kolokouris (“Kolokouris”), Michael T. Hughes (“Hughes”), and collectively the “Kolokouris Family Traders,” as follows: Janice Papapanu, Michael Papapanu, Ekaterini Kolokouris, Demitrios Kolokouris, Anastasios Kolokouris, Ioannis “John” Kolokouris, Sophia Kolokouris, Terry Bechakas, 100 Demetrios, Inc., 200 Anastasios, Inc., 300 Ioannis, Inc., 400 Terry, Inc., 500 Sofia, Inc., Just Sell Gold, Inc., and Express Gold Cash, Inc. (all defendants collectively (“Defendants”), alleges as follows:

SUMMARY OF ALLEGATIONS

1. The Commission alleges two separate but related fraudulent schemes concerning Arista Power, Inc. (“Arista”): (1) material misrepresentations and omissions in certain Arista public Commission filings from September 2012 to November 2014 (the “false statement period”) concerning a purported $1.25 million “line of credit” or “loan agreement” between Arista and an entity called TMK-ENT, Inc. (“TMK”); and (2) a scheme to manipulate the public market price of Arista stock from approximately August 23, 2012 through January 25, 2013 (the “manipulation period”). The Commission charges: (1) defendants Arista, Hughes, and Kolokouris with the first fraudulent scheme; (2) Kolokouris with orchestrating and carrying out the second fraudulent scheme; and (3) Kolokouris and the Kolokouris Family Traders with certain non-fraud liability related to the second fraudulent scheme, the market manipulation scheme.

2. During the manipulation period, Arista was a start-up alternative energy company whose stock was quoted publicly on the OTCQB and traded publicly on the over-the-counter market (“OTC Market”) at prices ranging from $1.12 to $2.02 per share.

3. Defendant Hughes was an experienced securities attorney who had provided “consulting” and legal services to Arista and Kolokouris since at least 2008. According to a 2009 letter from Arista to the Commission’s Division of Corporate Finance, in 2008 both Hughes and Kolokouris became “consultants” to Arista’s predecessor corporation, WindTamer Corp. (hereinafter collectively, “Arista”), “to assist in [Arista’s] general development and business structure to put [Arista] in the position to begin to commercialize its technology,” and Arista “granted [Hughes, Kolokouris, and another “consultant”] stock options as an incentive to assist [Arista] with business advice and strategy, since [Arista] did not believe it had the resources to hire outside consultants for cash.” As of August 31, 2012, Hughes owned at least 408,000 shares of Arista stock, and his wife owned at least 50,000 shares.

4. As of August 31, 2012, Arista’s Chief Executive Officer (the “CEO”), drew a salary from Arista and owned at least 948,833 shares of Arista stock, as well as options to purchase at least an additional 75,000 shares.

5. In 2008, Kolokouris received options to purchase over 15% of Arista’s outstanding stock. As Hughes and the CEO knew by August 2012, Kolokouris had been barred by a federal District Court in 1990 from serving as an officer or director of a publicly traded company and from owning 5% or more of the securities of any such company. Apparently for this reason, in November 2008, Kolokouris had assigned his Arista stock options to certain Kolokouris family entities (which were among the Kolokouris Family Traders). At various times thereafter, those entities exercised their options and received millions of shares of Arista stock. In addition, at various times from 2008 through 2012, Arista issued additional significant amounts of its stock to certain Kolokouris Family Traders in private stock sales. As of August 2012, and throughout the manipulation period, Kolokouris exercised control over the Kolokouris Family Traders’ Arista stock.

6. Defendants’ two fraudulent schemes arose out of Arista’s difficulty raising capital for its operations in the summer-fall-winter of 2012-2013. In late August 2012 – on the recommendation and/or endorsement of defendant Hughes and the CEO (who were working with Kolokouris) – Arista decided to raise short-term capital through private sales of Kolokouris family stock. As Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris also knew and intended, at or about the time that those private stock sales occurred, Kolokouris caused Arista to receive cash that corresponded to the sales proceeds, from bank accounts that Kolokouris controlled. Arista ultimately raised approximately $1 million for itself through those private stock sales.

7. To effectuate the Kolokouris family Arista stock sales during the fall and winter of 2012-2013, Hughes and the CEO (and another Arista consultant and a board member) (collectively, the “Arista Associates”) – at Kolokouris’ direction – pitched Kolokouris family stock to various individual acquaintances of theirs. Hughes and the CEO pitched the majority of those stock sales, which they offered at a significant discount to Arista’s publicly-traded stock market price. As Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris knew, Arista stock was thinly-traded (based on quotations on the OTCQB), and any negative public announcement regarding Arista likely would have lowered its public market price, thus impeding Kolokouris’ and the Arista Associates’ efforts to sell the Kolokouris family stock privately (particularly given that the privately-purchased stock was subject to a six-month lock-up period, during which time the purchasers could not sell).

8. Hughes and the CEO also believed in the fall of 2012 that Arista was legally required to disclose publicly its material influx of new capital. However, beginning on September 10, 2012, and continuing at various times through November 2014, to avoid potential negative publicity regarding Arista’s source of funding, Hughes and the CEO knowingly or recklessly caused Arista to make material false and misleading public statements and omissions regarding the source of the money Arista was raising, and had raised, through the Kolokouris family stock sales. Hughes drafted and/or reviewed the Arista public filings as its counsel, and the CEO signed them on Arista’s behalf. In those public statements – at least several of which Kolokouris knew of or recklessly disregarded – Arista falsely and misleadingly characterized the $1 million influx of Arista capital as the result of a “loan agreement” and “revolving line of credit” from TMK, which appeared from those public statements to be an independent third-party lender.

9. However, as Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris knew or recklessly disregarded at that time, Kolokouris controlled TMK; TMK had no independent source of funds; TMK did not provide or even transfer any of the $1 million that Arista received; and the purported TMK “loan” was merely a fictitious cover for Kolokouris’ financing of Arista through his family stock sales.

10. Arista’s public statements thus created the false impression for the public that an independent third-party lender was financing Arista, when in fact Kolokouris, an individual subject to a Commission bar, was furnishing the necessary financing by directing his family’s stock sales. At no time did Arista, Hughes, or Kolokouris publicly disclose the true source of those funds (the Kolokouris family stock sales); at no time did those defendants publicly disclose that Arista did not have access to those funds at the times or amounts reported (rather, Arista’s access to capital, if any, was contingent on potential sales of Arista stock); at no time did those defendants disclose that Arista had no “revolving” access to additional financing; at no time did those defendants disclose that Arista had no written agreement regarding – and no other legally enforceable right to – the proceeds of the private Kolokouris family stock sales; and at no time did those defendants publicly disclose Kolokouris’ or his family’s involvement in raising that capital for Arista.

11. To further their fraudulent scheme – to fool potential Arista investors, outside auditors, and other third parties into believing that TMK was actually loaning money to Arista –

Hughes and Kolokouris created a phony paper trail falsely conforming Arista's corporate records to its publicly-reported (sham) TMK "revolving line of credit" agreement.

12. The second fraudulent scheme described in this Amended Complaint was Kolokouris' manipulation of Arista's public market (OTC Market) stock price, to help create the artificial appearance that private purchasers of Kolokouris' family's Arista stock were receiving a significant discount from its public market price. To support Arista's public market stock price during the manipulation period, Kolokouris executed manipulative stock transactions in certain of his family members' brokerage accounts. This manipulative trading fraudulently maintained and increased Arista's public market stock price through matched orders at prices above $1.00 per share and through other manipulative trading, including marking the closing price of Arista's stock on a number of trading days.

13. The private sales of the Kolokouris family stock during the manipulation period was a significant stock distribution, which occurred at the same time that the Kolokouris Family Traders engaged in open market purchases of Arista stock on the OTC Market.

14. During the Commission's pre-litigation investigation of the matters alleged in this Amended Complaint, defendants Kolokouris and the individual Kolokouris Family Traders responded to Commission testimony subpoenas by refusing to testify, instead invoking their privilege under the under the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution. Since the filing of this litigation, as recently as September 8, 2017, Kolokouris and the Kolokouris Family Traders have stated (through counsel) that they have not yet decided whether to continue to invoke their Fifth Amendment privilege in this litigation.

Initially called Future Energy Solutions, Inc., and later, WindTamer Corp., the company initially purported to develop and sell wind turbines. In May 2011, WindTamer Corp. changed its name to Arista Power, Inc.

WindTamer stock was first quoted publicly in November 2009, on the OTCQB (ticker WNDT). In May 2011, WNDT changed its name to Arista and its ticker symbol to ASPW. In December 2015, Arista filed a Chapter 7 Bankruptcy petition and is undergoing full liquidation. Prior to March 27, 2015, when Arista terminated its registration by filing a Form 15, the company's common stock was registered pursuant to Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act. Arista stock qualified as a penny stock because the stock was an equity security that did not meet any of the exceptions from the definition of a "penny stock" in Section 3(a)(51) of the Exchange Act and Rule 3a51-1 thereunder. ## FACTS

I. Arista False and Misleading Public Statements and Omissions

43. On August 30, 2012, Arista held a telephonic Board of Directors (“Board”) meeting, attended by its three directors, its Board Chairman (“Chairman”), its Chief Financial Officer (“CFO”), the CEO, and Hughes. The CFO was charged with recording the minutes of the meeting and, for this purpose, took handwritten notes during the meeting. Those notes indicate that, during the meeting, Hughes discussed the concept of Arista “founders shares” being sold “privately to loan” Arista funds; that Hughes, the CEO, and another Arista Associate already had “locked in approx $200K” in such sales; and that Hughes and the CEO planned to sell “up to $1 M[illion]” in stock.

44. The following day, August 31, the CFO emailed to Hughes (for his review) the CFO’s typewritten draft minutes for the August 30 Board meeting. The August 31 draft included the following description of the potential new Arista financing:

[The CEO] . . . explained, that . . . we are working on a financing plan with other [Arista] investors, who plan to sell a certain number of shares of [Arista’s] stock, and will loan the proceeds from those private sales to [Arista]. Terms of the loan are being defined. There was a motion made by [Arista’s Chairman] to allow [the CEO] and [the Chairman] to negotiate terms with the lender. [A Board member] seconded the motion and all were in favor.

45. As Hughes and the CEO knew or recklessly disregarded, the CFO’s August 31 draft minutes’ reference to “investors who plan to sell a certain number of shares of Arista stock” was to Kolokouris family members. As of August 30, 2012, Hughes also knew or recklessly disregarded – from, at the least, his own conversations with Kolokouris (of which he had informed the CEO) – that Kolokouris was to arrange the stock sales and cause the proceeds to be sent to Arista. As evidenced by the August 21 draft Board meeting minutes, no person who attended the August 30 Board meeting mentioned a loan by any third-party entity related to the interim “financing plan,” much less a loan from an entity called “TMK” – there was no mention of TMK at the August 30 Board meeting.

46. Ten days later, on September 10, 2012, Arista filed publicly with the Commission a Form 8-K (the “September 10 8-K”) that stated:

On September 4, 2012, [Arista] entered into a Loan Agreement with TMK-ENT, Inc. (the “Lender”) providing for a $500,000 working capital revolving line of credit for [Arista]. Advances under the Loan Agreement, which will be evidenced by a committed revolving credit note (the “Note”), bear interest at 10% per year, payable annually. The Note matures on September 4, 2013, and all borrowings under the Loan Agreement are due and payable on that date.

As additional consideration for entering the Loan Agreement, [Arista] issued to the Lender warrants with a 10-year term to purchase an aggregate of 500,000 shares of common stock of [Arista] at $1.80 per share pursuant a Warrant Purchase Agreement (the “Warrant Purchase Agreement”). . . . The Lender is an accredited investor as defined under the Securities Act and Regulation D, was knowledgeable about [Arista’s] operations and financial condition and had access to such information.

The foregoing description of the Loan Agreement, Note, Warrant Purchase Agreement and Form of Warrant, and the transactions completed in connection therewith, do not purport to be complete and are qualified in their entirety by the full text of each agreement.

47. Hughes drafted and reviewed the September 10 8-K for Arista for the purpose of Arista’s filing it with the Commission, and the CEO authorized its filing on Arista’s behalf (the September 10 8-K includes the CEO’s authorized electronic signature).

48. The September 10 8-K was materially false and misleading in the following respects. First, as Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris knew or recklessly disregarded, TMK never intended to, nor did it, loan $500,000 to Arista, or provide Arista a “revolving line of credit.” Rather, as Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris knew (and as Hughes at least alluded to at the August 30 Arista Board meeting), any funding Arista hoped to receive at that time was through sales of Kolokouris family stock (pitched by Hughes and the other Arista Associates). Furthermore, Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris expected that Kolokouris would direct those private sales and cause the sales proceeds to be sent to Arista.

49. As Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris also knew or recklessly disregarded at the time of the September 10 8-K filing, TMK was a Kolokouris-controlled entity, nominally owned and headed by a neighbor of Kolokouris (the “TMK President”), who deferred to Kolokouris on all matters involving the purported TMK loan, and TMK did not have the financial wherewithal to fund the purported Arista “line of credit.” In or about February 2011, at Kolokouris’ request, Hughes had performed the legal work required to create TMK. Furthermore, despite drafting and approving (as company counsel) Arista’s public disclosures regarding the supposed Arista/TMK “line of credit,” Hughes never spoke with TMK’s nominal owner (or otherwise communicated with him) regarding the purported TMK “line of credit.” Indeed, any communication that Hughes had with “TMK” during the false statement period was with Kolokouris. Hughes never performed any due diligence (or relied on any other due diligence) regarding the supposed TMK loan because he knew that no actual TMK loan or “line of credit” existed and that, instead, Arista hoped to receive proceeds of the Kolokouris family private sales of Arista stock.

50. Second, as Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris also knew at the time, the amount of funds Arista expected to receive was entirely contingent upon, and limited to, the amount of the Kolokouris family stock sales (and not on any actual TMK “loan agreement” or “line of credit”). Indeed, this fact was generally understood by Arista. In a September 23, 2012 email to the CEO, copying Arista board members and Hughes, an Arista Board member asked, “With the 500k [credit facility] nearly complete, would it be possible if founding members would be willing to sell more stock to increase the facility?”

51. Third, as Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris knew or recklessly disregarded, contrary to the September 10 8-K, as of September 10, 2012, Arista did not have access to the reported $500,000. As Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris knew or recklessly disregarded, as of that date, the Kolokouris family stock sales proceeds totaled, at most, only $182,500. Thus, as those individuals knew or recklessly disregarded, Arista had access to, at most, $182,500, and Arista's potential access to any additional funds was speculative, at best. Moreover, as Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris also knew, Arista had no legally enforceable right to receive those stock sale proceeds (or an equivalent amount) from Peter Kolokouris, his family members, or their entities (e.g., no such written agreement existed).

52. Fourth, contrary to the false and misleading description in the September 10 8-K, as of that time, neither Arista nor TMK had executed the purported "Loan Agreement," "Warrant Purchase Agreement," or "Note" described in the September 10 8-K (the "Loan Documents"), and TMK had not received any such "warrants." As Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris knew at the time, no such executed Loan Documents existed, and Arista and TMK did not finalize or execute such Loan Documents until, at the earliest, on or after October 16, 2012. Thus, contrary to the false and misleading September 10 8-K, as of September 10, 2012, Arista had no legally enforceable right to any funds from TMK.

53. Fifth, the September 10 8-K falsely states that TMK was an "accredited investor" and was "knowledgeable about [Arista's] operations and financial condition." In fact, as Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris knew or recklessly disregarded at the time, TMK was not an "accredited investor" – it had little or no assets – and neither TMK nor the TMK President had any knowledge of Arista or its operations.

54. To further their and Arista's fraudulent scheme, on or after October 16, 2012, Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris caused to be executed purported final versions of the Loan Documents – which Hughes drafted, and which the CEO and the TMK President signed.

Hughes and Kolokouris caused these documents to be executed by the CEO and TMK President to create the false appearance for potential investors and third parties – such as Arista’s outside auditors and government regulatory authorities – that TMK actually was loaning money to Arista. Hughes and Kolokouris further falsely back-dated the final Loan Documents to September 4, 2012 to create the false appearance that they had existed prior to the September 10 8-K filing. For these purposes, Hughes obtained the CEO’s signature on the final sham Loan Documents, and Kolokouris obtained the TMK President’s signature by directing him to sign the sham Loan Documents. As Hughes knew or recklessly disregarded (as counsel to Arista), Arista attached the sham Loan Documents as exhibits to both its September 30, 2012 Form 10-Q (filed with the Commission on November 13, 2012) and its December 31, 2012 Form 10-K (filed with the Commission on March 28, 2013).

55. Hughes and Kolokouris both understood at the time that any such purported “loan agreement” or “line of credit” with TMK was not an actual arms-length agreement but, rather, merely a ginned-up document to cover up Arista’s actual dealings with Kolokouris. Thus, for example, in an September 26, 2012 Hughes email to Arista’s Chairman – attaching draft “TMK-ENT Credit Facility” documents – Hughes stated:

Attached is the Arista Credit Facility and related note, as well as the warrant. It’s very company friendly, with just a few real terms (barely) to make it arms-length.

56. Additional Hughes emails further evince his fraudulent purpose for creating the Loan Documents – i.e., to fool third parties (such as potential investors and Arista’s outside auditors) into believing that TMK was actually loaning money to Arista. Thus, in an October 2, 2012 email from Hughes to the Chairman – requesting that the Chairman review the draft purported Loan Documents – Hughes stated:

Please try to squeeze in a quick review of the [TMK] credit facility. [The CFO] will need it for the auditors soon, and I will need a few days or more to get it signed by TMK-ENT.

57. In the same vein, on October 16, 2012, Hughes and the Chairman again exchanged emails regarding draft TMK Loan Documents. The emails first discuss the possibility of Arista's obtaining financing from a potential third party lender (which never occurred). In the last email in the chain, Hughes states to the Chairman, "For now, let's get [TMK] docs executed that match 8-K for auditors," thus further evincing Hughes' intent to use the Loan Documents to fool Arista's outside auditors into believing that TMK was actually loaning Arista money.

58. Like Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris, others at Arista understood the actual source of the so-called "TMK" loan. For example, Arista's CFO noted in an October 20, 2012 email to Arista's outside auditors, "we have gotten a line of credit from TMK Enterprises (Peter [Kolokouris] has agreed to sell some of his stock to other investors, and is lending us that money) – 10% interest – 1 year loan."

59. Beginning in or about August 2012 – as indicated in the August 31 draft Board minutes, and handwritten notes, of the August 30 Arista Board meeting – Hughes and the other Arista Associates privately solicited their friends, family members, tennis club associates, and others to purchase Kolokouris-family Arista stock. Kolokouris directed Hughes and the other Arista Associates regarding which Kolokouris family members' stock to sell, what amounts of stock to sell, and at what price.

60. As Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris knew or recklessly regarded, while the Arista Associates (including Hughes) effectuated those stock sales, Kolokouris caused funds equal to the stock sale proceeds to be transferred to Arista from bank accounts that Kolokouris controlled. Consistent with their understanding of this process, Hughes and other Arista Associates informed the private stock purchasers that the proceeds of their stock purchases were to go to Arista (thus evincing Hughes' understanding that the so-called TMK "line of credit" was a sham). Also, during the relevant period, Hughes and the CEO reviewed and maintained an Excel spreadsheet titled "bridge financing," which tracked the Kolokouris family private stock sales as the Arista Associates solicited buyers for the Kolokouris family. As Hughes and the CEO knew and intended, the term "bridge financing" referred to the purported "TMK" loan that they falsely and misleadingly had caused Arista to report to the public. Also, during the false statement period, the CEO and CFO emailed each other numerous times concerning the Kolokouris family Arista stock sale proceeds and the manner in which those proceeds were being given to Kolokouris (for his further transfer of them to Arista).

61. As Arista's receipt of proceeds from the Kolokouris stock sales grew – after it issued its false and misleading September 10 8-K – Arista (through the CEO and other Arista personnel) and Hughes continued to make and cause to be made, similar false and misleading statements and material omissions regarding the fictional TMK "line of credit." Thus, on November 14, 2012, Arista issued a Form 8-K falsely announcing that its TMK "line of credit" had increased from $500,000 to $750,000. In fact, as Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris knew, as of that date, proceeds of the Kolokouris family stock sales totaled, at most, only $588,540. Thus, as Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris knew, Arista had access, at most, only $588,540 as of November 14, 2012. Similarly, on December 24, 2012, Arista issued a Form 8-K falsely announcing that the TMK "line of credit" had increased from $750,000 to $1.25 million. In fact, as Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris knew, as of that date, proceeds of the Kolokouris family stock sales totaled, at most, only $835,450. Thus, as Hughes, the CEO, and Kokokouris knew, Arista had access, at most, only $835,450. Indeed, as Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris knew, Arista never had access to its claimed $1.25 million – the total Kolokouris family stock sale proceeds never exceeded $1 million. For these additional reasons, the November and December 2012 Arista Forms 8-K were materially false and misleading, as Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris knew or recklessly disregarded at the time.

62. From September 2012 through February 2013, Hughes, Kolokouris, and the other Arista associates raised a total of at least $984,700 for Arista through private sales of Kolokouris family stock, and they caused the proceeds of those sales to be given to Kolokouris.

63. From September 2012 through February 28, 2013, Kolokouris transferred approximately $1,018,500 to Arista from bank accounts he controlled (or, at least, over which he had sufficient access), held in the name of Avon-Lima Road, Inc. (a Kolokouris-controlled entity); Kolokouris's sister, Vasiliki Vlaschou (who resides in Greece); and jointly held in the names of Kolokours family members Vasiliki Vlachou and Anastasios Kolokouris.

64. Kolokouris transferred the $1,018,500 to Arista in the form of 13 cashier's checks made payable to Arista and drawn on those bank accounts. Kolokouris apparently used cashier's checks to hide the true source of those funds. However, Kolokouris deceptively included on each cashier's check the handwritten notation, "TMK Enterprises," to create the false appearance that the checks were from TMK.

65. Arista never repaid TMK (or anyone else) on its purported TMK loan. However, in January 2013, Arista transferred $35,000 back to Avon-Lima Road, Inc., thus reducing its total receipt of Kolokouris family stock sale proceeds to $983,500, almost precisely the amount of the private Kolokouris family stock sales that Hughes and the other Arista Associates had solicited ($984,700). This was no coincidence, as Hughes, the CEO, and Kolokouris understood that the funding that Kolokouris was providing to Arista was to be, and was, limited to the amount of the Kolokouris family private stock sales.

66. During at least the time period that Kolokouris helped to raise capital for Arista through his private sales of his family's stock, Kolokouris knew or recklessly disregarded that Arista was falsely and misleadingly reporting publicly that the source of those funds was TMK. Indeed, Arista's false reporting of the sham TMK "loan" was Kolokouris' (and Hughes') purpose for creating and causing to be executed the sham TMK Loan Documents, whose purpose was to create the false appearance for interested third parties that TMK was actually loaning money to Arista.

67. On October 22, 2012, having not yet heard back from Hughes regarding the draft August 30 Board meeting minutes (which Arista's CFO had first sent to Hughes on August 31), Arista's CFO re-sent Hughes her August 31 draft Board meeting minutes and again asked Hughes to review them. Later that day, to further his and Kolokouris' fraudulent scheme, Hughes sent the CFO a revised version of the minutes, which falsely and deceptively mentioned for the first time "TMK" and scrubbed the minutes of any mention of "stock sales" related to the interim financing:

[The CEO] . . . explained that . . . [Arista] is attempting to secure financing $500,000 loan from TMK-ENT, Inc., a current shareholder of [Arista]. Terms of the loan are currently being negotiated, but it was expected that the loan would have a term of approximately one year, have an annual interest rate of ten percent and that [Arista] would issue to the lender a warrant to purchase up to 500,000 shares of [Arista's] common stock at market price at the closing of the loan. The loan would not be secured by any of [Arista's] assets, and not guaranteed by any person.

After a discussion, a motion was made by [a Board member] and seconded by [another Board member], whereupon the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

NOW THEREFORE, IT BE RESOLVED, the Company is authorized enter into an agreement or agreements (collectively the “Loan Agreements”) with TMK-ENT, LLC (“TMK”) in which [Arista] would borrow up to $500,000 from TMK, with an interest rate of no more than ten percent per year . . .

Hughes’ October 22 version of the August 30 Board minutes went on to include additional purported Board resolutions concerning the purported Arista/TMK loan agreement.

68. As Hughes knew, his October 22 revised version of the Board minutes deceptively and falsely: (1) included the concept of a “TMK” loan (including related Board resolutions), even though the Board had not discussed any “TMK” loan at its August 30 meeting; and (2) deleted any mention that the $500,000 was to be raised through the sale of Arista investors (or founders) stock. Hughes made these changes to conceal from interested third parties the Board’s actual August 30 meeting discussion, in order to conform that discussion to Arista’s false September 10 8-K regarding the purported “TMK” loan. On or about October 24, 2012, after some additional changes, the Board adopted a final version of its August 30 meeting minutes, which likewise describes the fictitious “TMK” loan but makes no mention of Arista’s raising capital for itself by selling Kolokouris family stock (or any other stock sales).

69. Arista made similar false and misleading statements regarding the purported TMK loan or line of credit in the following subsequent Arista public filings: Form 8-K dated May 30, 2013; Forms 10-Q dated November 13, 2012, May 13, 2013, August 13, 2013, November 12, 2013, May 15, 2014, August 14, 2014, and November 14, 2014; Forms 10-K dated March 28, 2013 and March 31, 2014; and Forms S-1 dated August 30, 2013, October 3, 2013, and April 30, 2014.

70. The CEO knowingly or recklessly signed all of the above false and misleading additional Arista filings on Arista's behalf (by authorized electronic signature). Hughes at least reviewed for Arista (as its attorney) the Arista public filings listed in paragraph 69 above, and assisted in their filing, also knowing or recklessly disregarding that they contained material false and misleading statements and omissions as described in paragraph 69 above.

71. On or about March 31, 2014, Arista raised another $995,000 through an additional private stock sale to an institutional investor, without disclosing to it the true nature of the purported TMK loan.

72. During the false statement period, the false and misleading statements and omissions described in paragraphs 43-71 above, regarding the purported TMK loan or "revolving line of credit," were material to both private and public market purchasers, and potential such purchasers, of Arista stock for a number of reasons, including that: (1) they created the false impression that a third-party lender was willing to loan money to Arista; (2) no actual loan money was available but, rather, any potential Arista funding was contingent on consummation of the private Kolokouris family stock sales; (3) Arista had no legally-enforceable right to any of the funds it actually received (i.e., the private stock sale proceeds); (4) the reported "line of credit" amounts in the September 10, November 14, and December 24, 2012 Forms 8-K each materially overstated the amount of funds then available to Arista; (5) Arista possessed no actual ongoing (i.e., "revolving") "line of credit" with any person or entity; and (6) the false statements and material omissions hid the fact that a securities law violator (Kolokouris) – who had settled serious securities fraud charges in exchange for significant sanctions – was instrumental in raising the $1 million in new capital for Arista.

II. Kolokouris Manipulative Trading

73. Contemporaneously with the private stock sales directed by Kolokouris and pitched by Hughes and the other Arista Associates (the “Private Kolokouris Stock Sales”), Kolokouris intentionally engaged in, either himself or by directing others to do so, a number of much smaller public Arista stock purchases and sales on the OTC Market through various accounts held in the names of the Kolokouris Family Traders (collectively, the “Public Kolokouris Stock Trades”).

74. In conducting the Public Kolokouris Stock Trades, Kolokouris fraudulently employed at least two forms of market manipulation – matched trading and marking the close. As used in this Complaint, a “matched trade” refers to a purchase and a sale of Arista stock on the OTC Market by two Kolokouris family brokerage accounts, where the purchase and sale were of substantially the same size and price, at substantially the same time, and were intended to raise or maintain artificially Arista’s OTC Market stock price. As used in this Complaint, “marking the close” refers to a Kolokouris family stock purchase on the OTC Market made at or near the end of the trading day, intended to raise or maintain artificially that day’s Arista stock closing price. In addition to those two forms of manipulative trades, the manipulative Public Kolokouris Stock Trades also included trades earlier in the trading day that ended up being, and that Kolokouris intended to be, the last trade on that particular day, and that Kolokouris intended to raise or maintain artificially the stock’s price. Kolokouris fraudulently intended all three forms of his manipulative trading to create the false appearance of actual trading in Arista stock.

75. From August 23, 2012 through January 25, 2013 (the manipulation period), through securities trading accounts held in the names of Kolokouris family members (or their entities), Kolokouris conducted at least 37 matched trades, and at least 20 instances of marking-the-close (or similar manipulative trades).

76. As Kolokouris intended, the Public Kolokouris Stock Trades had no economic purpose other than to support Arista's stock market price, to help induce and consummate the contemporaneous discounted Private Kolokouris Stock Sales. The mark-the-close trades cost the Kolokouris family a total of, at most, only approximately $10,173. Although the matched trades totaled $136,000, by their very nature, they did not constitute a net loss to the Kolokouris family (because Kolokouris or one of his family members was both the buyer and seller on each matched trade). Therefore the actual cost of Kolokouris' market manipulation scheme was, at most, only a little over $10,000, a small fraction of the $1 million that Kolokouris raised for Arista through the Private Kolokouris Stock Sales. Neither Kolokouris nor his family had any economic reason for engaging in simultaneous Public Kolokouris Stock Trades and Private Kolokouris Stock Sales other than to deceive the private investors and general public into purchasing Arista stock.

77. Using on-line trading services, Kolokouris either placed the Public Kolokouris Stock Trades himself or directed others to do so. Kolokouris conducted the 37 matched-trades through multiple securities accounts held in the names of Sophia Kolokouris, Janice Papapanu, 100 Demetrios, 200 Anastasios, 300 Ioannis, 400 Terry, 500 Sophia, Express Gold Cash, and Just Sell Gold. Similarly, Kolokouris conducted the 20 marking-the-close or similarly manipulative trades through multiple securities accounts held in the names of Janice Papapanu, 100 Demetrios, 200 Anastasios, and 300 Ioannis.

78. In the Private Kolokouris Stock Sales, Kolokouris sold Arista stock for approximately $1 per share. During the same time period, Arista's OTCQB public market price ranged from $1.12 to $2.02 per share. The Kolokouris manipulation scheme supported the Private Kolokouris Stock Sales by creating the false appearance that those stock sales were priced at a significant discount to the stock's public market price.

79. Also as part of Kolokouris' market manipulation scheme, the Public Kolokouris Stock Trades often constituted a significant percentage of Arista's daily OTCQB trading volume, thus creating the false appearance for the public that higher demand existed for Arista stock than in fact existed.

80. The following charts provide illustrative examples of Kolokouris' manipulative trading. The below chart shows the final public Arista trades on September 4, 5, and 7, 2012 (all caused by Kolokouris), at prices ranging from $1.75 - $1.80 per share. In each case, the Kolokouris stock purchase marked the close and raised Arista's OTCQB stock price from the OTCQB purchase immediately preceding it and, thus, artificially created a higher Arista closing OTCQB price for that day:

Date	Buyer	Mark the Close Trade Time	Mark the Close Price	# Shares	Previous Trade Time	Previous Trade Price
9/4/2012	Account of 200 Anastasios	3:17:09 PM	$1.8	100	12:57:31 PM	$1.61
9/5/2012	Account of Janice Papapanu	3:49:43 PM	$1.8	250	3:47:32 PM	$1.75
9/7/2012	Account of 200 Anastasios	2:14:18 PM	$1.75	100	1:20:08 PM	$1.64

81. Shortly after the above manipulative trades – on September 7 and 9, 2012 – Kolokouris caused two separate Private Kolokouris Stock Sales of his wife's Arista stock -- 20,000 and 50,000 shares, respectively – at the discounted price of $1 per share.

82. The below chart shows a Kolokouris matched trade on November 5, 2012 (which also happens to have been the last trade that day). The Kolokouris matched trade likewise artificially raised Arista's OTCQB stock price from the price of the trade immediately preceding it:

Date	Buyer/Seller	Matched TradeTime	Matched Price	#Shares	Previous TradeTime	Previous Price
11/5/2012	Buyer: 200 Anastasios Inc.  Seller: 400 Terry	1:23:08 PM	$1.76	100	1:13:18 PM	$1.66

83. The following day, November 6, 2012, Kolokouris caused the Private Kolokouris Stock Sale of 8,500 shares of Arista private stock held by Vasiliki Vlachou at $1 per share.

84. The stock sold in the Private Kolokouris Stock Sales was held in the names of Ekaterini Kolokouris, Ioannis "John" Kolokouris, Demitrios Kolokouris, Anastasios Kolokouris, and Vasiliki Vlachou. The Private Kolokouris Stock Sales were of significant magnitude and effectuated through the special sales efforts of Hughes, Kolokoris, and the other Arista Associates. Through the Kolokouris Family Traders accounts, Kolokouris directly or indirectly bid for or purchased Arista stock on the OTC Market at the same time as the Private Kolokouris Stock Sales. The Kolokouris Family Traders either authorized or otherwise allowed Kolokouris to conduct the Public Kolokouris Stock Trades through their various securities accounts.
