v.

Defendant.

MAGISTRATE JUDGE GERALDINE SOAT BROWN

COMPLAINT FOR TEMPORARY RESTRAINING ORDER, PRELIMINARY AND PERMANENT INJUNCTION, AND OTHER EQUITABLE RELIEF

Now comes the Plaintiff, United States Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission"), and alleges as follows:

NATURE OF THE COMPLAINT

postings and e-mails to conduct at least five "pump and dump" stock price manipulations from at least July 21 through August 22, 2000. In a pump and dump manipulation, the manipulator acquires publicly traded stock then puts out false information to pump up the perceived value of the stock and, finally, dumps his stock into the artificially inflated market that he created. For each pump and dump manipulation, Hogan has used the same technique. He targeted a company with common stock quoted on the Nasdaq OTC Bulletin Board ("the targeted company"). Prior to the pump of the targeted company, Hogan accumulated a position in the company's stock. Hogan then, after the close of the market and through the opening of the market the following trading day, used a variety of alias screen names to post hundreds of messages about the targeted company on Internet message boards and sent numerous e-mails with the identical message. The postings and e-mails falsely claimed that a well-known "blue chip" company would soon acquire the outstanding stock of the targeted company at a substantial premium over its current market price. Predictably, the postings and e-mails prompted a surge in the price and volume of the targeted company's stock. Hogan then liquidated his position, selling into the buying surge he created. Hogan has realized at least $42,750 in illicit profits from his scheme. Hogan's scheme has also caused investors to suffer potential losses of approximately $931,000.

2. Hogan, by manipulating the price of at least five publicly traded stocks, has violated Section 10(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act") [15 U.S.C. §78j(b)] and Rule 10b-5 thereunder [17 C.F.R. §240.10b-5]. Given that Hogan has already engaged in at least five such pump and dump manipulations since late July, there is a reasonable likelihood that, unless enjoined, he will continue to engage in transactions, acts, practices and courses of business the same as or similar to those set forth above.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

- 3. The Court has jurisdiction of this action pursuant to Section 27 of the Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. §78aa].
- 4. The Commission brings this action pursuant to Section 21(d) and 21(e) of the Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. §§78u(d) and 78u(e)]. Investors harmed by Hogan's fraudulent conduct are located throughout the United States, including in the Northern District of Illinois.

5. Hogan, directly and indirectly, has made, and is making, use of the mails, and of the means and instrumentalities of interstate commerce, in connection with the transactions, acts, practices and courses of business alleged in this Complaint.

THE DEFENDANT

6. Jesse Hogan is 24 years old and resides at 4665 Grafton Street, Burnaby, British Columbia, V5H 1M3, Canada. Hogan has identified himself, in securities trading account opening documents, as a sorter for a delivery service and a salesperson for a tool store in Burnaby, British Columbia.

THE FACTS

A. Overview of Hogan's Scheme

7. From at least July 21, 2000 through August 22, 2000, Hogan has orchestrated at least five pump and dump manipulations using the Internet. For each pump and dump, Hogan utilized the same technique. Prior to the pump, he used a brokerage account at TD Waterhouse Investor Services (Canada) Inc. ("TD Waterhouse (Canada)") to accumulate a position in the stock of the targeted company. Then, during the period from the close of the market through the opening of the market the following trading day, Hogan sent out spam Internet message board postings and e-mails claiming that a well-known company would soon acquire the outstanding stock of the targeted company at a substantial premium over its current market price. A message board is an Internet forum where Internet users have discussions and exchange information by posting messages to the message board. "Spam" refers to a single message that is sent, at or about the same time, to either: (1) multiple Internet message boards or news groups; or (2) multiple e-mail addresses. For the spam postings, Hogan has used between four and eight screen names and posted hundreds of messages on hundreds of Yahoo! Finance, Raging Bull, Inc. ("Raging Bull") and Silicon Investor message boards. At the same time that he posted these messages, Hogan sent spam e-mails containing the same false message, designating the e-mails "From: 'Jesse Hogan' <jhogan007@home.com>."

After the market opened, Hogan posted additional messages on Internet message boards meant to create the appearance of an ongoing conversation among investors about the targeted company's stock. Hogan's spam Internet postings and e-mails caused the targeted company's stock price and volume to increase significantly on the trading day after the spams. Once the price of the stock began to increase, Hogan sold off his shares for a profit. Altogether, Hogan made at least $42,750 in illegal profits from his scheme.

B. The Astrocom Pump and Dump

- 8. Hogan began his scheme by acquiring a substantial position in Astrocom Corporation ("Astrocom") stock. Hogan started accumulating shares of Astrocom on July 18, 2000. Prior to the pump, he bought 25,000 shares of Astrocom. He purchased the shares between $0.437 and $0.468 per share, paying a total of $11,260.16.
- 9. After the market closed on Thursday, July 20, Hogan unleashed an Internet message board and e-mail campaign to pump up Astrocom's stock price. Using previously created alias screen names, Hogan posted 438 identical messages on hundreds of Yahoo! Finance message boards. The message header stated, "JDSU to acquire

ATCC (NASDAQ:OTCBB)"(bold in original). JDSU is the ticker symbol for JDS Uniphase Corporation ("JDS Uniphase") and ATCC is the ticker symbol for Astrocom.

Hogan made the following statements in the content of the message that were designed to attract investor interest:

- JDS Uniphase "is reportedly acquiring" all of Astrocom's outstanding shares for $7.00 cash per share;
- Astrocom "is highly likely to be acquired due to consolidation in the broadband, wireless, and fibre optic networking industry;" and
- "Sources close to the deal were not available for comment."
- 10. In addition, after the market closed on Thursday, July 20, Hogan posted virtually the same message under an alias screen name on the Silicon Investor "THE GOLDEN LISTS" message board.
- He sent out e-mails containing the same message as the spam postings at around the same time as he made the postings. After the market opened on Friday, July 21, he also posted a message on at least one Silicon Investor message board. This post had a positive tone, reported the price increase for Astrocom stock, and was meant to create the appearance of an ongoing conversation among investors about Astrocom stock.
- 12. Hogan's numerous Internet postings and e-mails contained false and misleading information about Astrocom. JDS Uniphase had no imminent plans to acquire Astrocom, or even to enter into any type of strategic relationship with Astrocom.
- 13. Hogan knew or was reckless in not knowing that his Internet postings and e-mails were false. He had no reason to believe that the statements contained in his postings had any factual support. Further, Hogan was strategically positioned to profit from the false postings and e-mails, and did so. Hogan also was careful to conceal his identity through the use of multiple Internet aliases.

14. Hogan cashed in on the demand for Astrocom stock created by his Internet campaign. The false Internet postings and spam e-mails precipitated a buying surge in Astrocom. By 10:10 a.m. EDT on Friday, July 21, the price for Astrocom stock rose from a closing price of $0.4925 on Thursday to $1.53125 per share, an increase of 211 percent. Further, more than 1,624,700 shares of Astrocom traded on July 21, which was approximately 2,556 percent greater than the previous day's volume. Other than the false and misleading postings, there was no other significant news item, press release or other publicly disseminated corporate information relating to Astrocom that could explain the spike in trading. Hogan sold all of his Astrocom position on Friday, July 21, at prices ranging between $0.718 and $1.495 per share, and realized $12,158.85 in profits. By Monday, July 24, Astrocom's stock price returned to a $0.50 to $0.60 per share price range.

C. The MicroTel Pump and Dump

- 15. Hogan began to accumulate shares of MicroTel International, Inc. ("MicroTel") (ticker symbol MCTL) on July 24, 2000. Prior to the pump, he bought 20,000 shares of MicroTel. He purchased the shares between $0.529 and $0.550 per share, at a total cost of $10,861.52
- 16. After the market closed on Wednesday, July 26, Hogan began his full-scale Internet message board and e-mail campaign to pump up MicroTel's stock price.

Using previously created alias screen names, Hogan posted 468 copies of the identical message on numerous Yahoo! Finance message boards. The message header stated, "MCTL to be acquired very soon" (bold in original). In the body of the message, Hogan made the following statements:

- MicroTel was likely to be acquired for a minimum of $5 per share "according to our sources close to the company;" and
- The companies likely to acquire MicroTel were Lucent Technologies, Inc. ("Lucent") or F5 Networks, Inc. ("F5 Networks").
- 17. Hogan, after the market closed on Wednesday, July 26, posted virtually the same message under an alias screen name on at least two Silicon Investor message boards.
- 18. Hogan then continued his effort to pump up the value of MicroTel stock.

  He sent out e-mails containing the same message as the spam postings at around the same time as he made the postings.
- 19. Hogan's numerous Internet postings and e-mails contained false and misleading information about MicroTel. MicroTel, at the time of the spam e-mails and postings, was not aware of any plans by Lucent or F5 Networks to acquire MicroTel.
- 20. Hogan knew or was reckless in not knowing that his Internet postings and e-mails were false. He had no reason to believe that the statements contained in his postings had any factual support. Further, Hogan was strategically positioned to profit from the false postings and e-mails, and he did so. Hogan also was careful to conceal his identity through the use of multiple Internet aliases.

21. Hogan cashed in on the surge in demand created by his Internet campaign. The false Internet postings and spam e-mails precipitated a buying surge in MicroTel. By 10:55 a.m. EDT on Thursday, July 27, the price for MicroTel stock rose from a closing price of $0.515625 on Wednesday to $.875 per share, an increase of 70 percent.

Moreover, 925,100 shares of MicroTel stock traded that day, which was more than a 2,265 percent increase from the previous day's volume. Other than the false and misleading postings, there was no other significant news item, press release or other publicly disseminated corporate information relating to MicroTel that could explain the spike in trading. Hogan sold his entire position in MicroTel stock on Thursday, July 27, at prices ranging between $0.718 and $0.812 per share, and realized $3,674.68 in profits. By the end of that Thursday, MicroTel's stock price closed at $0.625.

D. The AM Communications Pump and Dump

- 22. Hogan started accumulating shares of AM Communications, Inc. ("AM Communications") (ticker symbol AMCM) on July 27, 2000. Prior to the pump, he bought 27,000 shares of AM Communications. He purchased the shares between $0.562 and $0.625 per share, for a total cost of $16,097.28.
- 23. Hogan began his full-scale Internet message board and e-mail campaign to pump up AM Communications' stock price on Sunday, July 30. Using previously created alias screen names, Hogan posted 468 copies of the identical message on numerous Yahoo! Finance message boards. The message header stated, "MOT, HLIT likely to buyout AMCM." MOT is the ticker symbol for Motorola, Inc. ("Motorola") and HLIT is the ticker symbol for Harmonic, Inc. ("Harmonic"). In the body of the message, Hogan said that Motorola or Harmonic was likely to acquire AM Communications for approximately $8 per share.

- 24. Hogan, also on July 30, posted virtually the same message under an alias screen name on at least two Silicon Investor message boards.
- 25. Hogan then continued his effort to pump up the value of AM Communications stock. He sent out e-mails containing the same message as the spam postings at around the same time as he made the postings. After the market opened on Monday, July 31, he also posted a number of messages under an alias screen name on at least one Silicon Investor message board. These posts had a positive tone, predicted price increases for AM Communications stock, and were meant to create the appearance of an ongoing conversation among investors about AM Communications stock.
- 26. Hogan's numerous Internet postings and e-mails contained false and misleading information about AM Communications. AM Communications was not aware of any plans by Motorola or Harmonic to acquire AM Communications.
- 27. Hogan knew or was reckless in not knowing that his Internet postings and e-mails were false. He had no reason to believe that the statements contained in his postings had any factual support. Further, Hogan was strategically positioned to profit from the false postings and e-mails, and he did so. Hogan also was careful to conceal his identity through the use of multiple Internet aliases.
- 28. Hogan cashed in on the buying surge created by his Internet campaign.

  The false Internet postings and spam e-mails precipitated strong demand for AM

  Communications stock. By 1:12 p.m. EDT on Monday, July 31, the price for AM

Communications stock rose from a closing price of $0.625 on Friday, July 28, 2000 to $1.15625 per share, an increase of 85 percent. Moreover, AM Communications' volume for the day was 619,200 shares, an increase of more than 725 percent from the previous Friday's volume. Other than the false and misleading postings, there is no other significant news item, press release or other publicly disseminated corporate information relating to AM Communications that could explain the spike in trading. Hogan sold most of his AM Communications shares on Monday, July 31, at prices ranging between $0.69 and $1.062 per share. Hogan sold his remaining AM Communications shares on August 1, at prices ranging from $0.875 and $0.95. Hogan realized $5,524.75 in profits. By the end of that Thursday, AM Communications' stock price closed at $0.625. Thereafter, the price of AM Communications stock increased to around $1.00 on the news of increased revenues.

E. The Egan Pump and Dump

- 29. Hogan began accumulating shares of Egan Systems, Inc. ("Egan") (ticker symbol EGNS) on August 16, 2000. Prior to the pump, he bought 150,000 shares of Egan. He purchased the shares between $0.110 and $0.120 per share, for a total cost of $17,026.62.
- 30. After the market closed on Wednesday, August 16, Hogan unleashed a full-scale Internet message board and e-mail campaign to pump up Egan's stock price. Employing previously created alias screen names, Hogan posted numerous copies of the identical message on numerous Yahoo! Finance message boards. The message header stated, "CORL to acquire EGNS." CORL is the ticker symbol for Corel Corporation ("Corel"), a major software developer. In the message, Hogan stated that Corel was "reportedly acquiring" Egan for $1.50 per share.

- 31. After the market closed on August 16, Hogan also posted the message under an alias screen name on at least two Silicon Investor message boards.
- 32. Hogan then continued his effort to pump up the value of Egan stock. He sent out e-mails containing the same message as the spam postings at around the same time as he made the postings.
- 33. Hogan's numerous Internet postings and e-mails contained false and misleading information about Egan. Egan, at the time of the spam e-mails and postings, was not aware of any plans by Corel to acquire Egan.
- 34. Hogan knew or was reckless in not knowing that his Internet postings and e-mails were false. He had no reason to believe that the statements contained in his postings had any factual support. Further, Hogan was strategically positioned to profit from the false postings and e-mails, and he did so. Hogan also was careful to conceal his identity through the use of multiple Internet aliases.
- 35. Hogan cashed in on the increased demand for Egan stock caused by his Internet campaign. The false Internet postings and spam e-mails precipitated a buying surge in Egan. By 10:05 a.m. EDT on Thursday, August 17, the price for Egan stock rose from a closing price of $0.12 on Wednesday to $.30 per share, an increase of 150 percent. Moreover, 2,354,800 shares of Egan stock traded on August 17, which represented a volume increase of more than 296 percent from the previous day. Other than the false and misleading postings, there was no other significant news item, press release or other publicly disseminated corporate information relating to Egan that could explain the spike in trading. Hogan sold his entire position in Egan stock on Thursday, August 17, at prices ranging between $0.17 and $0.29 per share, and realized $18,741.13 in profits. By the end of that Thursday, Egan's stock price closed at $0.19.

F. The RSI Systems Pump and Dump

- 36. Hogan began accumulating shares of RSI Systems, Inc. ("RSI Systems") (ticker symbol RSIS) on August 18, 2000. Prior to the pump, he bought 25,000 shares of RSI Systems. He purchased the shares between $0.313 and $0.375 per share, for a total cost of $8,617.21.
- 37. After the market closed on Monday, August 21, Hogan orchestrated a full-scale Internet message board and e-mail campaign designed to pump up RSI Systems' stock price. Using previously created alias screen names, Hogan posted many copies of the same message on numerous Yahoo! Finance message boards. The message header stated, "RSIS likely takeover candidate." Hogan made the following statements in the body of the message:
  - RSI Systems rumored to be acquired by two "potential bidders listed on the NASDAQ;" and
  - RSI Systems was likely to be acquired for approximately $4 per share.
- 38. After the market closed on August 21, Hogan also posted the same message under an alias screen name on at least two Silicon Investor message boards.
- 39. Hogan then continued his effort to pump up the value of RSI Systems stock. He sent out e-mails containing the same message as the spam postings at around the same time as he made the postings. After the market opened on Tuesday, August 22, he also posted at least one message under an alias screen names on a Silicon Investor message board. This post had a positive tone, predicted price increases for RSI Systems stock, and was meant to create the appearance of an ongoing conversation among investors about RSI Systems stock.

- 40. Hogan's numerous Internet postings and e-mails contained false and misleading information about RSI Systems. RSI Systems, at the time of the spam e-mails and postings, was not aware of any plans by any company to acquire RSI Systems.
- 41. Hogan knew or was reckless in not knowing that his Internet postings and e-mails were false. He had no reason to believe that the statements contained in his postings had any factual support. Further, Hogan was strategically positioned to profit from the false postings and e-mails, and he did so. Hogan also was careful to conceal his identity through the use of multiple Internet aliases.
- 42. Hogan cashed in on the buying surge created by his Internet spam campaign. The false Internet postings and spam e-mails prompted strong demand for RSI Systems stock. By 12:40 a.m. EDT on Tuesday, August 22, the price for RSI Systems stock rose from a closing price of $0.375 on Monday to $.59375 per share, an increase of 58 percent. Moreover, 289,600 shares of RSI Systems traded on August 22, an increase of more than 479 percent from the previous day's volume. Other than the false and misleading postings, no other significant news item, press release or other publicly disseminated corporate information relating to RSI Systems that could explain the spike in trading. Hogan sold his entire position in RSI Systems stock on Tuesday, August 22, at prices ranging between $0.376 and $0.531 per share, and realized approximately $2,653.52 in profits. By the end of that Tuesday, RSI Systems' stock price closed at $0.50.

G. Linking Hogan to the Scheme

43. A number of facts link Hogan to the scheme. First, Internet tracing information for the postings and e-mails points to Hogan. The individual who sent the false e-mails described above did so by designating the e-mails "From: 'Jesse Hogan' <jhogan007@home.com>." According to the provider of this e-mail address, the address was created through an account of its subscriber, who resides at the same address as Jesse Hogan. Additionally, as described in the affidavit of Daryl E. Hartman, the postings on internet message boards have been traced to a computer address associated with Hogan's place of residence. Further, Hogan used the above e-mail address to create many of the alias screen names used for the spam postings in each of the manipulations described above. Other alias screen names used for the spams were created using a Hotmail e-mail address that, in turn, Hogan created using his real name and place of residence. Second, Hogan's TD Waterhouse trading records show that Hogan has traded at strategic times in the targeted companies, profited from his trading and directed proceeds from the trading to his checking account with a Canadian bank. All of these factors strongly link Hogan to the scheme.

COUNT I

Violations of Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act [15 U.S. C. §78j(b)] and Rule 10b-5 [17 C.F.R. §240.10b-5] thereunder

- 44. Paragraphs 1 through 43 are realleged and incorporated by reference.
- 45. From at least July 2000 through the present, Defendant Hogan, in connection with the purchase and sale of securities in the form of common stock, by the use of the means and instrumentalities of interstate commerce and of the mails, directly and indirectly, has employed and is employing devices, schemes and artifices to defraud; has made and is making untrue statements of material fact and has omitted and is omitting to state material facts necessary in order to make the statements made, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading; and has engaged and is engaging in acts, practices and courses of business which have operated and will operate as a fraud and deceit upon investors and prospective investors, all as more fully described in Paragraphs 1 through 43.
- 46. Defendant Hogan knew or was reckless in not knowing of the facts and circumstances described in Paragraphs 1 through 43.
- 47. By reason of the activities described in Paragraphs 1 through 46,
  Defendant Hogan has violated and is violating Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act [15
  U.S.C. §78j (b)] and Rule 10b-5 [17 C.F.R.§240.10b-5] thereunder.

WHEREFORE, the Plaintiff respectfully requests that this Court:

I.

Find that Defendant Hogan committed the violations alleged above.

II.

Grant a Temporary Restraining Order and Orders of Preliminary and Permanent Injunction, in forms consistent with Rule 65(d) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, restraining and enjoining Defendant Hogan, his officers, agents, servants, employees, attorneys, and those persons in active concert or participation with him who receive actual notice of the Temporary Restraining Order and Orders of Preliminary and Permanent Injunction by personal service or otherwise, and each of them, from directly or indirectly engaging in the acts, practices or courses of business that violate Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. §78j(b)] and Rule 10b-5 thereunder [17 C.F.R. 240.10b-5], and from engaging in acts, practices, and courses of business of similar purport and object in connection with transactions in any securities.

III.

Enter an Order restraining and enjoining:

A. Defendant Hogan, his officers, agents, servants, employees, attorneys, and those persons in active concert or participation with him who receive actual notice of the Temporary Restraining Order, the Order of Preliminary Injunction and the Order of Permanent Injunction by personal service or otherwise, and each of them, from directly or indirectly destroying, mutilating, concealing, altering or disposing of in any manner, any of the books, records, documents, computer data, correspondence, brochures, manuals, obligations or other property of or pertaining to the Defendant, wherever located.

B. Defendant Hogan, his officers, agents, servants, employees, attorneys, and those persons in active concert or participation with him who receive actual notice of the Temporary Restraining Order, the Order of Preliminary Injunction and the Order of Permanent Injunction by personal service or otherwise, and each of them, from directly or indirectly transferring, selling, assigning, pledging, dissipating, concealing or otherwise disposing of in any manner, any funds, assets, or other property belonging to, or in the possession, custody or control of Hogan, wherever located.

IV.

Grant an Order requiring the Defendant Hogan, to:

- A. produce to the Plaintiff, within four days of the issuance of the Temporary Restraining Order, all books, records and other documents (including any computer files) in the Defendant's actual or constructive possession relating to the information that he disseminated using the Internet and any other means concerning Astrocom, Microtel, AM Communications, Egan and RSI Systems.
- B. provide an accounting of all proceeds Hogan has received from the trading activities described in this Complaint, the uses to which such funds were put and the amounts of any remaining such funds and their location; provided, however, that nothing in the Order shall be construed to require Defendant to abandon any constitutional or other legal privilege that he may have available to him.

V.

Grant an Order requiring Defendant Hogan, to disgorge any and all ill-gotten gains (including prejudgment interest).

VI.

Grant an Order imposing appropriate civil penalties against Defendant Hogan in accordance with Section 21(d)(3) of the Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. §78u(d)(3)].

VII.

Retain jurisdiction of this action in accordance with the principles of equity and the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure in order to implement and carry out the terms of all orders and decrees that may be entered or to entertain any suitable application or motion for additional relief within the jurisdiction of this Court.

VIII.

Grant Orders for such further relief as the Court may deem appropriate.

Respectfully Submitted,
